A Doer of the Word.

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

ON THE Los Angeles flying field at 12:30 yesterday Maj. Mosely said: "Kelly will be along any minute now."

There appears a speak in the sky and along comes Kelly, leaning over his right wing as he curves around the landing field, then taxies up, with the rear of propeller and engine dying down.

A LITTLE Ford mail wagon picks up 220 pounds of mail, as a chippy bird might take a worm from an eagle, and hurries away to the postoffice.

Out climbs the pilot, F. W. Kelly, and from the passenger seat down comes F. A. Hunt of the Salt Lake Telegram, "making the round trip just for the ride."

They had left Salt Lake at 5:50 in the morning, stopped at Las Vegas, and made the 600-mile trip in five hours and ten minutes actual flying time.

KELLY'S mind is not on flying. He is showing other men on the field a bright pink contrivance, in which a baby can sit, out of danger, suspended from the ceiling. It's for his small boy, born the night before he started on this round trip.

"IS FLYING SAFE?" says he. "Of course, [illegible] ning around the city in that automobile the way they drive now."

Flying seems so natural that this pilot wonders why you ask about it.

Since he took this job, last April, Kelly has made the trip between Salt Lake City and the Pacific 110 times, 66,000 flying miles. He has two day's rest between flights.

Before he flew Kelly held the world's record for high hurdles. He is taking higher hurdles now over the mountains that separate Salt Lake City and the Pacific.

His first hop as he starts east in the morning is 8,000 feet high over the Cajon pass, that leads up from the Pacific to the Mojave valley.

THE flying machine, invented in America, is a success, and this country could produce pilots by the thousand.

Why must the richest government on earth rely on private commercial enterprise for its flying equipment?

CATHERINE DENINO will be tried for murder. She is now 16, and married. When only 12, she had fallen into the hands of a villain named Louis Fino, and when she married he wrote that unless she sent money he would tell her husband about her past.

The husband saw the letter and put her out. She traveled from Chicago to New York and found Louis Fino, stepping out of a barber shop, neatly shaved, with a new haircut. It was his last.

SPECULATORS OFFER SEATS AT PRICES OF $10 AND $15

Pay for Six, But Receive Allotments of Four.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—A congressional investigation into the distribution of tickets to the annual army and navy football classic, to be played in Chicago this year, was demanded today by Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., Republican, of New York, as a result of charges of ticket speculation.

Hold $3,500 Congressional Money.

Incensed by his failure to get tickets at the usual price, while thousands of pasteboards can be bought at higher prices, Fish declared he was considering the introduction of a resolution, calling for an inquiry, as soon as congress convenes.

The principal complaint against officials of the game was that they reduced the congressional allotment without warning. In all, 435 congressmen and 96 senators will get but 2,124 tickets out of the 100,000 placed on sale. If this quota had been set originally, there might have been much grumbling but peace might have been preserved.

Under the present conditions, however, senators and representatives were promised six tickets apiece. The purchasers then sent in their checks for six tickets and over the last weekend, they received their pasteboards. They learned then that some one had reduced the individual allotments to four tickets, while retaining the price of the other two tickets. Somewhere, somebody is holding about $3,500 of congressional money, as the tickets were sold for $3.50 each.

Hint Secretaries in Market.

On top of this bad news, senators and congressmen received notice they could buy anywhere up to 20 tickets if they were willing to pay $10 and $15 apiece. To the congressional mind, this smacked of evidence that a senagambian might be hidden in the football woodpile.

The reduction of their tickets, too, led to serious complications in

STEUBENVILLE SELLS COAL AT 23 CENTS AFTER PRICES TUMBLE

East Liverpool Dealers Ask 28 and 30 for Deliveries.

Salem Cuts Lump From 36 to 28 Cents.

While coal consumers in Steubenville were paying 23 cents per bushel, retail prices in the East Liverpool district today remained at 28 and 30 cents per bushel, according to quotations made by dealers.

PRICE OF COAL IN FIVE TOWNS

Coal prices in East Liverpool and surrounding towns today were as follows:
East Liverpool—lump, 28 and 30 cents; nut, 26 cents.
Wellsville—lump, 30 cents; nut, 26 cents.
Chester—lump, 28 cents.
Steubenville—lump, 23 cents.
Salem—lump, 28 cents.

Three weeks ago, coal jumped from 23 and 24 cents per bushel to 32 cents here. For a few days it was quoted at 34 cents, and then it dropped to 32 cents. Today dealers were accepting orders for deliveries in large amounts in the down town district at 28 cents and for smaller amounts in the outlying sections at 30 cents. A lower grade nut coal was being delivered for 26 cents.

The Steubenville Coal and Mining company, controlling approximately 98 per cent of the business in Steubenville, today was making deliveries of lump coal from its mine and tipple at 23 cents per bushel. There are no dealers in Pittsburgh coal in Steubenville, but the product of this mine having an output of about 600 tons daily is said to be as good as western Pennsylvania fuel.

HOUSE OF DAVID CHIEF POSTS $50,000 BOND; EIGHT OTHERS CAUGHT

STATE TROOPS ACT UPON TIP GIVEN BY ONE OF ALLEGED WOMEN VICTIMS

Wearing Only Underwear and Heavy Sweater, Purnell Refuses to Answer Queries of His Questioners as He Sits Mute in Cell in Berrien County Jail.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Nov. 17.—"King" Benjamin Purnell, ruler of the House of David, was back at the colony today under $50,000 bail and with deputy sheriffs guarding him following his arrest in a raid on the colony last night.

King Ben went to court today for the first time in his life. He was arraigned before Miss Elizabeth Forham, justice of the peace, on charges brought four years ago by Ruth Bamford Reed and Gladys Bamford Rubel, former members of the cult. W. J. Barnard, Ben's attorney, waived reading of the warrant and demanded an examination which was set for Dec. 22. After bail had been furnished Barnard agreed to the court's provision that deputy sheriffs guard the cult buildings night and day until the examination.

The notorious leader of the House of David was arrested with eight of his followers at midnight last night by Inspector Ira H. Marmon and 15 of his state troopers in the administration building of the Shiloh colony.

The raid followed tips from a neighboring farmer and one of King Ben's alleged women victims.

Wearing only his underwear and a heavy sweater, King Ben appeared obviously a sick man and since his arrest he has sat mute in his cell in the Berrien county jail, his eyes downcast and refusing to answer any of the many queries of his questioners. He still wore his long, gray, flowing whiskers.

Protected by Followers.

"King" Ben's arrest followed a four-year international search which grew out of sensational charges brought against him by girl members of his cult. During all this time, the cult leader has been under the protection of his followers at the House of David, according to tips furnished Allen G. Straight, state commissioner of public safety.

The statement today of William J. Barnard, of Paw Paw, Mich., the cult leader's attorney, was that Ben had not been in the colony, but has been traveling about the country, was denied by Straight.

"We have definite information that Ben has been hiding in Shiloh all this time,' said Straight. "Here's how we got the tip that led to his arrest.

"Mrs. Bessie Woodworth, a former girl ward of Purnell, who was ousted from the colony after alleged maltreatment by him, complained to a neighboring farmer near Benton Harbor and told the man Ben was still in hiding there.

"About a week ago, the farmer wrote me concerning this information, and I ordered Inspector Marmon with 15 troopers to make the raid last night.

"My orders were to conduct the raid as quietly as possible, and reports of axe smashing and the finding of women companions with him is

Lorain Boy, 16, Sought as Violator Of Prohibition Law

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 17.—A warrant for the arrest of the youngest alleged violator of the national prohibition act ever issued here, was made out by federal authorities today for John Kachur, 16, a high school student, of Lorain, O.

Another warrant was issued for Eugene Eddy, proprietor of a drug store at Lorain and employer of Kachur.

Federal agents charged that the druggist paid the youth $9 a week to carry liquor from the drug store to the rendezvous of a bootlegger where it was dispensed.

TWO TOTS DIE AS HOME BURNS

Elyria Mother is Burned in Attempt to Rescue Them.

ELYRIA, O., Nov. 17. — Arline, 2, and Myron, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Dennison, of Birmingham, Erie county, were burned to death in their home this morning. Mrs. Dennison was so seriously burned in attempting to save her children, that it is believed she will die.

The mother was in the yard of the home when she saw flames flash from an open door.

Mrs. Dennison dashed into the blazing building and was overcome by smoke. Neighbors rescued her although she had been badly burned by her flaming clothing.

Bodies of the children have not been recovered.

Golf Club Stocks Are Subject to 10 Per Cent Tax

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Payments made to golf, social, athletic or sporting clubs for stock or membership certificates are subject to a 10 per cent tax, the United States court of claims ruled in a test case brought by the Alliance Country club of Alliance, Nebraska.

Heretofore, the treasury has exacted the tax by construing the term "initiation fee" to include payments for stocks in clubs.

Investments in club stock, which may be repaid to the purchaser, cannot be construed as an initiation fee, the court held.

Clubs are now entitled to bring suit on behalf of members to recover taxes erroneously or illegally collected.

"Laughlin Jubilee Day" Program at Kiwanis Luncheon

A committee, consisting of W. A. Weaver, Walter B. Hill, T. V. Milligan, Olen Dawson, and Dr. George Lewis, has been named to arrange a list of candidates for officers of the Kiwanis club, to be elected at the meeting on Thursday, December 16.

Candidates for president, first and second vice presidents, treasurer, trustee and board of directors will be nominated. The new officers will be installed early in January.

At tomorrow's meeting "Hugh Laughlin Jubilee Day" will be observed. The club's "pep-maker" will feature a program of group singing and chorus numbers.

DRIVERS UNHURT IN AUTO CRASH

Two drivers were unhurt when two automobiles crashed head-on on Pennsylvania avenue near the Fisher bakery site at 7 o'clock last evening.

The cars, a Nash sedan, driven by William Rogers, Pennsylvania avenue insurance man, traveling east, and a Buick roadster, driven by Donald Glass, street car conductor, going west, were badly damaged. The Glass machine was hurled across the street car tracks into the ditch on the north side of the road. The cars were removed by the McElravy wrecking equipment.

Police investigated, but no arrests were made.

HALL-MILLS MURDER TRIAL DEFENSE WILL CALL AT LEAST 80 WITNESSES, INCLUDING WIDOW AND HER TWO BROTHERS

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 17. — Eighty witnesses, at least, will be called by the defense in the Hall-Mills murder trial, it was learned from an authoritative source today.

The defense witnesses will include the three defendants, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, as well as Felix Di Martini, the private detective whose activities in Mrs. Hall's behalf are alleged to have gone so far he attempted to bribe one woman who "knew too much" for $2,500.

Di Martini will be called, it was positively stated, to combat the startling evidence given yesterday by Mrs. Marie Demarest, middle aged housewife of New Brunswick, who testified Di Martini offered to pay off the $2,500 mortgage on her home if she would "forget" she saw Henry Stevens in New Brunswick the morning after the Rev. Edward W. Hall and his pretty young choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, were shot to death in De Russey's lane four years ago. Henry Stevens claimed he was in Lavalette, N. J., his home, on that morning. Di Martini was employed by Mrs. Hall for several months after the murders as her private investigator. For a time he lived in the Hall home.

Call Mrs. Gibson Tomorrow.

Mrs. Jane Gibson's "eye witness story," tomorrow, the last big gun to be fired by the state, will be counteracted by the defense with the testimony of Mrs. Salome Gerrenner, her mother, who will attack Mrs. Gibson's character and veracity.

Mrs. Hall is represented as eager to clear herself before the world from the witness stand. So are her two brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens.

"Mrs. Gibson has made certain definite charges which involve me and which are untrue," Mrs. Hall is quoted as saying. "It will be necessary, I suppose, for me personally to deny them, which I most certainly will do.

Court Adjourned Today.

"I am not guilty of any crime. I have nothing to conceal and I am perfectly willing to face cross examination."

The "million dollar" defense today took advantage of the one-day adjournment of court to put the finishing touches to their case. They were quartered around their conference table in the library of the palatial mansion of Trowbridge Callaway, baker, at Royce alley, three miles south of Somerville. There, every night since the trial opened, the defense' attorneys have held lengthy conferences, mapping out plans to meet the unexpected and dramatic moves of the spectacular prosecutor for the state, Alexander Simpson.

The defense plans a smashing offensive as soon as the state's case is in. The defense will call anywhere from 80 to 140 witnesses, but in all probability the number will not go over 100.

One of the first objects of attack will be the calling card found at the feet of Dr. Hall when the bodies were found in De Russey's lane. The state has contended that the card bears the finger prints of Willie Stevens and brought forward two noted fingerprint experts who testified that the fingerprints were those of Willie's left index finger.

Attack on Fingerprints.

The defense's attack on the card will be led by J. H. Taylor, a federal expert in the identification section of the Navy department. Taylor identified the dead taken from the submarine S-51, sunk off Block Island in September, 1922, with a loss of 33 lives, and also identified service men who were killed in the arsenal explosion at Dover, N. J., last summer.

The defense will also assail the story told on the witness stand by William ("Greasy Vest") Garvin, formerly New York manager of the Burns Detective agency, who testified that Ralph V. Gorsline, vestryman of the slain minister's church came to him "conscience stricken' and told him that he saw Henry Stevens in De Russey's lane on the night of the murder. Gorsline was in the [illegible] that night in a parked car with a [illegible] Garvin said Gorsline told him [illegible]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. — A congressional investigation into the distribution of tickets to the annual army and navy football classic, to be played in Chicago this year, was demanded today by Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., Republican, of New York, as a result of charges of ticket speculation.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Nov. 17.—"King" Benjamin Purnell, ruler of the House of David, was back at the colony today under $50,000 bail and with deputy sheriffs guarding him following his arrest in a raid on the colony last night.

King Ben went to court today for the first time in his life. He was arraigned before Miss Elizabeth Forham, justice of the peace, on charges brought four years ago by Ruth Bamford Reed and Gladys Bamford Rubel, former members of the cult. W. J. Barnard, Ben's attorney, waived reading of the warrant and demanded an examination which was set for Dec. 22. After bail had been furnished Barnard agreed to the court's provision that deputy sheriffs guard the cult buildings night and day until the examination.

The notorious leader of the House of David was arrested with eight of his followers at midnight last night by Inspector Ira H. Marmon and 15 of his state troopers in the administration building of the Shiloh colony.

The raid followed tips from a neighboring farmer and one of King Ben's alleged women victims.

Wearing only his underwear and a heavy sweater, King Ben appeared obviously a sick man and since his arrest he has sat mute in his cell in the Berrien county jail, his eyes downcast and refusing to answer any of the many queries of his questioners. He still wore his long, gray, flowing whiskers.

Protected by Followers.

"King" Ben's arrest followed a four-year international search which grew out of sensational charges brought against him by girl members of his cult. During all this time, the cult leader has been under the protection of his followers at the House of David, according to tips furnished Allen G. Straight, state commissioner of public safety.

The statement today of William J. Barnard, of Paw Paw, Mich., the cult leader's attorney, was that Ben had not been in the colony, but has been traveling about the country, was denied by Straight.

"We have definite information that Ben has been hiding in Shiloh all this time,' said Straight. "Here's how we got the tip that led to his arrest.

"Mrs. Bessie Woodworth, a former girl ward of Purnell, who was ousted from the colony after alleged maltreatment by him, complained to a neighboring farmer near Benton Harbor and told the man Ben was still in hiding there.

"About a week ago, the farmer wrote me concerning this information, and I ordered Inspector Marmon with 15 troopers to make the raid last night.

"My orders were to conduct the raid as quietly as possible, and reports of axe smashing and the finding of women companions with him in

STOLEN TOURING CAR RECOVERED

A Ford touring car belonging to K. D. Adams, employed at Dam No. 8, near Kenilworth, was stolen while parked on St. Clair avenue last night while Adams was attending the Strand theatre. The machine was found today near the corner of Green lane and Spring street, where it had been abandoned.

Lorain Boy, 16, Sought as Violator Of Prohibition Law

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 17.—A warrant for the arrest of the youngest alleged violator of the national prohibition act ever issued here, was made out by federal authorities today for John Kachur, 16, a high school student, of Lorain, O.

Another warrant was issued for Eugene Eddy, proprietor of a drug store at Lorain and employer of Kachur.

Federal agents charged that the druggist paid the youth $9 a week to carry liquor from the drug store to the rendezvous of a bootlegger where it was dispensed.

TWO TOTS DIE AS HOME BURNS

Elyria Mother is Burned in Attempt to Rescue Them.

ELYRIA, O., Nov. 17. — Arline, [illegible] and Myron, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Dennison, of Birmingham, Erie county, were burned to death in their home this morning. Mrs. Dennison was so seriously burned in attempting to save her children, that it is believed she will die.

The mother was in the yard of the home when she saw flames flash from an open door.

Mrs. Dennison dashed into the blazing building and was overcome by smoke. Neighbors rescued her although she had been badly burned by her flaming clothing.

Bodies of the children have not been recovered.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 17. — Eighty witnesses, at least, will be called by the defense in the Hall-Mills murder trial, it was learned from an authoritative source today.

The defense witnesses will include the three defendants, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, as well as Feilx Di Martini, the private detective whose activities in Mrs. Hall's behalf are alleged to have gone so far he attempted to bribe one woman who 'knew too much" for $2,500.

Di Martini will be called, it was positively stated, to combat the startling evidence given yesterday by Mrs. Marie Demarest, middle aged housewife of New Brunswick, who testified Di Martini offered to pay off the $2,500 mortgage on her home if she would "forget" she saw Henry Stevens in New Brunswick the morning after the Rev. Edward W. Hall and his pretty young choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, were shot to death in De Russey's lane four years ago. Henry Stevens claimed he was in Lavalette, N. J., his home, on that morning. Di Martini was employed by Mrs. Hall for several months after the murders as her private investigator. For a time he lived in the Hall home.

Call Mrs. Gibson Tomorrow.

Mrs. Jane Gibson's "eye witness story," tomorrow, the last big gun to be fired by the state, will be counteracted by the defense with the testimony of Mrs. Salome Gerrenner, her mother, who will attack Mrs. Gibson's character and veracity.

Mrs. Hall is represented as eager to clear herself before the world from the witness stand. So are her two brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens.

"Mrs. Gibson has made certain definite charges which involve me and which are untrue," Mrs. Hall is quoted as saying. "It will be necessary, I suppose, for me personally to deny them, which I most certainly will do.

Court Adjourned Today.

"I am not guilty of any crime. I have nothing to conceal and I am perfectly willing to face cross examination."

The "million dollar" defense today took advantage of the one-day adjournment of court to put the finishing touches to their case. They were quartered around their conference table in the library of the palatial mansion of Trowbridge Callaway, baker, at Royce alley, three miles south of Somerville. There, every night since the trial opened, the defense' attorneys have held lengthy conferences, mapping out plans to meet the unexpected and dramatic moves of the spectacular prosecutor for the state, Alexander Simpson.

The defense plans a smashing offensive as soon as the state's case is in. The defense will call anywhere from 80 to 140 witnesses, but in all probability the number will not go over 100.

One of the first objects of attack will be the calling card found at the feet of Dr. Hall when the bodies were found in De Russey's lane. The state has contended that the card bears the finger prints of Willie Stevens and brought forward two noted fingerprint experts who testified that the fingerprints were those of Willie's left index finger.

Attack on Fingerprints.

The defense's attack on the card will be led by J. H. Taylor, a federal expert in the identification section of the Navy department. Taylor identified the dead taken from the submarine S-51, sunk off Block Island in September, 1922, with a loss of [illegible] lives, and also identified service men who were killed in the arsenal explosion at Dover, N. J., last summer.

The defense will also assail the story told on the witness stand by William ("Greasy Vest") Garvin, formerly New York manager of the Burns Detective agency, who testified that Ralph V. Gorsline, vestryman of the slain minister's church came to him "conscience stricken' and told him that he saw Henry Stevens in De Russey's lane on the night of the murder. Gorsline was in the car that night in a parked car with a girl. Garvin said Gorsline told him he

STUDY COURSES FOR TEACHERS

Turning from budget matters, which occupied their attention for a day and a half, the state board of education meeting in Charleston last night compared views on collegiate and teachers' training courses of study, but left unconsidered the question of West Virginia university's presidency. At the close of its session the board decided to meet again today, but gave no intimation of whether it would then take up the puzzle of deciding on a successor to the present head of the state's largest educational institution.

The final joint meeting with the board of control disposed of the budgets for the educational affairs of the state, including the institutions under the control of the board. The budget requirements were said to be ready for the board of public works, entrusted with the duty of preparing for the legislature a budget of all state fiscal needs, but until that board makes its report to the legislature members of the two boards believed no information should be made public on their decisions.

DRY ENFORCEMENT WORK DISCUSSED

$126 VERDICT IN AUTO CASE

Wellsville Girl Gets Judgment Against Edgar Watson.

Judgment for $126.50 was awarded to Miss Myrtle Lewis, 1766 Clark avenue, Wellsville, by Municipal Judge Hanley yesterday for damages in an automobile accident on Lisbon hill on December 6, 1924, when the plaintiff was struck by a machine driven by Edgar Watson, of Maple street, East End. Miss Lewis was represented by Attorney Charles Boyd.

She charged Wilson with driving in a reckless and careless manner. Her left leg was broken, left hand fractured and she suffered other injuries, she alleged. She said, as a result of the accident, $100 was paid in physicians' bills, $83 to the hospital and $90 for nurses' services. Damages for $1,500 were asked.

Action for $80 brought by "Bud" Womer, 206 West Third street, against E. Shapiro, Dresden avenue, for an automobile, alleged to have been taken by the defendant, was dismissed "without prejudice" at the cost of the plaintiff. Attorney P. V. Mackall represented Womer.

NITA NALDI AT AMERICAN

She Has Dancer's Role in "Marriage Whirl."

Every one knows how a crowd will boot a fighter who balks if he is hurt in the middle of a bout.

This fact seems to hover around Nita Naldi, vamping artiste de luxe of the movies.

Nita had an important part in Corinne Griffith's latest production, "The Marriage Whirl," which First National is now showing at the American theatre. She portrayed the role of a dancer—a very vampish, wriggling, dashing dancer.

One of the important scenes shows her and Kenneth Harlan doing a jazz dance atop a huge table in the dining room of a cafe. During the middle of the action Nita's foot slipper on a saucer she accidentally stepped on. Her ankle turned sharply, sending a streak of pain through her entire body. It was an important scene. Hundreds of extras were in "action" and the cameras were grinding fast.

Undaunted by the pain, the "vamp" faced the camera with her luring laugh and completed the dance until Director Al Santell's call of "O. K."

It was not until the cameras ceased turning and the big klieg lights were turned off that the accident became known. The actress was rushed to the emergency hospital in the studio and her ankle dressed.

Santell spent several days taking episodes in the Griffith story in which Miss Naldi did not appear while the vamp's ankle was given a complete rest for the remaining parts in which she played.

More than 17,000,000,000 stamps were issued by the postoffice department in 1925.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overstoutness, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat.

If you are overstout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overstoutness, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat.

If you are overstout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

CERAMIC BOOKS "GREEN HAT"

Stage Version of Arlen's Novel Here Thanksgiving Day.

Long heralded and anticipated, the stage version of Michael Arlen's sensational novel "The Green Hat" will be seen here at the Ceramic theatre Thanksgiving Day, matinee and night.

The fame of Michael Arlen is worldwide. This cunningly devised word patterns the alluring charm with which he weaves his perfectly constructed plots, thrilling, amusing and delightful, his never failing climaxes, have made him the most widely discussed author of the present day, and in Iris March, the lady who wears the green hat, he has created the most talked of heroine of modern literature.

It has been, as the pedants might say, a moot question as to what sort of a soul and body buddled under Iris' green hat. Some say she was a mere nympholept, others have contended that she was just a carnal madcap, the consequence of hereditary bad blood. Though a pious beauty, she had a body complex, and, after all of her frequent errors with men she was afflicted with remorse. She was beast and seraph, hot and cold, glad and sorry, nun and wanton, and always a beautiful and fascinating mirage.

"The Green Hat" is a florid romance of flaming youth that is bound to attract the sex-mad multitude.

FINE FOR CHILDREN!

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the eliminative tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely known family physician of Ohio, prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from six years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. Recognized by their olive color, Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets overcome those irritable spells that many children are subject to, keep their bodies in active healthy condition, skin clear and eyes bright with the light of perfect health. 15c, 30c and 60c sizes.

"POSITIVE AGITATION"

"POSITIVE AGITATION" is beating, reduced to a scientific process by the patented Hoover Agitator. Do not fail to see this new cleaning principle demonstrated.

This is the difference

FIRST the spray of leaves, then the besom, then the broom, then the vacuum cleaner. So has the hardest phase of woman's household work been carried steadily onward into higher and easier spheres.

Now still another development appears—startling, revolutionary—the cleaning principle called "Positive Agitation."

Perfected in The New Hoover, it lifts home cleaning to yet new levels of ease and certainty—registering perhaps a greater advance than anything that has gone before.

If you have not seen The New Hoover you have a treat in store. It is unlike anything else. New, original, spectacular, it surpasses even the standard-design Hoover in such important particulars as these:

1 For the first time, it makes possible "Positive Agitation" of floor coverings.

2 By actual test, in the ordinary cleaning time, it beats out and sweeps up from carpetings an average of 13.2% more dirt.

3 It is an even greater rug-saver; the oftener a carpet is cleaned with a Hoover the longer that carpet will wear.

4 It is virtually service-proof, every part, including the new motor, requiring no oiling.

5 It increases the efficiency of its remarkable dusting tools because of its 50% stronger suction.

6 Its exclusive dust- and germ-proof bag is now washable.

7 Its form and finish are of startling beauty; and every new feature insures greater operating ease.

You owe it to yourself to see and understand this New Hoover, now being exhibited by us. Come in today or phone us and we'll bring one to your home for a free demonstration. No obligation.

Queenly Christmas Shopping

The world's champion Christmas shopper is hard at it. She is a royal shopper, literally and figuratively.

No, not Queen Marie, unfortunately for American merchants, but her cousin, Queen Mary of England.

It is at Christmastide that Mary shines. Playing Santa Claus is her forte. She has to be Santa to about 2,000 relatives and friends—or thinks she has to, which amounts to the same thing. So lately the Queen has been making a regular business of it, starting out at 10 o'clock in the morning and shopping until lunch time. Jewelry, lace, children's toys, furniture, books, pictures—all is grist to her Christmas mill.

She shops in the morning because she knows she will find the shops less crowded then, and can get better service and make better selections.

Probably no Americans face Christmas duties of such magnitude as those of the English Queen. Nevertheless most of us have good reasons as she has for doing our Christmas shopping early, getting it done in a decent and comfortable way and then being free to enjoy the holiday as it approaches instead of incapacitating ourselves and the shop people by a frenzied rush.

Speeding Industry

Henry Ford, who has made industrial history on several occasions, may be making more history than usual with his five-day week. As explained in recent interviews, there is something more to his plan than appeared at first.

Mr. Ford stoutly disclaims any philanthropic intent or economic whim. He insists that his five-day week is a straight business proposition based on sound principles, which should work for any efficient industry as well as for his own.

In the first place, he is not giving his men six days' pay for five days' work. He gives them their full week's pay only as they do six of their former days' work in five days.

This means speeding up all the processes in his factories, mechanical as well as human. He says that it takes a little time, but the transition in his shops is being accomplished satisfactorily. He will have to drop some employes because of laziness or inability to endure the pace. Many are already nearing their old earning capacity in the shortened week. He expects entire success for his men and plants within a reasonable time.

Thus his employes will have two days' leisure a week instead of one. That, he is sure, will be good for the workers, because "they are learning how to make good use of their leisure." He is equally sure it will be good for Henry Ford. For having more leisure, they will spend more money, particularly for automobiles. That will give the Ford Motor company more business and more profits, which in turn he expects to share with the workmen.

With two days off a week, he suggests that people will have one day to run around and one to go to church. He thinks it will help religion.

Here is a challenge to all industry, for all citizens to think about. Are we all taking an unnecessary amount of time for our work? Could we all do as much in five days as in six? And would it be worth while for society as a whole to speed up and work harder in working hours, in order to have more leisure?

Forty Million Motor Cars

Fears that the automotive industry is overdeveloped are set at rest by a statement from a Chicago expert.

There are more prospective automobile owners in the country today," he says, "that there are cars registered. More families can afford two cars today than were able to buy one car 10 years ago."

That is probably true. Automobiles are becoming as necessary as bathtubs, and multiplying more rapidly.

Back in 1921 the experts thought the "saturation point" was near. There were then about 10,000,000 automobiles in the United States. The number has doubled since. The Chicago man believes the number will double again in the next 15 years.

That prospect is enough to keep the manufacturers busy and strain their present facilities before long. The time is approaching, too, when if there were no more growth in the total motor car registration, the industy would be kept fully occupied with the manufacture of spare parts and the replacement of old cars.

Thanksgiving Bulletin

Here's good news for Thanksgiving feasters. The turkey crop is large this year and the prices will be the lowest in several years. According to one authority, all the turkey producing states report a full crop of well developed turkeys priced low enough to enable every family to have a better and cheaper bird than usual on the Thanksgiving table.

Of course, something may happen between now and Nov. 25 to change this pleasant situation. The turkeys may emigrate. But so far they have shown a fatal inability for concerted action.

Apples have already been reported plentiful and cheap. If cranberries and squashes and turnips and the rest of that outfit are kindly disposed, Thanksgiving diners this year should have few complaints to make.

Even Chicago's gunmen laid off for a day to give the Queen police reception.

The Golf Fiend Quitting For The Season— By Fontaine Fox

My Favorite Stories
By IRVIN S. COBB

KNOWLEDGE PROMPTLY SUPPLIED.

Before a mixed audience a scientist was lecturing on man's eternal conflict with nature.

"Always," he stated, "hostile forces combat the efforts of human beings to wrest a livelihood from the soil. Since the dawn of time that was has gone on. To the twilight of this world's existence it will continue to go on."

"Consider, my friends, the situation on our own fair land: We plant wheat and the black smut gets it. In the Southland we seek to produce cotton and the boll weevil attacks the crop. The San Jose scale destroys the product of the fruit growers of the Far West. The locust devours the hay of New England. So it goes. And our corn is preyed on by—by—" he paused in embarrassment. "I'm afraid, for the moment, I have forgotten the name. Perhaps someone present can tell us what it is that preys on our corn?"

From a rear seat came a loud clear voice:

"The chiropodist!"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Slowly but surely Greenwich Village crumbles! New people, new buildings have shorn the winding streets of their isolation. Its cobwebby attics, shabby shuttered and decaying houses, musty book shops and candle sputtering cellars are being devoured in precise mechanical gulps of a newer Manhattan.

All this despite fresh honors during the past year. The Village has furnished the city with its popular mayor, Jimmy Walker; the world champion, Gene Tunney, and a best selling novelist, Theodore Dreiser, in that short span of time.

In the dim-lit coffee houses they explain the change of front with a shrug—"the new people." Sprightly chain stores display gaudy facades and cash demands where "pay when you please" shops once offered conversational proprietors with a flair for neighborhood gossip and a help yourself pickle barrel.

That short, peaceful strip of Barrow street where Stefansson, the explorer, hides from the city's incoherent roar and where night revealed sculptors and painters in curtained silhouette is bit by bit changing into a steam-fitted apartment house area.

Edna St. Vincent Millay's elfin figure— as graceful as her poetry—is no longer seen. She is off in the Berkshires growing apples. The few writers who still live there loaf uptown and West 67th street's high ceiled studios have claimed most of the painters.

The Village has not had a giddy new experiment in poetry for more than a years. And in the garrets they even whisper that Sherwood Anderson has "gone Algonquin." Bobbie Edwards has relinquished the editorship of The Quill and no longer thrums his cigar box ukelele in waffle shops. Bobbie has gone to work.

Texas, Iowa and the Dakotas are well represented in the Village now and they bring a breeziness the old Village deplores. The shabby gentility and gas jet cooking have made way for French chefs, uniformed butlers and Grand Rapids furniture.

A deft magician is a night club attraction and is able to make everything disappear but the couvert charge. It is noted also the night clubs are changing names to fads of the moment. The Hotsy Totsy is now the Black Buttom Club.

Greenwich Village, by the way, has—or did have a year ago—the only store in New York with a ball of twine suspended over the roll of counter wrapping paper. Many incidentaly believe the real debacle of the village began when the old Brevoort put in man sized elevators.

My idea of the ultimate in wifely devotion was illustrated in one of the clatter and bang eateries the other evening. Somehow or other his upper teeth slipped their moorings and skidded several feet across the mosaic. She promptly left her chair, retrieved them and dusting them off with her napkin handed them back. That's service.

And New York, like life, has its disillusionments. I accompanied a friend to a certain apartment after the theatre. There were three others in a conversation as animated and intelligent as I had ever heard. As all were strangers I inquired about them from my friend when we departed. All three were drug addicts and at the time I saw and listened were under high stimulation.

The drug addict seems able to mask his animation with a benign serenity. His tongue is usually well bridled and his thoughts often appear quite ponderous—until the inevitable end when he becomes babbling and quite mad.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Japan's Festival of Dolls.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 17.—Miss America is to invade Japan this spring. But she will not be the Miss America who made Atlantic City famous. She will be a truly representative American doll and she will be accompanied by Miss America, Jr., as well as by scores of others who are to go to Japan to take part in the Festival of Dolls.

These dolls are to be known as Doll Messengers of Friendship and it was the idea of the Committee on World Friendship among Children of the Federal Council of Churches to send them as an indication of the friendship of American children for their Japanese sisters. A contest, similar to that of the well-known bathing beauty annual event, is to be held to decide which doll shall have the honor of being Miss America and which Miss America, Jr.

The contest is to be conducted through the schools. The high schools and graded schools will have interclass contests to decide upon a doll which is to represent each individual school and this doll will bear the name of the school—Miss Central High or Miss John Marshall.

The prize doll from the high school will be the senior and the one from the graded school the junior. An interschool contest will then be held and a senior and junior doll picked to represent the city. These dolls will be named Miss Washington and Miss Washington, Jr., or Miss San Francisco and Miss San Francisco, Jr. An interstate contest will decide the dolls to represent the several states and finally there will be assembled in either New York City or Washington, D. C., a national committee of award which will select the two dolls to have the honor of bearing the names, Miss America and Miss America, Jr.

Miss America and Miss America, Jr., accompanied by the two groups of senior and junior dolls bearing state names, and carrying state colors, will travel to Japan as a special group. They will be formally presented to the children of Japan and then placed in the Imperial Museum as a permanent exhibit. The dolls bearing personal, schools, and city names will be distributed through the Department of Education of the Japanese government.

An interesting feature of these contests is that each doll must be dressed by members of the classes—store dressed dolls not being permitted to compete.

Thousands of Competitors.

Although the contest has only been under way for a short time it has been met with great enthusiasm and already several thousand passports and tickets have been issued from the Doll Travel Bureau, and many more reservations and orders for transports and steamer tickets are being received daily.

The Festival of the Dolls — Hina Matsuri—is not only one of the most interesting and picturesque institutions of Japan, but also one of the oldest. It is said that its origin is lost in antiquity, but it is generally supposed to have been introduced into Japan from China and in ancient times was known by various names. Its celebration is traceable to the second year of the reign of the Emperor Bidatsu, 574 A. D. and some authorities say that there seems little doubt but that the real origin was in the ceremony of exorcism of evil spirits. In ancient days this ceremony took place on the banks of the rivers on the 1st of March, but later it was performed on the 3rd day of the 3rd month.

The 3rd of March is as exciting to all the little girls of Japan as Christmas is to those of many other countries. On this day they and their dolls hold first place throughout the nation. Long before that day preparations are made for celebrating this great occasion. In the shops for some time previous festive dolls are displayed for sale, sets of them forming groups or families being placed in wooden boxes and sold as an entirety. Various kinds of furniture and household utensils for the dolls' use are also shown and wide-eyed children gaze entranced, much as do our own at the toys displayed in shop windows just before time for the jovial Santa Claus to play his annual visit.

The Festival of the Dolls is celebrated in every Japanese home, whether rich or poor. On the first celebration after her birth, each girl in the family has placed upon a red-covered shelf a pair of O Hina Sama. When she leaves home as a bride she takes these dolls with her and the first feast after her marriage she observes with special ceremonies. Custom compels her to continue this until she has a daughter old enough to do so for herself.

Special Wine for the Girls.

Many kinds of food are prepared for the festival and a particular brand of very sweet wine which is drunk only by the girls and their friends. The girls dressed in their best to receive their friends and in turn pay visits to inspect their collections of ancestral dolls. On this great day are brought forth the dolls of mothers, grandmothers, and many preceding generations. Many of these older dolls are priceless.

The dolls may be placed in serried ranks, or may be arranged in groups to indicate perhaps a family party, a party of geisha girls dancing, a scene

Queenly Christmas Shopping

The world's champion Christmas shopper is hard at it. She is a royal shopper, literally and figuratively.

No, not Queen Marie, unfortunately for American merchants, but her cousin, Queen Mary of England.

It is at Christmastide that Mary shines. Playing Santa Claus is her forte. She has to be Santa to about 2,000 relatives and friends—or thinks she has to, which amounts to the same thing. So lately the Queen has been making a regular business of it, starting out at 10 o'clock in the morning and shopping until lunch time. Jewelry, lace, children's toys, furniture, books, pictures—all is grist to her Christmas mill.

She shops in the morning because she knows she will find the shops less crowded then, and can get better service and make better selections.

Probably no Americans face Christmas duties of such magnitude as those of the English Queen. Nevertheless most of us have good reasons as she has for doing our Christmas shopping early, getting it done in a decent and comfortable way and then being free to enjoy the holiday as it approaches instead of incapacitating ourselves and the shop people by a frenzied rush.

Speeding Industry

Henry Ford, who has made industrial history on several occasions, may be making more history than usual with his five-day week. As explained in recent interviews, there is something more to his plan than appeared at first.

Mr. Ford stoutly disclaims any philanthropic intent or economic whim. He insists that his five-day week is a straight business proposition based on sound principles, which should work for any efficient industry as well as for his own.

In the first place, he is not giving his men six days' pay for five days' work. He gives them their full week's pay only as they do six of their former days' work in five days.

This means speeding up all the processes in his factories, mechanical as well as human. He says that it takes a little time, but the transition in his shops is being accomplished satisfactorily. He will have to drop some employes because of laziness or inability to endure the pace. Many are already nearing their old earning capacity in the shortened week. He expects entire success for his men and plants within a reasonable time.

Thus his employes will have two days' leisure a week instead of one. That, he is sure, will be good for the workers, because "they are learning how to make good use of their leisure." He is equally sure it will be good for Henry Ford. For having more leisure, they will spend more money, particularly for automobiles. That will give the Ford Motor company more business and more profits, which in turn he expects to share with the workmen.

With two days off a week, he suggests that people will have one day to run around and one to go to church. He thinks it will help religion.

Here is a challenge to all industry, for all citizens to think about. Are we all taking an unnecessary amount of time for our work? Could we all do as much in five days as in six? And would it be worth while for society as a whole to speed up and work harder in working hours, in order to have more leisure?

Forty Million Motor Cars

Fears that the automotive industry is overdeveloped are set at rest by a statement from a Chicago expert.

There are more prospective automobile owners in the country today," he says, "that there are cars registered. More families can afford two cars today than were able to buy one car 10 years ago."

That is probably true. Automobiles are becoming as necessary as bathtubs, and multiplying more rapidly.

Back in 1921 the experts thought the "saturation point" was near. There were then about 10,000,000 automobiles in the United States. The number has doubled since. The Chicago man believes the number will double again in the next 15 years.

That prospect is enough to keep the manufacturers busy and strain their present facilities before long. The time is approaching, too, when if there were no more growth in the total motor car registration, the industy would be kept fully occupied with the manufacture of spare parts and the replacement of old cars.

Thanksgiving Bulletin

Here's good news for Thanksgiving feasters. The turkey crop is large this year and the prices will be the lowest in several years. According to one authority, all the turkey producing states report a full crop of well developed turkeys priced low enough to enable every family to have a better and cheaper bird than usual on the Thanksgiving table.

Of course, something may happen between now and Nov. 25 to change this pleasant situation. The turkeys may emigrate. But so far they have shown a fatal inability for concerted action.

Apples have already been reported plentiful and cheap. If cranberries and squashes and turnips and the rest of that outfit are kindly disposed, Thanksgiving diners this year should have few complaints to make.

Even Chicago's gunmen laid off for a day to give the Queen a nice reception.

KNOWLEDGE PROMPTLY SUPPLIED.

Before a mixed audience a scientist was lecturing on man's eternal conflict with nature.

"Always," he stated, "hostile forces combat the efforts of human beings to wrest a livelihood from the soil. Since the dawn of time that was has gone on. To the twilight of this world's existence it will continue to go on."

"Consider, my friends, the situation on our own fair land: We plant wheat and the black smut gets it. In the Southland we seek to produce cotton and the boll weevil attacks the crop. The San Jose scale destroys the product of the fruit growers of the Far West. The locust devours the hay of New England. So it goes. And our corn is preyed on by—by—" he paused in embarrassment. "I'm afraid, for the moment, I have forgotten the name. Perhaps someone present can tell us what it is that preys on our corn?"

From a rear seat came a loud clear voice:

"The chiropodist!"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Slowly but surely Greenwich Village crumbles! New people, new buildings have shorn the winding streets of their isolation. Its cobwebby attics, shabby shuttered and decaying houses, musty book shops and candle sputtering cellars are being devoured in precise mechanical gulps of a newer Manhattan.

All this despite fresh honors during the past year. The Village has furnished the city with its popular mayor, Jimmy Walker; the world champion, Gene Tunney, and a best selling novelist, Theodore Dreiser, in that short span of time.

In the dim-lit coffee houses they explain the change of front with a shrug—"the new people." Sprightly chain stores display gaudy facades and cash demands where "pay when you please" shops once offered conversational proprietors with a flair for neighborhood gossip and a help yourself pickle barrel.

That short, peaceful strip of Barrow street where Stefansson, the explorer, hides from the city's incoherent roar and where night revealed sculptors and painters in curtained silhouette is bit by bit changing into a steam-fitted apartment house area.

Edna St. Vincent Millay's elfin figure— as graceful as her poetry—is no longer seen. She is off in the Berkshires growing apples. The few writers who still live there loaf uptown and West 67th street's high ceiled studios have claimed most of the painters.

The Village has not had a giddy new experiment in poetry for more than a years. And in the garrets they even whisper that Sherwood Anderson has "gone Algonquin." Bobbie Edwards has relinquished the editorship of The Quill and no longer thrums his cigar box ukelele in waffle shops. Bobbie has gone to work.

Texas, Iowa and the Dakotas are well represented in the Village now and they bring a breeziness the old Village deplores. The shabby gentility and gas jet cooking have made way for French chefs, uniformed butlers and Grand Rapids furniture.

A deft magician is a night club attraction and is able to make everything disappear but the couvert charge. It is noted also the night clubs are changing names to fads of the moment. The Hotsy Totsy is now the Black Buttom Club.

Greenwich Village, by the way, has—or did have a year ago—the only store in New York with a ball of twine suspended over the roll of counter wrapping paper. Many incidentaly believe the real debacle of the village began when the old Brevoort put in man sized elevators.

My idea of the ultimate in wifely devotion was illustrated in one of the clatter and bang eateries the other evening. Somehow or other his upper teeth slipped their moorings and skidded several feet across the mosaic. She promptly left her chair, retrieved them and dusting them off with her napkin handed them back. That's service.

And New York, like life, has its disillusionments. I accompanied a friend to a certain apartment after the theatre. There were three others in a conversation as animated and intelligent as I had ever heard. As all were strangers I inquired about them from my friend when we departed. All three were drug addicts and at the time I saw and listened were under high stimulation.

MINE FATALITIES HIGH LAST MONTH

R. M. Lambie, chief of the department of mines, in his report on the fatalities at West Virginia mines during the month of October, when 47 lost their lives, has issued minute instructions to all inspectors to carefully inspect all equipment, examine powder magazines, openings, safety gates and fences and all other facilities and every operation, in an effort to bring the dangers for accident down to the lowest possible point.

The report shows that the total fatalities at mines for the year from January 1 to the end of October, was 485 as compared with 399 for the same period in 1925. The increase is said to have been due to the increase in the number of mines in operation this year.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Make an easy way to save $2, and yet have best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this famous home-made cough syrup. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. It tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

MINE FATALITIES HIGH LAST MONTH

R. M. Lambie, chief of the department of mines, in his report on the fatalities at West Virginia mines during the month of October, when 47 lost their lives, has issued minute instructions to all inspectors to carefully inspect all equipment, examine powder magazines, openings, safety gates and fences and all other facilities and every operation, in an effort to bring the dangers for accident down to the lowest possible point.

The report shows that the total fatalities at mines for the year from January 1 to the end of October, was 485 as compared with 399 for the same period in 1925. The increase is said to have been due to the increase in the number of mines in operation this year.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and get best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this famous home-made cough syrup. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. It tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Miss Lilly Hughes Becomes Bride of Capt. James Hepburn

Field Major and Mrs. Joseph Hughes of the Salvation Army announce the marriage of their daughter, Lieutenant Lilly Jean Hughes of Third street, to Captain James Marshall Hepburn of Massillon. The ceremony was solemnized Monday evening in the Salvation Army citadel, 2304 East Ninth street, Cleveland. Lieutenant-Colonel Herbert Roberts of Cleveland, divisional commander of Eastern Ohio, performed the ceremony.

The bride has been stationed in East Liverpool for 17 months.

The bridegroom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hepburn of Akron, is now stationed in Massillon.

The bride and bridegroom were attired in Salvation Army uniforms, the bride carrying a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses. Her sister, Mrs. Rose Hepburn of Cleveland, who served as matron of honor, carried pink rosebuds. Ensign Samuel Hepburn, brother of the bridegroom, served as his best man.

The citadel was decorated in pink and white for the occasion. Baskets of flowers and palms were used in profusion.

The ring ceremony was read, the ring being carried by the flower girl. The local Salvation Army band took part in the program.

JANE GIBSON READY TO TELL HALL-MILLS DEATH STORY

STATE TO CALL STAR WITNESS ON THURSDAY

May be Carried Into Court on Stretcher.

SHE HEARD SHOTS

Testified in August She Saw Mrs. Hall and Brother.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Jane Gibson's own story of what she saw in De Russey's lane on the night of Sept. 14, 1922, is to be told from the witness stand—or from a stretcher—in court here tomorrow.

It will be the high spot in the Hall-Mills murder trial. It may make or break the state's case against Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, who are accused of the brutal murders of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and the young and pretty Mrs. Eleanor Mills, wife of the church janitor.

What is Mrs. Gibson's story? Briefly this:

Four years ago she owned a little farm just off De Russey's lover's lane." She was a stocky, muscular woman, doing a man's work.

Thieves had been stealing her corn. She was watching for them. On the night of Sept. 14, 1922, her dog barked. She went out and looked around. Along the road came the New Brunswick-Middlebush bus. She knew it was 9 o'clock because the bus always passed at that hour.

Heard Quarreling Voices.

She went back into the house. Later the dog barked again. She could hear, not far away, the creaking of a wagon and the footsteps of a horse. She hastened to the stable and mounted her mule. She followed the wagon until she was satisfied that it was empty.

Turning back she saw by the lights of an automobile which had turned into the lane two other automobiles, pulled away from the side of the lane into the roadside bush. She saw a woman and a man standing beside one of the cars. She recognized the woman as Mrs. Hall, she later swore in court.

Then she heard quarreling voices. She returned and tied the mule to a tree. An automobile light from the roadway revealed for a brief minute or two a group quarreling under a crabapple tree on a knoll.

A woman was angrily accusing a man standing beside another woman. He was defiant. Hot words were exchanged.

Then there was a shot.

"Oh—oh, Henry — don't — don't—please," a woman's voice pleaded, Mrs. Gibson later testified.

Three more shots were fired in rapid succession.

Saw Woman Kneeling.

Mrs. Gibson hastened to her mule and made for home. In her hurry she lost her moccasin. Finally she decided to return for it. When she came back to the crabapple tree she saw a woman kneeling there in prayer.

Thirty-six hours later the bodies of the Rev. Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found beneath that crabapple tree.

Mrs. Gibson testified in court here on August 13, 1926, that two of the persons she saw in the lane that fatal night were Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens, both of whom claim they were at home at the hour the crime was committed—10:20 p. m.

Hall-Mills Murder Trial

Stevens fired two shots at his feet and said: "Get to hell out of here—this is none of your business."

It was learned the defense plans to call upon W. Sherman Burns and Raymond Burns, sons of William J. Burns, to contradict Garvins statement. Gorsline has denied having made such a "confession" to Garvin.

Art dealers are now renting noted works to the movies at a charge of one per cent of the valuation of the picture per week.

IN MEMORIAM."

AS SHE quietly handed her pistol to a policeman across Fino's dead body, Mrs. Denino illustrated an educational process that has been civilizing men for several hundred thousand years.

Of course she won't be convicted of murder. Killing anybody is wrong, but Mrs. Denino ought to be pensioned, not only on her own account, but for the protection she has given to many other girls.

Classic Ticket Scandal

the political families of a good many senators. Where two months ago senators invited their favorite lieutenants or social friends to be their guests—planning on the six-ticket allotment—now they must either buy two $15 seats, located a half mile from the gridiron, miss the game themselves or offend a very valuable friend. Hence the senatorial rage.

Representative Fish, however, went a step further. He declared he had heard that some congressional secretaries were in the "market," buying and selling tickets to the game.

"Certain reports have come to me," said Fish, "indicating that there have been violations of the rules under which tickets have been sold by congressional secretaries without the knowledge of their congressmen. I am now considering the introduction of a resolution, as soon as the house convenes, calling for a congressional investigation of the ticket distribution.'

Claim Cadets Furnished Tickets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Declaring that many of their tickets had been furnished them by cadets and middies at an average price of $30, speculators along Broadway today were offering seats for the Army-Navy game in Chicago at prices ranging from $40 to $75 and higher. Most of the scalpers were clerks in uptown agencies, who explained that they were "doing a little business on the side."

One of them claimed he had obtained 14 tickets from cadets and middies at $30 each and, with few exceptions, the speculators were willing to pay as high as $50 each for seats in advantageous positions. A pair of these were offered today at $150, the same man later offering to part with four seats for $220, in order, as he explained, "to make a quick turnover."

Blames Disgruntled for Rumor.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—"What do you mean, ticket scandal."

That was the angry retort today of Col. H. C. Carbaugh, in charge of tickets for the coming Army-Navy game here, when asked what he knew of the reported scandal in connection with distribution of the treasured ducats.

"If there is any ticket scandal I know nothing about it. I suppose the rumors were started by come of the many thousands of persons to whom I had to say "no.'"

George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the South Park commision which has charge of Memorial stadium where the game will be played, explained the ticket situation. He said:

"We decided this game should be seen by the most representative American crowd that it is possible to assemble. We also decided that congressmen and senators could pick that crowd better than any other persons.

"So we have sold 100 tickets to each Illinois congressman and senator. Cingressmen from neighboring states got fewer and the number allotted to these statesmen dwindled the farther away they live from Illinois.

"One congressman wanted 1,713 tickets for friends, relatives and supporters, but colonel thundered his emphatic 'no' and the congressman had to be satisfied with his allotment."

HORSE REPORTED STOLEN HERE

Thomas Beaver, Claiborne avenue huckster, today asked the police to assist in recovering his horse which was stolen or strayed away Monday night. The horse, according to a description given the police, was a bay, weighing about 1,500 pounds.

Judgment in Civil Suit.

Judgment for $222.05 in favor of the Chippewa Oil company of West Bridgewater, Pa., and against A. A. Springer and R. A. Plate, East End garage owners, was returned today by Municipal Judge J. C. C. OF C. PLANS ANNUAL DINNER ON JANUARY 18

Directors Set Date at Session Last Night.

SEEK SPEAKER

Chamber Casts Vote Upon National Referendum.

Date for the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was fixed for Tuesday, January 18, by the board of directors at its meeting in the headquarters in the Little building yesterday afternoon. The meeting, which will be in the form of a dinner, will be held in the Y. M. C. A.

Negotiations are now under way for a speaker. Men of national reputation are being considered. Speaker at last year's annual meeting was Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy during the World war, while George Creel, wartime censor, was the guest of the chamber two years ago.

The chamber, through its directors, also cast its vote upon referendum No. 49, submitted by the United States Chamber of Commerce to approximately 2,000 individual organizations.

The referendum relates to the report of a committee on state and local taxation. The local chamber voted in favor of each of the 11 proposals presented in the report.

The various proposals, which received favorable consideration, are:

"The committee recommends intangible personal property should be taxed on the basis of annual earnings in lieu of any other taxes as to such property.

"The committee recommends that for any ad valorem tax intangible personal property should be classified and the rate should be low with reasonable relation to earnings.

"The committee recommends that taxes imposed upon the transfer of property at the owner's death should be in the form of estate taxes.

"The committee recommends reciprocal exemption of intangible personal property of non-resident decedants.

"The committee recommends that states should use uniform returns and that each state should reciprocally allow credit for income tax paid in another state.

"The committee recommends that corporate taxes should be reduced.

"The committee recommends that bonds should be used only for non-recurring capital expenditures.

"The committee recommends that serial bonds should be used for all issues.

"The committee recommends that each state should have an agency with power, upon local petition, to prevent unwise expenditures by local government.

"The committee recommends modern uniform accounting for each state and its local government, with centralized audit facilities.

"The committee recommends that all jurisdictions levying the same kind of tax should have uniformity in computation and administration and uniformity in reports.'

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The trend of industrial stock prices at the beginning of trading today was slightly upward, in a market wholly devoid of special features. The bulk of industrial market leaders in the steel, motor and oil groups just about retained the advances scored in yesterday's session, while the mercantile stocks and the specialties sold up from 1 to 3 points in a fairly brisk movement. Railroad stocks were inactive.

23 Cent Coal

Salem-Wellsville-Chester Prices.

Lump coal in Salem was being sold for 28 cents per bushel, officials of the Yeager Coal and Supply company said. Two weeks ago the same fuel was selling for 36 cents.

Dealers in Wellsville quoted lump coal at 30 cents and nut coal at 25 cents.

Talbot Brothers, operators of a large mine back of Chester and who make deliveries in Newell and Chester, asked 28 cents per bushel. Chester has no dealers in Pittsburgh coal.

Wagon mines, operating along the Lincoln Highway, California Hollow and back of Wellsville have increased the price of run-of-mine coal to 23 cents per bushel and for lump coal to 25 cents.

No Fuel Shortage.

Dealers in East Liverpool and Wellsville today admitted there was no coal shortage and that railroad shipments are made at regular intervals. They claimed that the war-time price prevailing here was due to the high rates demanded by producers.

Local Union, No. 12, Jiggermen, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, has launched an investigation to determine the reason for the price increase. A letter of inquiry, sent to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has been referred to John Kennedy, Indianopolis, international secretary of the coal miners' organization.

The embargo on coal shipments to the east is expected to make coal even more plentiful.

MISS MACKEY IS SOLOIST AT BAPTIST MEET

New Cumberland Girl Assists at Dr. Mel Morris Service.

FORCEFUL TALK

Special Music Will be Featured at 7:30 Tonight.

Preaching with song, her rich soprano tones carrying conviction to a large audience of hearers, Miss Jean Mackey, of New Cumberland, W. Va., and former East Liverpool girl, gave new impetus to the First Baptist church revival last evening, as she paved the way with musical offerings for a compelling sermon by Rev. Mel Morris, visiting evangelist, who spoke on the subject: "God or Baal, Which?"

"I am not a soloist," she confessed, "but sing with my sister in all services in which we assist. Until last night I never sang alone. But I am glad, indeed happy, to do anything that may aid a soul in finding salvation."

Extending deep spiritual insight in every hymn sung by her and reflecting the sentiment of their words Miss Mackey excited fervor, keen and evident, among her hearers which was epitomized by Rev. Mr. Morris' opening comment: "I feel more like shouting than preaching."

As a result the evangelist delayed his discourse so as to permit Miss Mackey to take any further steps in the service that she desired. Accordingly she led the congregation in singing "Since I Have Been Redeemed."

Previously with timely gesticulations and frequent reminders to "listen" at specific sections of it she had tremendously moved the audience with the alluring song, "Bless the Lord I've Jesus."

Seemingly much improved in physique Rev. and Mrs. O'Brien, absent on Monday night because of indisposition, were able to be present at last evening's service.

Many crowded the altars to pray for relatives during the after service during which Miss Mackey sang "Somebody Loves You 'Tis Jesus." She will also be present at tonight's service when the musical program will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Anna Hamm.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Hamm, 46, who died in her home in State street, East End, Monday evening, following an extended illness, will be held in the Second Baptist church, Pennsylvania avenue, at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Rev. J. R. Hall, Warren, assisted by Rev. E. J. Richardson, pastor of the church, will be in charge.

Mrs. Hamm is survived by her husband, William Hamm, five sisters and two brothers.

Donna Jean Briggs.

Donna Jean, 2-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Briggs, 406 Somer street, Leetonia, died yesterday in a Cleveland hospital.

Funeral services will be held in the home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, in charge of Rev. H. C. Brillhart, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Leetonia. Burial will be made in Oakdale cemetery.

DISPLAY DRESS FOR PRINCESS

Newman Shows Garment Made for Rumanian Royalty.

Newman's store, Washington street today placed on display Princess Ileana's first American-made dress. The original, ordered in New York by Queen Marie, was sent on its way to the royal Rumanian party by rail and aid mail.

The designer, Edward Glantz, of No. 226 West Thirty-seventh street, New York, took the dainty garment to the Rumanian Legation in Washington. Thence it was sent West by airplane.

The dress is Rumanian in design, but modified for the American girl. It is made of the sheerest special flat crepe, black, trimmed with Rumanian peasant embroidery. About the bodice is a relief in "real flame," on which is superimposed the decorative work.

Six seamstresses worked on the garment for two weeks. It was sent to the princess in a special box on which were painted the national colors of the United States and Rumania.

NO MILK PRICE BOOST IN CITY, SAYS DEALER

Commodity Jumps to 16 Cents Per Quart in Cleveland.

SECOND INCREASE

East Liverpool Prices Stand Unless Producers Act.

Despite increases in the retail price of milk in Cleveland, no changes in prices in the East Liverpool district are contemplated, local dealers declared today.

Milk jumped to the war levels of 16 cents per quart and nine cents per pint in Cleveland yesterday. This is the second increase to be announced within a few weeks.

East Liverpool's milk prices are regulated, according to A. E. Webber, of the Crockery City Ice and Products company, by Pittsburgh rates, but milk is selling for 15 cents per quart and nine cents per pint there at the present time. The local prices are 14 cents per quart and eight cents per pint.

"So long as there is no increase in the prices charged by producers there will be no changes in the prices charged the consumer," Webber said.

Others Arrested.

The eight persons arrested with King Ben in the raid were:

Harry Thomas Dowhirst, 45, House of David lawyer; Leonard Rowe, 33; Thomas Wilson, 50, farmer; Joseph Couch, 51, laborer; Millward Wilson, 27, street car motorman; Mrs. Annabelle Askerlund, 28; Mrs. Helen Bloom, 21, and Myrtle Turk, the "prophet's" attendant.

The "prophet" also is wanted in connection with several civil suits, including one by the state of Michigan for dissolution of the cult settlement as a public menace.

With the raiders were the informant, Mrs. Woodworth, formerly Bessie Daniels, and her husband, Emerald Woodworth, musician at a local theater. Mrs. Woodworth identified "King Ben."

More Than the Finest Tobaccos

Smoke a Lucky Strike and you will appreciate its difference from other cigarettes.

To begin with, Lucky Strikes are made from the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Properly aged. Perfectly blended. Even if we stopped there, Lucky Strikes would rank as the best cigarettes. But in addition, so as to achieve three unique results, Lucky Strike tobacco is toasted for 45 minutes.

This extra process gives you:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

Thus the toasting process is an addition. It adds a unique and distinct improvement to a cigarette that has already been made from the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. It is the reason millions prefer Lucky Strikes.

JANE GIBSON READY TO TELL HALL-MILLS DEATH STORY

STATE TO CALL STAR WITNESS ON THURSDAY

May be Carried Into Court on Stretcher.

Testified in August She Saw Mrs. Hall and Brother.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Jane Gibson's own story of what she saw in De Russey's lane on the night of Sept. 14, 1922, is to be told from the witness stand—or from a stretcher—in court here tomorrow.

It will be the high spot in the Hall-Mills murder trial. It may make or break the state's case against Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, who are accused of the brutal murders of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and the young and pretty Mrs. Eleanor Mills, wife of the church janitor.

What is Mrs. Gibson's story? Briefly this:

Four years ago she owned a little farm just off De Russey's lover's lane." She was a stocky, muscular woman, doing a man's work.

Thieves had been stealing her corn. She was watching for them. On the night of Sept. 14, 1922, her dog barked. She went out and looked around. Along the road came the New Brunswick-Middlebush bus. She knew it was 9 o'clock because the bus always passed at that hour.

Heard Quarreling Voices.

She went back into the house. Later the dog barked again. She could hear, not far away, the creaking of a wagon and the footsteps of a horse. She hastened to the stable and mounted her mule. She followed the wagon until she was satisfied that it was empty.

Turning back she saw by the lights of an automobile which had turned into the lane two other automobiles, pulled away from the side of the lane into the roadside bush. She saw a woman and a man standing beside one of the cars. She recognized the woman as Mrs. Hall, she later swore in court.

Then she heard quarreling voices. She returned and tied the mule to a tree. An automobile light from the roadway revealed for a brief minute or two a group quarreling under a crabapple tree on a knoll.

A woman was angrily accusing a man standing beside another woman. He was defiant. Hot words were exchanged.

Then there was a shot.

"Oh—oh, Henry — don't — don't—please," a woman's voice pleaded, Mrs. Gibson later testified.

Three more shots were fired in rapid succession.

Saw Woman Kneeling.

Mrs. Gibson hastened to her mule and made for home. In her hurry she lost her moccasin. Finally she decided to return for it. When she came back to the crabapple tree she saw a woman kneeling there in prayer.

Thirty-six hours later the bodies of the Rev. Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found beneath that crabapple tree.

Mrs. Gibson testified in court here on August 13, 1926, that two of the persons she saw in the lane that fatal night were Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens, both of whom claim they were at home at the hour the crime was committed—10:20 p. m.

the political families of a good many senators. Where two months ago senators invited their favorite lieutenants or social friends to be their guests—planning on the six-ticket allotment—now they must either buy two $15 seats, located a half mile from the gridiron, miss the game themselves or offend a very valuable friend. Hence the senatorial rage.

Representative Fish, however, went a step further. He declared he had heard that some congressional secretaries were in the "market," buying and selling tickets to the game.

"Certain repofts have come to me," said Fish, "indicating that there have been violations of the rules under which tickets have been sold by congressional secretaries without the knowledge of their congressmen. I am now considering the introduction of a resolution, as soon as the house convenes, calling for a congressional investigation of the ticket distribution.'

Claim Cadets Furnished Tickets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Declaring that many of their tickets had been furnished them by cadets and middies at an average price of $30, speculators along Broadway today were offering seats for the Army-Navy game in Chicago at prices ranging from $40 to $75 and higher. Most of the scalpers were clerks in uptown agencies, who explained that they were "doing a little business on the side."

One of them claimed he had obtained 14 tickets from cadets and middies at $30 each and, with few exceptions, the speculators were willing to pay as high as $50 each for seats in advantageous positions. A pair of these were offered today at $150, the same man later offering to part with four seats for $220, in order, as he explained, "to make a quick turnover."

Blames Disgruntled for Rumor.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—"What do you mean, ticket scandal."

That was the angry retort today of Col. H. C. Carbaugh, in charge of tickets for the coming Army-Navy game here, when asked what he knew of the reported scandal in connection with distribution of the treasured ducats.

"If there is any ticket scandal I know nothing about it. I suppose the rumors were started by come of the many thousands of persons to whom I had to say "no.'"

George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the South Park commision which has charge of Memorial stadium where the game will be played, explained the ticket situation. He said:

"We decided this game should be seen by the most representative American crowd that it is possible to assemble. We also decided that congressmen and senators could pick that crowd better than any other persons.

"So we have sold 100 tickets to each Illinois congressman and senator. Cingressmen from neighboring states got fewer and the number allotted to these statesmen dwindled the farther away they live from Illinois.

"One congressman wanted 1,713 tickets for friends, relatives and supporters, but colonel thundered his emphatic 'no' and the congressman had to be satisfied with his allotment."

HORSE REPORTED STOLEN HERE

C. OF C. PLANS ANNUAL DINNER ON JANUARY 18

Directors Set Date at Session Last Night.

SEEK SPEAKER

Chamber Casts Vote Upon National Referendum.

Date for the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was fixed for Tuesday, January 18, by the board of directors at its meeting in the headquarters in the Little building yesterday afternoon. The meeting, which will be in the form of a dinner, will be held in the Y. M. C. A.

Negotiations are now under way for a speaker. Men of national reputation are being considered. Speaker at last year's annual meeting was Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy during the World war, while George Creel, was-time censor, was the guest of the chamber two years ago.

The chamber, through its directors, also cast its vote upon referendum No. 49, submitted by the United States Chamber of Commerce to approximately 2,000 individual organizations.

The referendum relates to the report of a committee on state and local taxation. The local chamber voted in favor of each of the 11 proposals presented in the report.

The various proposals, which received favorable consideration, are:

"The committee recommends intangible personal property should be taxed on the basis of annual earnings in lieu of any other taxes as to such property.

"The committee recommends that for any ad valorem tax intangible personal property should be classified and the rate should be low with reasonable relation to earnings.

"The committee recommends that taxes imposed upon the transfer of property at the owner's death should be in the form of estate taxes.

"The committee recommends reciprocal exemption of intangible personal property of non-resident decedants.

"The committee recommends that states should use uniform returns and that each state should reciprocally allow credit for income tax paid in another state.

"The committee recommends that corporate taxes should be reduced.

"The committee recommends that bonds should be used only for non-recurring capital expenditures.

"The committee recommends that serial bonds should be used for all issues.

"The committee recommends that each state should have an agency with power, upon local petition, to prevent unwise expenditures by local government.

"The committee recommends modern uniform accounting for each state and its local government, with centralized audit facilities.

"The committee recommends that all jurisdictions levying the same kind of tax should have uniformity in computation and administration and uniformity in reports.'

Previously with timely gesticulations and frequent reminders to "listen" at specific sections of it she had tremendously moved the audience with the alluring song, "Bless the Lord I've Jesus."

Seemingly much improved in physique Rev. and Mrs. O'Brien, absent on Monday night because of indisposition, were able to be present at last evening's service.

Many crowded the altars to pray for relatives during the after service during which Miss Mackey sang "Somebody Loves You 'Tis Jesus." She will also be present at tonight's service when the musical program will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Anna Hamm.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Hamm, 46, who died in her home in State street, East End, Monday evening, following an extended illness, will be held in the Second Baptist church, Pennsylvania avenue, at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Rev. R. Hall, Warren, assisted by Rev. E. J. Richardson, pastor of the church, will be in charge.

Mrs. Hamm is survived by her husband, William Hamm, five sisters and two brothers.

Donna Jean Briggs.

Donna Jean, 2-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Briggs, 406 Somer street, Leetonia, died yesterday in a Cleveland hospital.

Funeral services will be held in the home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, in charge of Rev. H. C. Brillhart, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Leetonia. Burial will be made in Oakdale cemetery.

DISPLAY DRESS FOR PRINCESS

Newman Shows Garment Made for Rumanian Royalty.

Newman's store, Washington street today placed on display Princess Ileana's first American-made dress. The original, ordered in New York by Queen Marie, was sent on its way to the royal Rumanian party by rail and aid mail.

The designer, Edward Glantz, of No. 226 West Thirty-seventh street, New York, took the dainty garment to the Rumanian Legation in Washington. Thence it was sent West by airplane.

The dress is Rumanian in design, but modified for the American girl. It is made of the sheerest special flat crepe, black, trimmed with Rumanian peasant embroidery. About the bodice is a relief in "real flame," on which is superimposed the decorative work.

Six seamstresses worked on the garment for two weeks. It was sent to the princess in a special box on which were painted the national colors of the United States and Rumania.

A man recently wrestled with an octopus in the ocean near Venice, Cal., to test its strength and fighting ability.

NO MILK PRICE BOOST IN CITY, SAYS DEALER

Commodity Jumps to 16 Cents Per Quart in Cleveland.

SECOND INCREASE

East Liverpool Prices Stand Unless Producers Act.

Despite increases in the retail price of milk in Cleveland, no changes in prices in the East Liverpool district are contemplated, local dealers declared today.

Milk jumped to the war levels of 16 cents per quart and nine cents per pint in Cleveland yesterday. This is the second increase to be announced within a few weeks.

East Liverpool's milk prices are regulated, according to A. E. Webber, of the Crockery City Ice and Products company, by Pittsburgh rates, but milk is selling for 15 cents per quart and nine cents per pint there at the present time. The local prices are 14 cents per quart and eight cents per pint.

"So long as there is no increase in the prices charged by producers there will be no changes in the prices charged the consumer," Webber said.

nude and semi-nude attire are to be discounted."

Others Arrested.

The eight persons arrested with King Ben in the raid were:

Harry Thomas Dowhirst, 45, House of David lawyer; Leonard Rowe, 33; Thomas Wilson, 50, farmer; Joseph Couch, 51, laborer; Millward Wilson, 27, street car motorman; Mrs. Annabelle Askerlund, 28; Mrs. Helen Bloom, 21, and Myrtle Turk, the "prophet's" attendant.

The "prophet" also is wanted in connection with several civil suits, including one by the state of Michigan for dissolution of the cult settlement as a public menace.

With the raiders were the informant, Mrs. Woodworth, formerly Bessie Daniels, and her husband, Emerald Woodworth, musician at a local theater. Mrs. Woodworth identified "King Ben."

More Than the Finest Tobaccos

Smoke a Lucky Strike and you will appreciate its difference from other cigarettes.

To begin with, Lucky Strikes are made from the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Properly aged. Perfectly blended. Even if we stopped there, Lucky Strikes would rank as the best cigarettes. But in addition, so as to achieve three unique results, Lucky Strike tobacco is toasted for 45 minutes.

This extra process gives you:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

Thus the toasting process is an addition. It adds a unique and distinct improvement to a cigarette that has already been made from the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. It is the reason millions prefer Lucky Strikes.

SYNOPSIS.

Julian Reed is wandering southern California in his little roadster. He is aimless and amiable. At luncheon in a small restaurant he meets, by chance, a charming, rather wistful young woman. She has missed connections with a troupe of vagabonding actors and he offers, in spite of his natural bashfulness, to drive her to the troupe's next stopping place, La Jolla, in his "comic little car." After a moment's hesitation she accepts his offer. As they ride he tries to "explain" himself. He has money—enough—but is suffering from a bad case of "dual personality." He is obviously greatly bothered about something, some conflict within himself. She, for her part, tells that her name is Hester Kemble. She, like Julian, is from the East. They overtake and pass the trucks bearing the rest of the troupe.

"You're the cute one, dear," said Sadie."

CHAPTER THREE.

Late in the afternoon they stopped at Escondido, in the mountains. He was shy about suggesting it. And she hesitated. She couldn't help thinking about those pursuing trucks. They might catch up. They might stop. It was the logical place. And then she'd have to explain him. This would be the emotionally timorous Yankee within her, of course; a stern other self that she resented a shade more deeply with each year of her ebbing youth. And then, while they still sat in the car outside, a little rebellion surged up within her.

Very quietly, with a remote look in the hazel eyes, she asked if he thought they could have waffles. And within the restaurant, she asked for a cigarette. He wouldn't know that she didn't smoke two a month. It was surprising that he didn't smoke at all. They ate and talked. And then they sipped coffee and talked. And she kept on smoking. She didn't care now . . . much . . . . whether the others caught them or not. The small adventure was not without its pleasant edge.

The trucks did come. She saw the familiar red and yellow paint through the front window, and weakened somewhat.

"Do you mind," she asked, with a little more color in her cheeks, "if I introduce you as a man I've known? In a troupe like this they . . Oh, it doesn't matter really . . . but it was a . . . . well, it was a pick-up, you know." She laughed rather nervously, with a softness about her mouth and a curious light in her eyes.

Before he could reply they were entering the room, a noisy lot with a shabbily important air of conferring a favor on this small corner of the world by appearing in it. He saw a tall man with austere Roman features, watery eyes and an immitigable toupee . . . a dark younger man who walked with an unnaturally long stride . . a sinuous blonde with bobbed hair (she would be the one he had glimpsed on the tailboard of the light truck) . . six or eight others.

Hester Kemble called out brightly, "That was a great trick you played on me. If I hadn't had the pure luck to run across Mr. Reed I wouldn't be here."

"It was my understanding, Hester"—the sonorous measured voice of the tall man floated before him as he moved majectically toward them—"that the large truck would stop for you."

"It didn't seem to be their understanding . . . Oh, Mr. Watt, I want you to meet my friend, Mr. Reed. Mr. J. Murray Watt. Mr. Reed was an editor in New York."

"Ah, indeed!" Mr. Watt's voice rolled through the room. "It is a pleasure to make your acquaintance, sir. It was my privilege years ago, to pass many an evening with certain af the brightest editorial minds our country has ever known. I knew Dana, sir. And Godkin. And Whitelaw Reid. Why when I was leading man with Modjeska . . there was an artist! . . . ."

The man of the stride interrupted from a neighboring table. "We'd better get our orders right in, Murray. Time's mighty short."

The blonde girl wandered over. "So they left you flat in Riverside, Hester" She had demurely wide blue eyes and an engaging slow grin.

"This is my friend, Mr. Reed, Miss Hartnett."

"I'm very glad to meet you, Mr. Reed. . . . See where I tore my skirt. Hester, on that damn truck."

"Listen, Sadie, why is Mr. Watt riding on a truck?"

She explained in a low voice, "He's our director and star. It's his show. He usually rides ahead in the touring car. J. Murray Watt, you know."

"I'm afraid I don't know."

"Oh, he used to be quite well known."

"Positively the Corse Payton of the West,' murmured Sadie. "But we're society now. Heavy patronesses. Little Theater stuff."

Miss Hartnett slowly winked. She was humorously eying Hester's cigarette. "Oh, just that little trouble about the touring car. He rushed in it on ahead this morning. That man from L. A. wired he'd be after it. And then Murry slipped in with the boys on the big truck. He's the cute one."

"Come, Sadie!" cried that dark man. "Get your order in."

The irrepressible girl called over her shoulder, "A big hamburg steak and coffee for mine, Lester." And she moved away in a series of graceful dance steps.

Reed's eyes followed her. He didn't know that two hazel eyes were watching him. But he heard her say:

"Sadie was a chorus girl. Came out with a musical show that stranded in Sacramento. But she's a grand trouper."

After which, impulsively, almost in a whisper, she added this: "Of course you may never see him again, but . . . . . I can't resist warning you It would be best not to let Murry Watt know about that letter of credit."

"Oh, of course," said he. Oh, I wouldn't."

His brows were knit again. She wondered what he was thinking.

She sat there with a deliciously brazen sensation, stil smoking while the others of the troupe bundled out and went clattering away on the trucks. And half an hour later they two set out on the last stage of their journey.

When they arrived, the stage crew and the actors were already setting up the outdoor stake and running a canvass fence about the enclosure. Electric lights were strung on poles, and somewhere in the distance a generator was chug-chugging. Trucks were dumping chairs. Dressing tents were going up on either side of the stage.

She wondered, with a dash of excitement that was not unmixed with a daring touch of mischief, what he would say at the parting. But he disappointed her by saying next to nothing. He mumbled really, something about looking up a place to sleep. She finally had to ask if he was planning to see the performance.

"Oh, yes," he said, absently, and pushed back his hair.

For a moment, then, they stood awkwardly beside the little car, she clasping her parcels.

"Well," he remarked, brightening somewhat, "we made it. The old thing came through. I've been thinking . . . ."

She waited.

" . . . I've been . . . you see, all this is rather fascinating to me. . . ."

"Oh the show?"

"Yes. It's like gypsies."

"It has another side."

"I suppose so. But here's what I was thinking. Maybe you'd let me drive you again tomorrow."

She heard him catch his breath after that, and was so moved that she answered brusquely. "Oh, we're only running in to San Diego. We play near the city tomorrow evening, on a private estate. Then the next evening we'll be over at Coronado."

"I see." He was musing, clumsily. "Of course. I haven't anything much on my mind. I told you that I was wondering if there'd be any harm in my . . . well, hanging around a little. Maybe a few days."

"I don't see how you could be ordered away very well." The Yankee commanded her now.

But that wasn't altogether fair. She reached out a firm little hand. "You've really been awfully nice," she said, more gently. "I'm not going to try to tell you how grateful I am."

"For Heaven's sake don't!"

She walked briskly away then and disappeared in one of the tents. He lingered ;and shortly afterward saw her lugging a suit case and a huge blanket roll. He would have liked to

Multiplied Beauty
Perennial Youth
I found them in the ways I offer you
By Edna Wallace Hopper

These are the greatest of Edna Wallace Hopper's Aids. I consider them the best in existence, and after 40 years of searching I should know. Each combines a number of helps in one application.

White Youth Clay

This is a new-type clay, based on 20 years of scientific study. It is white, refined and dainty. It combines three clays with numerous other factors to bring maximum results. The crude and muddy clays you know are not at all like this.

White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs and mars it. It draws out the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy afterglow which amazes and delights. It combats all lines and wrinkles.

White Youth Clay will bring to any girl new beauty in 30 minutes, and women often seem to drop ten years. I urge you to learn what it means to you.

My Youth Creams

My Youth Cream combines a dozen of the best helps known to foster, feed and preserve the skin. These include products of both lemon and strawberry. Youth Cream comes in two types — cold cream and vanishing. One for night, the other for the day. My baby-like complexion shows one of the effects. You will be delighted with this cream.

Still a Girl

Mine is a grandmother's age, and my life has been spent in the limelight. Yet I am still a stage star, still a beauty, still a girl. The thousands who see me daily marvel at my youthful bloom. And countless young girls envy my hair and my complexion.

My mother took me as a girl in a world-search for beauty aids. The best we found then were produced by French experts. I became by their help a famous beauty, gained a glorious career. Since then I have made 34 trips to France to learn of her latest discoveries. They have preserved my beauty, kept my youth, as all who see me know.

Now I am placing these helps—the best I found—at every woman's call. All drug and toilet counters supply them in my name. Every girl and woman who desires may use exactly what I use, and at a modest cost. I am doing my best to bring to millions the benefits I gained.

My Facial Youth

Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which French scientists gave me. Leading beauty experts the world over now advise and employ the formula, but they usually charge too much. So only a small persentage of women yet know this superlative help.

Facial Youth contains no animal, no vegetable fat. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin. It simply cleans to the depths, then departs. All the dirt and grime, dead skin and clogging matter depart with it. You will never know what a clean skin means until you use Facial Youth. And no skin can keep lovely unless clean.

My Hair Youth

My hair is my greatest glory. It is thick and lustrous, far more luxuriant than 40 years ago. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, never a touch of gray. All that I owe to French hair experts whose best helps are embodied in my Hair Youth.

Hair Youth is concentrated. I apply it with an eyedropper directly to the scalp. There it combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It tones and stimulates the scalp. My hair shows how hair can flourish when the scalp gets that attention. The first application will show how much you need it.

The coupon will bring you a liberal sample of any of my beauty helps. Check which you want and send it. Clip coupon now.

All the dirt and grime, dead skin and clogging matter depart with it. You will never know what a clean skin means until you use Facial Youth. And no skin can keep lovely unless clean.

My Hair Youth

My hair is my greatest glory. It is thick and lustrous, far more luxuriant than 40 years ago. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, never a touch of gray. All that I owe to French hair experts whose best helps are embodied in my Hair Youth.

Hair Youth is concentrated. I apply it with an eyedropper directly to the scalp. There it combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It tones and stimulates the scalp. My hair shows how hair can flourish when the scalp gets that attention. The first application will show how much you need it.

The coupon will bring you a liberal sample of any of my beauty helps. Check which you want and send it. Clip coupon now.

"Hold the Line, Please"

A LOCAL user of long distance telephone service placed a call to New York and was surprised to have the operator say "Hold the line, please." In a brief interval he was talking to his party.

New operating methods have made faster long distance service available to you. Often you get your party without leaving the line.

You give the long distance operator your name and number and the number desired with the name of the town and in a few minutes while you hold your receiver to your ear either you will be talking with your party or have a report.

To use this fast service you should place your calls by number. If you do not know the number of the distant telephone directory operator will give it to you.

It is not possible to reach every city in the country by this fast service, but you can be connected with many of the important ones and in less time than under old practices.

The usual station-to-station charges apply, while special reduced rate periods are available after 7 o'clock in the evening, as well as the privilege of reversing charges.

Our commercial manager will be pleased to supply you with a list of the telephone numbers you most frequently call.

"Hold the Line, Please"

A LOCAL user of long distance telephone service placed a call to New York and was surprised to have the operator say "Hold the line, please." In a brief interval he was talking to his party.

New operating methods have made faster long distance service available to you. Often you get your party without leaving the line.

You give the long distance operator your name and number and the number desired with the name of the town and in a few minutes while you hold your receiver to your ear either you will be talking with your party or have a report.

To use this fast service you should place your calls by number. If you do not know the number of the distant telephone directory operator will give it to you.

It is not possible to reach every city in the country by this fast service, but you can be connected with many of the important ones and in less time than under old practices.

The usual station-to-station charges apply, while special reduced rate periods are available after 7 o'clock in the evening, as well as the privilege of reversing charges.

Our commercial manager will be pleased to supply you with a list of the telephone numbers you most frequently call.

WELLSVILLE MAYOR URGES CONSTRUCTION OF SEWERS

FOGO APPEALS TO COUNCILMEN TO O. K. PLAN

Executive Says Many Voters Do Not Know Situation.

BONDS FAVORED

Refers to Seventeenth and Twentieth Street Districts.

Declaring that a large number of voters who cast negative ballots against the West End sewer proposals at the last general election were not fully aware of the true conditions caused by the lack of an adequate drainage system there, Mayor W. L. Fogo last night went on record before solons as recommending the installation of the sewers.

"If people knew the actual conditions caused by those sewers there they would not hesitate in putting them in," the mayor asserted, "and I want to go on record as favoring bonds for putting them in. The needs of the people in that district must be considered before individual wants."

He referred particularly to the Seventeenth street and Twentieth street sewers.

Proposal calling for the issuance of bonds to raise $24,000 for the installation of a larger sewer in Seventeenth and Commerce streets to improve drainage there, was given a small majority at the recent election, but the majority was insufficient to carry it, a fifty-five per cent vote being demanded by the statute under which the proposal was submitted.

The $5,000 issue for improvement of conditions in Twentieth street also was defeated.

The Twentieth street sewer now in use has been crushed in, according to a statement by Mayor Fogo, and is the only one at the present time that is expected to give the city any considerable amount of trouble. It will be difficult to forecast what conditions will exist there this winter, the mayor averred.

City Will Clean Up Bad Places To Avoid Possible Damage Cases

Pennsylvania Railroad Will be Asked to Fix Crossing; Railing Near Highland Avenue to be Repaired.

Inaugurating a repair program that has as its objective the cleaning up of all "the dangerous places" in the city, such as broken sewers, holes in the street and like, which may lead to damage cases, solons last night took action looking toward several repair projects.

Clerk Hardman was instructed to ask the Pennsylvania Railroad company to repair its Third street crossing, as well as the paving along its tracks further down the "belt line."

Hardman will also request that the Rosenberg company repair the railing in Highland avenue that was broken when a wagon crashed through it several weeks ago. This was brought up by Heldman who also recommended that steps be taken to repair the sewer in front of the Rosenberg property.

Referring to the sewer Mayor Fogo explained that officials of the company were already planning to concrete in front of their place of business, and this would probably end in taking care of the sewer question.

CITY REPAIRS CLARK AVENUE SEWER BREAK

Side of Brick Conductor is Broken Out in Storm.

NEAR LEYDA HOME

Biggest Project to be Completed Before Winter.

In accordance with general expectations the break in the McQueen's Run sewer at the point where it passes beneath Clark avenue, under the Leyda property, between Aten and Henry avennes, is a bad one, and hard to get at, Mayor W. L. Fogo told city council last night.

The service department began operations yesterday on the sewer at this point.

The break, according to the mayor, occurred in the side of the sewer, and although it is narrow, it extends to the street car tracks in a southerly direction. The extent of the damage in the other direction cannot be determined until workmen dig under the steps leading into the Leyda home, under which the sewer runs.

The break is probably 25 feet or more in length, according to indications. The brick out of the side of the sewer is gone, but the patch that was made last year there is still holding.

Discussing work on the other sections of the McQueen Run sewer, the mayor stated that the Schultz and Faloon properties, among the hardest hit by the storms, have been repaired satisfactorily by the city, and other operations in the Maple avenue district are practically completed.

With the completion of activities at the break in Clark avenue, the sewer will be in excellent condition for the winter, and, according to Mayor Fogo, should give the city no more trouble at all as a result of its first thorough cleaning in a number of years.

QUERY BELL CO. ON FRANCHISE

City Seeking Action on Telephone Contract.

Adjustment of the franchise problem between the city and the Ohio Bell Telephone company, of East Liverpool, is still incomplete, city councilmen were notified last night by Clerk George Hardman who has been communicating with officials of the company in recent months.

Several weeks ago, at the request of council, Hardman wrote Frank Swaney, manager of the East Liverpool office, asking him to take steps looking toward the renewal of the concern's franchise for operation of their system here.

Hardman was informed that the matter would be taken up with higher officers.

Last night Hardman told solons that he had heard nothing further from the company.

Upon the advice of City Solicitor S. C. Luccock, council instructed Hardman to direct another letter to the branch manager in East Liverpool, asking what action, if any, the company contemplates.

SEEKS DAMAGES IN CATTLE DEAL

John Desarro, of Wellsville, on Aug. 29, 1922, sold six Holstein cows to R. M. Beck, of Fairfield township, according to a petition filed in common pleas court by W. W. Beck, counsel for the plaintiff, and the cows, it is claimed, were not as represented at the time of sale. Damage to the amount of $175 is asked, with interest and costs.

Beck declares that two of the cows were supposed to be registered stock, but that he has never been given the registration papers. The other four cows were "grades." The six cows sold for $317.

SCOUTS READY FOR ROLL CALL DRIVE SUNDAY

"Have Your Dollar Ready" Request of Mercy Organization.

ASSIGN TROOPS

Meeting at Carnegie Library to Precede Campaign.

"Have your dollar ready and meet the Scouts with a smile."

This is the campaign slogan adopted by Red Cross officials as four local Boy Scout troops, comprising approximately 120 boys, prepare for the active opening of the annual Red Cross Roll Call campaign which will get under way next Sunday.

With the selection of districts and the assignment of troops to the various sections, the major part of preparatory planning has been completed.

All the compaign work will be of a voluntary nature, roll call directors announced today. Persons who subscribe will be asked to place the poster that they will receive in a window and keep it there until Thanksgiving in order that there may be no repeat calls and to promote the spirit of the campaign.

To homes making two or more subscriptions, special posters will be given for use in automobile windshields.

Sunday's campaign will start at 2 o'clock when Boy Scouts will meet with their scoutmasters in the Carnegie Public Library in Ninth and Main streets for inal instructions.

The troops assignment follows:

East End district to Fifth street—Methodist Episcopal church troop, George Schmidt, scoutmaster.

WELLSVILLE MAYOR URGES CONSTRUCTION OF SEWERS

FOGO APPEALS TO COUNCILMEN TO O. K. PLAN

Executive Says Many Voters Do Not Know Situation.

BONDS FAVORED

Refers to Seventeenth and Twentieth Street Districts.

Declaring that a large number of voters who cast negative ballots against the West End sewer proposals at the last general election were not fully aware of the true conditions caused by the lack of an adequate drainage system there, Mayor W. L. Fogo last night went on record before solons as recommending the installation of the sewers.

"If people knew the actual conditions caused by those sewers there they would not hesitate in putting them in," the mayor asserted, "and I want to go on record as favoring bonds for putting them in. The needs of the people in that district must be considered before individual wants."

He referred particularly to the Seventeenth street and Twentieth street sewers.

Proposal calling for the issuance of bonds to raise $24,000 for the installation of a larger sewer in Seventeenth and Commerce streets to improve drainage there, was given a small majority at the recent election, but the majority was insufficient to carry it, a fifty-five per cent vote being demanded by the statute under which the proposal was submitted.

The $5,000 issue for improvement of conditions in Twentieth street also was defeated.

The Twentieth street sewer now in use has been crushed in, according to a statement by Mayor Fogo, and is the only one at the present time that is expected to give the city any considerable amount of trouble. It will be difficult to forecast what conditions will exist there this winter, the mayor averred.

Women's Union of M. E. Church Holds All-day Meeting

An all-day meeting of the Women's Union of the First Methodist Episcopal church is under way here today.

City Will Clean Up Bad Places To Avoid Possible Damage Cases

Pennsylvania Railroad Will be Asked to Fix Crossing; Railing Near Highland Avenue to be Repaired.

Inaugurating a repair program that has as its objective the cleaning up of all "the dangerous places" in the city, such as broken sewers, holes in the street and like, which may lead to damage cases, solons last night took action looking toward several repair projects.

Clerk Hardman was instructed to ask the Pennsylvania Railroad company to repair its Third street crossing, as well as the paving along its tracks further down the "belt line."

Hardman will also request that the Rosenberg company repair the railing in Highland avenue that was broken when a wagon crashed through it several weeks ago. This was brought up by Heldman who also recommended that steps be taken to repair the sewer in front of the Rosenberg property.

Referring to the sewer Mayor Fogo explained that officials of the company were already planning to concrete in front of their place of business, and this would probably end in taking care of the sewer question.

CITY REPAIRS CLARK AVENUE SEWER BREAK

Side of Brick Conductor is Broken Out in Storm.

NEAR LEYDA HOME

Biggest Project to be Completed Before Winter.

In accordance with general expectations the break in the McQueen's Run sewer at the point where it passes beneath Clark avenue, under the Leyda property, between Aten and Henry avenues, is a bad one, and hard to get at, Mayor W. L. Fogo told city council last night.

The service department began operations yesterday on the sewer at this point.

The break, according to the mayor, occurred in the side of the sewer, and although it is narrow, it extends to the street car tracks in a southerly direction. The extent of the damage in the other direction cannot be determined until workmen dig under the steps leading into the Leyda home, under which the sewer runs.

The break is probably 25 feet or more in length, according to indications. The brick out of the side of the sewer is gone, but the patch that was made last year there is still holding.

Discussing work on the other sections of the McQueen Run sewer, the mayor stated that the Schultz and Faloon properties, among the hardest hit by the storms, have been repaired satisfactorily by the city, and other operations in the Maple avenue district are practically completed.

With the completion of activities at the break in Clark avenue, the sewer will be in excellent condition for the winter, and, according to Mayor Fogo, should give the city no more trouble at all as a result of its first thorough cleaning in a number of years.

QUERY BELL CO. ON FRANCHISE

City Seeking Action on Telephone Contract.

Adjustment of the franchise problem between the city and the Ohio Bell Telephone company, of East Liverpool, is still incomplete, city councilmen were notified last night by Clerk George Hardman who has been communicating with officials of the company in recent months.

Several weeks ago, at the request of council, Hardman wrote Frank Swaney, manager of the East Liverpool office, asking him to take steps looking toward the renewal of the concern's franchise for operation of their system here.

Hardman was informed that the matter would be taken up with higher officers.

Last night Hardman told solons that he had heard nothing further from the company.

Upon the advice of City Solicitor S. C. Luccock, council instructed Hardman to direct another letter to the branch manager in East Liverpool, asking what action, if any, the company contemplates.

BETTER HEALTH AND LONGER LIFE

To Be Healthy, Happy and Enjoy Life, Use "VINCO" As a Health Builder

The fame of "VINCO" Herb Tablets has become nationally known and druggists are amazed at this quick success without advertising. Millions of men and women need this treatment, which costs only 25c per box.

No man or woman can enjoy life with a sour, sick or bloated stomach, a torpid liver or constipated bowels. Lay aside nasty salts, dangerous calomel or harsh physics and use only harmless "VINCO" which can be purchased at your own druggists under guarantee of satisfaction.

"VINCO" is a pleasant chocolate coated tablet made from herbs, roots and barks which act gently, empty lower bowels and give quick relief. Especially recommended for elderly folks and for cases of chronic constipation where ordinary laxatives fail. No griping. No nausea.

Ask your druggist. He knows all about "VINCO." Get a 25c box and take "VINCO" tonight! Feel fine tomorrow! Do a double day's work! Keep looking and feeling young! Do a kindness by telling others about "VINCO."

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

help her. But he couldn't very well. For that matter, none of the men lent a hand, even when she struggled with a complicated folding cot, setting it up and dragging it within the tent.

"Kind of cute, isn't it." He turned with a start and found Sadie Hartnett at his elbow.

She waved a shapely hand. "All this business. The outfit."

"Oh, how do you do, Miss . . . ."

"They usually call me Sadie. It's hard work. But fun, too. We ought to picke up a little business down here, don't you think?"

"I certainly hope so."

"You're an editor."

"Well, I have . . . ."

"Say, listen here! How do all these girls get their pictures in the papers and press stuff and all like that?"

"I'm sure I don't know."

"You can't get anywhere without it. I've learned that. Not in this business."

"I suppose not."

"You and Hester old friends?"

"Why . . . not quite that . . . ."

"Wonderful girl, isn't she?"

"She is charming."

"And then quite a little! Ever seen her play?"

"Why . . . no.'

"You'll be crazy about her. She's a real actress. I wish I was an actress. I do a dance in the first play."

"I thought you were."

"No. Not that way. Did you know her down East?"

"Oh, in Hollywood, I suppose."

I'ce never been in Hollywo—. . . ." He stopped there.

"Well, tra la. Here's where Sadie hops along to paint the little old face. Perhaps I'll see you later. I'm not in the last play. I'll wander around back of the scats.

She was gone. With a new twist in the bewilderment of the day, Reed set off to find lodgings and put up his car. Then, for a time, he wandered by the ocean and looked out into the dimly starlight distance, thinking about the great islands and the vaster continental countries away out there that were to him as yet only yellow and green and bluff splotches on the back pages of the atlas. He'd like to go out there, some day . . Why not? He could if he choose. It was a tinkling thought. But did he want to go? Didn't he rather want more delicious days like this one that was rapidly slipping off into eternity? A day of surprise and charm. Adventure! You didn't have to go to Borneo for that. Any lunch room would do.

At about this time Hester and Sadie were making up at opposite sides of a folding table. A green shaded drop light hung between them. Hester held up the mirror for a few final touches with the lipstick.

In a dry guarded voice Sadie remarked, "You're the cute one, dear."

"Am I?"

"You and your old friend."

"It was a pick-up."

"Sure."

"I had to get here."

"Sure you did. But I didn't know they made that kind any more. Gran'pa's kind.'

"I didn't either," agreed Hester, patting her hair into place. "It's a little like having a lame puppy around. But I'm beginning to think he's a dear."

"I wouldn't mind stealing him from you at that."

"You're welcome to him. I've been thinking it might be a little awkward if he . . . is still around?"

"He was a little while back. I had a few well-chosen words with him.

"Hm!" mused Hester soberly.

"You're the cute one," said Sadie.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The answers to questions printed here each day are specimens picked from the mass of inquiries handled by the great information bureau maintained by The Review-Tribune in Washington, D. C. This valuable service is for the free use of the public. Ask any question of fact you may want to know and you will get an immediate reply. Write plainly, enclose two cents in stamps for return postage, and address The East Liverpool Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. What boxing champions have been dethroned this year? L. G.

A. They are: Harry Greb, Mickey Walker, Berlenbach, Rocky Kansas and Jack Dempsey.

Q. What percentage of the population of the earth is of the civilized races? D. A. H.

A. About one-sixth of the earth's population, comprising all of the Celtic, Slavic and Teutonic races, is civilized.

Q. Do horses differ in degree of intelligence? J. D. U.

A. They seem to. An intelligent horse shows considerable width between the eyes, which later are very prominent. A stupid horse is narrow between the eyes.

Q. Were many "unknown soldiers" brought to the United States? D. J.

A. The only one was the one who was buried as the "Unknown Soldier" in Arlington Cemetery.

Q. Does the tide come in earlier at Dover or at Cape Griz Nez? E. L. H.

A. The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey says that the tide at Cape Griz Nez, France, occurs about five minutes later than at Dover, England. The mean range of the tide at Cape Griz Nez is approximately 16.5 feet and at Dover 15 feet.

Q. Are city people more nearsighted than country people? A. G.

A. It is a recognized fact that city people are more nearsighted.

Q. What do squirrels eat? A. B. E.

A. The food of squirrels in the wild state includes, according to the time of the year, nuts and seeds, buds, mushrooms, insects, nestling birds, and fleshy fruits. In feeding caged squirrels it is necessary that they be given regularly some hard-shelled nuts, such as hickory nuts or butternuts, to keep their ever-growing incisor teeth trim in their sockets.

Q. Does the wind and frost make autumn leaves fall? P. G.

A. Leaves fall in autumn because at that time a layer of brittle cells grows across the base of the leaf stalk which cuts the leaf adrift. Wind and frost have no direct relation to leaf fall.

Q. What is an epigramme, as applied to food? E. M. L.

A. It is an entree containing two pieces of meat, generally cooked together but prepared in different ways—as, one breaded and one plain.

Q. What is meant by the "calling of the sea" in Tennyson's Enoch Arden. C. R. D.

A. The calling of the sea is an old English term for a groundswell. When this occurs on a still night the sound is sometimes heard for miles inland. Inhabitants of seaside towns looked on it as a summons by death. Tennyson refers to this phenomenon again in Crossing the Bar—"And one clear call for me."

Q. How many pounds of beef does it take to equal a quart of milk in food value? J. B.

A. The amount of beef necessary to equal in protein value a quart of milk is seven ounces of sirloin steak and six ounces of round steak; in energy, 11 ounces of sirloin steak and 12 ounces of round steak.

Q. Do more husbands or wives obtain divorces? H. B.

A. Statistics show that women have been the plaintiffs in the most divorce suit cases. In 1923 they constituted 67.8 per cent of plaintiffs. The ratio has scarcely changed since 1887. Cruelty is the chief cause of action, followed by desertion and unfaithfulness. Divorce have increased 31 per cent since 1916, but at no time have the divorces in a year out-numbered the marriages in the United States as a whole. The ratio was in 1925, one divorce to 7.2 marriages.

Q. Which are greater wrestlers, the Japanese or Chinese? O. D. B.

A. The art of wrestling has been brought to its greatest perfection in Japan where the well known jiu-jitsu is extensively practiced. The present system of jiu-jitsu is the Chinese system elaborated.

Q. How thick is the layer of gray matter which composes the brain? T. A. R.

A. In some places it is a quarter of an inch thick, while in the thinner parts it is but one tenth of an inch thick.

Q. How long will an asparagus bed produce? E. L. C.

A. A bed of asparagus will produce for a century but it is at its best between the third and sixth years.

In feeding caged squirrels it is necessary that they be given regularly some hard-shelled nuts, such as hickory nuts or butternuts, to keep their ever-growing incisor teeth firm in their sockets.

Q. Does the wind and frost make autumn leaves fall? P. G.

A. Leaves fall in autumn because at that time a layer of brittle cells grows across the base of the leaf stalk which cuts the leaf adrift. Wind and frost have no direct relation to leaf fall.

Q. What is an epigramme, as applied to food? E. M. L.

A. It is an entree containing two pieces of meat, generally cooked together but prepared in different ways—as, one breaded and one plain.

Q. What is meant by the "calling of the sea" in Tennyson's Enoch Arden. C. R. D.

A. The calling of the sea is an old English term for a groundswell. When this occurs on a still night the sound is sometimes heard for miles inland. Inhabitants of seaside towns looked on it as a summons by death. Tennyson refers to this phenomenon again in Crossing the Bar—"And one clear call for me."

Q. How many pounds of beef does it take to equal a quart of milk in food value? J. B.

A. The amount of beef necessary to equal in protein value a quart of milk is seven ounces of sirloin steak and six ounces of round steak; in energy, 11 ounces of sirloin steak and 12 ounces of round steak.

Q. Do more husbands or wives obtain divorces? H. B.

A. Statistics show that women have been the plaintiffs in the most divorce suit cases. In 1923 they constituted 67.8 per cent of plaintiffs. The ratio has scarcely changed since 1887. Cruelty is the chief cause of action, followed by desertion and unfaithfulness. Divorce have increased 31 per cent since 1916, but at no time have the divorces in a year out-numbered the marriages in the United States as a whole. The ratio was in 1925, one divorce to 7.2 marriages.

Q. Which are greater wrestlers, the Japanese or Chinese? O. D. B.

A. The art of wrestling has been brought to its greatest perfection in Japan where the well known jiu-jitsu is extensively practiced. The present system of jiu-jitsu is the Chinese system elaborated.

Q. How thick is the layer of gray matter which composes the brain? T. A. R.

A. In some places it is a quarter of an inch thick, while in the thinner parts it is but one tenth of an inch thick.

Q. How long will an asparagus bed produce? E. L. C.

A. A bed of asparagus will produce for a century but it is at its best between the third and sixth years.

Harvard-Yale Game Saturday Lacking In Traditional Glory

Remaining Members of Late Big Three Clash At New Haven

Once Great Teams, Dominating Grid Situation Through Years, Have Fallen Upon Low Estate; Victory by Either Outfit Will Mean Little to Football Situation in General.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Speaking of anti-climaxes, whether it was or not, the fact has been called to my attention that Harvard and Yale intend to play a football game at New Haven on Saturday. I think this is a fine idea. These teams of minor consequence should be encouraged.

Sooner or later, the two remaining members of the late Big Three may be good enough to get a place in the Big Twenty, composed largely of Notre Dame, Lafayette, Stanford, Alabama and kindred institutions, but it is generally understood that Rome wasn't built in an eight-hour day, with time and a half for overtime. We can't all be major teams.

Bearing Up Bravely.

Meantime, the Big Twenty is managing to bear up very bravely without assistance from Cambridge and New Haven. It being its policy to ask men, not whether their ancestors came over in the Mayflower, but whether they themselves ever went over for a touchdown. The answer usually is in the affirmative and it is repeated with pleasing regularity every Saturday or so.

O, why should the spirit of mortals be proud.

Harvard and Yale have been consoling themselves with the idea that they don't care who wins from them, just so they beat each other. I'm not particularly fond of bedtime stories.

This one is actually irritating. Did Yale care in the old days whether it lost to Upsala or Arkansas Teachers? I seem to feel that it would have frothed very elegantly at the mouth. Did Harvard worry whether Middlesex won? Harvard did, only it took good care that Middlesex lost and by the largest possible majority.

Fancied Superiority.

This is all that is left to Harvard and Yale, the false pride that prompts them to spoof themselves into a sense of fancied superiority, regardless of victory or defeat. These once great teams, dominating the situation through the eighties, nineties and the early years of the present century, have fallen upon so low an estate, speaking in a competitive sense, that they find it necessary to preach loudly the deoctrine of hokum. I didn't notice any Yale man trying to conceal the fact when the Bulldog won all of its games in 1924.

The situation has become such that few, outside of Harvard and Yale, will rush through the streets in great glee if either team scores a decisive victory on Saturday. I even doubt whether Harvard and Yale themselves will become unduly exercised.

Suppose Harvard beats Yale. A natural reaction would be negligible in effect. Didn't Brown, West Point, Maryland and Princeton beat Yale? They did. Suppose Yale beats Harvard. The Bulldog will be doing no more than Geneva, Holy Cross, Princeton and Brown did.

Each Has Won Three.

Each team has played seven games; each has won three. If it wasn't for the fact that Yale played a rush-over in Boston university and Harvard another in Tufts, both would have been outscored by the combined opposition.

If this pair is really serious about their superiority complex, why give the outsider a chance to spoil the illusion?

A season consisting of just one contest, the Harvard-Yale game, would achieve the desired effect and leave the principals with their dignity unimpaired.

May Play Hawaii.

HONOLULU, Nov. 17.—The University of Washington football team will be invited to play the University of Hawaii here during the Christmas holidays, Coach Otto Klum of the latter college announced today.

WAYNESBURG IN PATH OF BISON

Nuss Puts Green Through Session of Tackling.

BETHANY, W. Va., Nov. 17.—"Beat Waynesburg" is the cry of the Bethany college student body as the Green and White gridders are faithfully working out on college field in preparation for the tilt carded for Waynesburg, Pa., next Saturday afternoon. The Bisons to date have fared only mediocre, but if they can put across wins over Waynesburg and Geneva in the two closing tilts of the year, a successful season will have been duly realized by Coach Nuss, as well as the entire student body.

Not satisfied with the showing made in some instances in the Thiel game, the Bison mentor today opened up on the varsity and told them all just what was done right and what was done wrong. Then a long session was held in tackling, which lasted for fully an hour. Following this drill, in which the Green and White leader demanded a real showing from every man in the art of tackling and clipping, a scrimmage ensued for fully an hour and the Buffalo gridders were forced to put their instructions into actual operation.

Neel, Hagberg and Tinson were then detained, and punted until way after dark. Neel has done practically all of the kicking so far this year, but Coach Nuss is grooming another punter in case that Hump is injured. Hagberg and Tinton both kick well, but Neel's experience in this line, coupled with distance, give him the first call.

Waynesburg college will this year offer stubborn resistance to the lighter Bethany eleven, but followers of both institutions no doubt recall the plucky fight put up by both teams last year at Waynesburg, which ended in a 0-0 tie.

This game will mark the last time that Kinsey, Shives, Carey and Neel will appear on a Waynesburg gridiron, as all four will graduate next June.

COLUMBIANA USES ROOKIE GRIDDERS

Columbiana high's eleven, in its week-end clash at Salineville, covered itself with mud, if not glory, in a scoreless tie on a sloppy gridiron. On four occasions the Columbiana eleven penetrated to the Salineville five yard line, only to lose the ball on fumbles. Offensive efforts of both teams were minimized by the condition of the field.

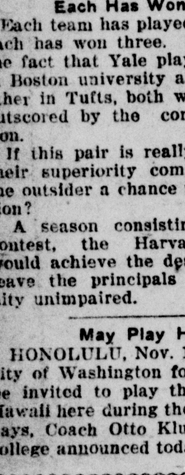
Coach Miller, of Columbiana, tried out a number of his second string players with the possibility in view of using them in the next two hard games to come with Lisbon on the 19th and East Palestine on Thanksgiving day, both contests being slated at Columbiana. Barr was used at center for the first time this year, Detwiler, regular, being rested. Hoover alternated with Switzer at a guard position while Shillinger was used at Dowd's tackle. The latter played part of the game in the backfield at D. Zeller's post.

Upon the results of the East Palestine and Lisbon games depends the success of Columbiana's season.

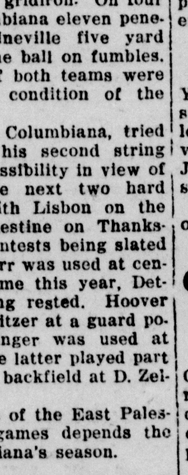
ALL-AMERICAN GRID CANDIDATES

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

The triple threat star of the New York University backfield—one of the best molded quartets in the east if not in the country—is Jack Connors, nominated today for consideration as an all-American possibility. Connors is one of the men developed by Chick Meehan, former Syracuse star.



JACK CONNORS



C. R. MOESERM

Connors led the offensive which swamped West Virginia Wesleyan, Tulane, Rutgers and Fordham and then triumphed over Carnegie Tech 6 to 0. Victories which stamp the New York eleven as a great scoring machine as well as a powerful defensive eleven, as but 10 points were scored against New York U. in the games mentioned—seven by West Va. Wes. and three by Fordham.

Moeser's a beautiful tackler. While it is vital to have wingmen who can play a leading part in an arial attack this same end must be able to check similar advances around his corner. Moeser had let few men tear through his territory.

Princeton's line which checked Harvard before tackling the Yale Bulldog, boasts several good defensive players—men who prevented the Crimson set to shake the football world. One of the best defense men on the Tiger line is Moeser, right end.

from crossing the Princeton goal line just when Horween's team seemed

His deadly tackling of Putnam of Harvard in that game paved the way for Princeton's touchdown. He hit Putnam so hard that the ball bounded out of the latter's arms and Lawler of Princeton recovered it and placed it within striking distance of Princeton's goal.

TWO BIG GAMES FOR COAST FANS

Notre Dame and U. S. C., in Feature Battle Dec. 4.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—Two great intersectional football conflicts will be exposed to the bold and brazen view of the sport-loving public in Southern California within the next six weeks.

A modern squad of Notre Dame Horsemen will try to ride The Thundering Herd of University of Southern California on December 4 at the Los Angeles Coliseum. This rodeo, which will show at their best, the football styles of the middle west and the Pacific coast, will be followed in less than a month by the classic Rose Bowl tournament for the mythical championship of the country.

Had not U. S. C. dropped a 12-13 decision to Pop Warner's Stanford team, the Notre Dame-Trojan conflict on December 4 might have the Rose Bowl clash a needless formality, like fingerbowls. The Trojans had hoped to enter the game champion of the west coast, and Notre Dame was expected to be an eastern contender for national honors.

As it happened, Coach Howard Jones' Trojans lost, not only because Stanford had the will to win and overcame a twelve point handicap, but also because Morley Drury, Star U. S. C. back and lord high executioner of the point-after-touchdown was out of the game with a wrenched knee. Laraeta, his substitute, missed both goals; Drury hasn't muffed two in a row all season.

Two styles of shift will be employed in the December 4 set-to. The Notre Dame backfield snaps into plays with the wooden soldier precision of a goose-step drill; the Trojan line rudely deploys itself with back to the enemy and swings about as the ball is passed.

A great presentation of the running game is also in prospect as Morton Kaer, Trojan quarterback, is one of the fastest and shiftiest ball lungers on the coast. Rockne's backfields are always capable performers in an open field.

As for the Rose Bowl contest itself, no teams have been definitely selected to represent the two far corners of the country. That will come when the season is over. Brown, however, it was admitted, is being watched with interest as an eastern candidate, whereas either Stanford or Washington State might make a fitting representative of the Pacific coast.

RANGERS WIN ICE TILT WITH CHAMPS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The New York Rangers, a new entry in the National hockey league, were leading the league today as a result of their 1 to 0 victory over the Montreal Maroons, champions of the world, before a packed house in Madison Square Garden last night. Bill Cook shot the winning goal.

The game was unusually rough. The league record of seventeen penalties was broken and a fight took place between Boucher of the Rangers and Phillips of the Maroons.

Pittsburgh Team Defeated.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17—The New York Americans today loom as a strong contender for national hockey league honors following their 1 to 0 victory over the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets here last night. Bouchard, a spare, made the winning marker.

The New York team excelled both on offense and defense.

CUEISTS BATTLE FOR WORLD CROWN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17—Ralph Greenleaf, former champion, now representing Philadelphia, and Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, will meet tonight to decide the world's championship in pocket billiards.

This was determined last night when Greenleaf created the sensation of the tournament by defeating Frank Tabersky, 1925 champion, by 125 to 0, tying Rudolph for the lead with seven victories and one defeat. Rudolph defeated Pasquale Natalie, representing Atlantic City, by 125 to 101.

EISMAN LANDS TOURNEY MATCH

G. Eisman broke into the winning column in the American Billiard tourney last night by defeating Trout in a close match, 100 to 97.

Shaffer and Rodebaugh will clash tonight.

When you go on up with both arms from the point where the clubhead is about even with your waist, having withdrawn the club straight back from the ball, you will quickly observe that all the usual strain and tugging at yourself disappear from your back swing. You may begin to note, too, how little body twisting and body action as a whole there really are in the back swing. Going on up with the arms causes the pivoting to be in the shoulders mostly where it should be. This will convince you that there isn't nearly so much body turning in the swing as the average player thinks there is. Trying to twist and turn the body into the swing is what makes the effort difficult. This other way makes it simple and easy. The main thing is—take plenty of time with it.

STATE IS LAST GAME FOR PITT

Panthers Meet Lions on Thanksgiving Day.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 17.—The University of Pittsburgh eleven will bring its 1926 season to a close Thanksgiving Day when Penn State makes its annual appearance in the stadium here. The Panther-Lion series is rich in gridiron lore and has has come to be regarded as holding equal rank with the W. & J. game as one of the season's high lights. No game is scheduled for next Saturday.

State has not defeated Pitt since 1919 when the famous team captained by Bob Higgins ran away with a 20-0 victory that was featured by the historic forward pass thrown to Higgins from behind the Lion goal. The Lion leader raced the length of the field for a touchdown that has become one of the legends of football.

However, the Panthers are not anticipating a triumph this year. Last fall, following a campaign that was almost as disastrous as the one it has just passed through, the Bezdek-coached eleven came to Pittsburgh and gave Pitt one of the most spectacular battles of the year. Pitt won, 23 to 7, but even the most rabid Pitt follower did not believe that the score showed the even terms on which the rivals battled.

Pitt's season has been far from successful. The coaches have been forced to construct and reconstruct all season from among a squad of comparatively green players with the result that it was early November before the varsity was finally determined. The team, however, will be remembered as one of the hardest fightifg units within memory. It has been outmatched several times, but has battled doggedly against opponents rated much more powerful. Few members of the squad will be lost by graduation, and Dr. Sutherland should have another strong eleven in 1927.

BLUES DEFEAT MIDLAND, 7-0

The East End Blues defeated the Midland Independents Sunday at Midland, 7 to 0.

Although outweighed the Blues played an effective brand of ball. The Blues scored in the first period. Midland kicked off. Brookes made four at tackle and Staats made a first down around right end. Dill and Brookes hit the line for five yards. A pass failed. Springer kicked and Suffoletta fumbled, White recovering for the Blues on the Midland 15 yard line. Brooks hit tackle for five yards. A pass, Dill to Boso, was good for the touchdown. Springer, McLaughlin, H. Brooks, Staats, Boso, Leek and Dill played good football for the winners.

JUNIOR TEAMS MEET ON GRID

Chester Sends Youthful Eleven to Parkersburg.

TAKING front rank among the outstanding grid events of the northern Panhandle district of West Virginia Saturday will be the clash between the junior high school elevens of Chester and Parkersburg, to be staged at the latter city as one of the first events of its kind in the northern section of the Mountain state.

The game will be staged in the new Parkersburg stadium. Outside officials of recognized caliber will be hired to work the contest. Youthful cheer leaders will gyrate along the sidelines. In fact, there will be all the markings of a regular "big league" game, the object of the entire plan being the promotion of junior athletics.

A squad of 16 Chester players will make the trip to Parkersburg under the direction of P. M. Skinner, principal and coach, and S. G. Rummell.

The squad will leave Friday at noon in a 21-passenger Canton line bus, going by way of Wheeling, Cambridge and Marietta.

The lads have been working out diligently for the past several days, with Coach Ray Wilde, of the high school team, assisting Skinner in shaping up the outfit for the contest.

In all likelihood, Skinner will use the following eleven as a starter: Ralph Springer, quarter; Oscar Johnson and Jack Wills, halves; James Sherwood, fullback; Ralph Hobbs, center; Richard Brown and John Harrison, ends; Frank Agness and Chester Tucker, tackles; Elmer Milby and Bill Aldredge, guards. The reserves will include Gale Davis, Bob Aldredge, William Damms, Thomas Blackmore and Wayne Swearingen.

The entire town is taking a big interest in the game and grid fans indicated their approval by contributing $50 out of their own pockets to make the trip possible.

The Chester kids have been playing for three years. Their record this season includes six consecutive victories, their victims being the Newell Junior high, Sixth Street, the Kickapoo Indians and Grant Street of East Liverpool. The Chesterites took three from Newell.

PENN IS GIVEN PRINCETON DATE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17.—Bill Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, has announced that University of Pennsylvania has been selected to take the place of Princeton on the Harvard football schedule. The first game will be played at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Nov. 5, next season. The Quakers will visit the stadium on Nov. 10, 1928.

GLIMPSES FROM THE SIDELINES

Off To Nebraska.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—New York University's undefeated football eleven leaves this afternoon for Lincoln, Neb., where the powerful Nebraska team will be met on Saturday. The Violet squad will work out on Stagg Field, Chicago, tomorrow and will reach Lincoln Friday morning.

Cates Helps Jones.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17.—Jack Cates, head coach at Bowdoin, is helping Tad Jones whip the Yale eleven into shape for the Harvard game Saturday. Cates, who was an all-American end, is concentrating on the wingmen.

May Lose Jobs.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17. — Al Miller, speedy back, Kilgour, guard, and French, back, face demotion to the scrubs in the impending shakeup on the Harvard varsity. Clark, Stewart and Guarnaccia probably will replace these players against Yale.

Stress Aerial Game.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Fordham's freshman eleven, equipped with Georgetown plays, will oppose the varsity in scrimmage today. The Maroon is stressing the aerial game for use against the Washington team on Saturday.

Fight Results

AT NEW YORK—Sammy Dorfman, of New York, won decision over Steve Smith, of Bridgeport, Conn., six rounds.

Johnny Green, of New York, won decision over Davey Abad, of Panama, six rounds.

AT AKRON, O.—Sammy Vogel, of New York, knocked out Tod Smith, of England, in the fifth round.

Then a long session was held in tackling, which lasted for fully an hour. Following this drill, in which the Green and White leader demanded a real showing from every man in the art of tackling and clipping, a scrimmage ensued for fully an hour and the Buffalo gridders were forced to put their instructions into actual operation.

Neel, Hagberg and Tinson were then detained, and punted until way after dark. Neel has done practically all of the kicking so far this year, but Coach Nuss is grooming another punter in case that Hump is injured. Hagberg and Tinton both kick well, but Neel's experience in this line, coupled with distance, give him the first call.

Waynesburg college will this year offer stubborn resistance to the lighter Bethany eleven, but followers of both institutions no doubt recall the plucky fight put up by both teams last year at Waynesburg, which ended in a 0-0 tie.

This game will mark the last time that Kinsey, Shives, Carey and Neel will appear on a Waynesburg gridiron, as all four will graduate next June.

COLUMBIANA USES ROOKIE GRIDDERS

Columbiana high's eleven, in its week-end clash at Salineville, covered itself with mud, if not glory, in a scoreless tie on a sloppy gridiron. On four occasions the Columbiana eleven penetrated to the Salineville five yard line, only to lose the ball on fumbles. Offensive efforts of both teams were minimized by the condition of the field.

Coach Miller, of Columbiana, tried out a number of his second string players with the possibility in view of using them in the next two hard games to come with Lisbon on the 19th and East Palestine on Thanksgiving day, both contests being slated at Columbiana. Barr was used at center for the first time this year, Detwiler, regular, being rested. Hoover alternated with Switzer at a guard position while Shillinger was used at Dowd's tackle. The latter played part of the game in the backfield at D. Zeiler's post.

Upon the results of the East Palestine and Lisbon games depends the success of Columbiana's season.

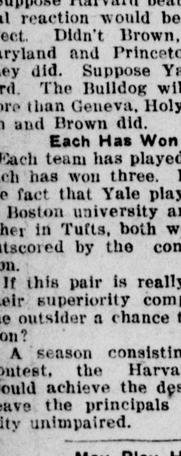
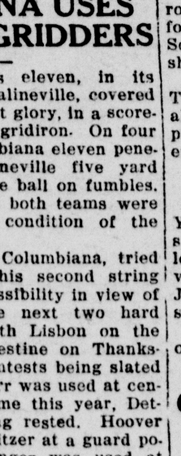
By NORMAN E. BROWN.

The triple threat star of the New York University backfield—one of the best molded quartets in the east if not in the country—is Jack Connors, nominated today for consideration as an all-American possibility. Connors is one of the men developed by Chick Meehan, former Syracuse star.



JACK CONNORS



C. R. MOESERM

Connors led the offensive which swamped West Virginia Wesleyan, Tulane, Rutgers and Fordham and then triumphed over Carnegie Tech 6 to 0. Victories which stamp the New York eleven as a great scoring machine as well as a powerful defensive eleven, as but 10 points were scored against New York U. in the games mentioned—seven by West Va. Wes. and three by Fordham.

Moeser's a beautiful tackler. While it is vital to have wingmen who can play a leading part in an arial attack this same end must be able to check similar advances around his corner. Moeser had let few men tear through his territory.

Princeton's line which checked Harvard before tackling the Yale Bulldog, boasts several good defensive players—men who prevented the Crimson from crossing the Princeton goal line just when Horween's team seemed set to shake the football world. One of the best defense men on the Tiger line is Moeser, right end.

His deadly tackling of Putnam of Harvard in that game paved the way for Princeton's touchdown. He hit Putnam so hard that the ball bounded out of the latter's arms and Lawler of Princeton recovered it and placed it within striking distance of Princeton's goal.

TWO BIG GAMES FOR COAST FANS

Notre Dame and U. S. C., in Feature Battle Dec. 4.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—Two great intersectional football conflicts will be exposed to the bold and brazen view of the sport-loving public in Southern California within the next six weeks.

A modern squad of Notre Dame Horsemen will try to ride The Thundering Herd of University of Southern California on December 4 at the Los Angeles Coliseum. This rodeo, which will show at their best, the football styles of the middle west and the Pacific coast, will be followed in less than a month by the classic Rose Bowl tournament for the mythical championship of the country.

Had not U. S. C. dropped a 12-13 decision to Pop Warner's Stanford team, the Notre Dame-Trojan conflict on December 4 might have the Rose Bowl clash a needless formality, like fingerbowls. The Trojans had hoped to enter the game champion of the west coast, and Notre Dame was expected to be an eastern contender for national honors.

As it happened, Coach Howard Jones' Trojans lost, not only because Stanford had the will to win and overcame a twelve point handicap, but also because Morley Drury, Star U. S. C. back and lord high executioner of the point-after-touchdown was out of the game with a wrenched knee. Laraeta, his substitute, missed both goals; Drury hasn't muffed two in a row all season.

Two styles of shift will be employed in the December 4 set-to. The Notre Dame backfield snaps into plays with the wooden soldier precision of a goose-step drill; the Trojan line rudely deploys itself with back to the enemy and swings about as the ball is passed.

A great presentation of the running game is also in prospect as Morton Kaer, Trojan quarterback, is one of the fastest and shiftiest ball lungers on the coast. Rockne's backfields are always capable performers in an open field.

As for the Rose Bowl contest itself, no teams have been definitely selected to represent the two far corners of the country. That will come when the season is over. Brown, however, it was admitted, is being watched with interest as an eastern candidate, whereas either Stanford or Washington State might make a fitting representative of the Pacific coast.

RANGERS WIN ICE TILT WITH CHAMPS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The New York Rangers, a new entry in the National hockey league, were leading the league today as a result of their 1 to 0 victory over the Montreal Maroons, champions of the world, before a packed house in Madison Square Garden last night. Bill Cook shot the winning goal.

The game was unusually rough. The league record of seventeen penalties was broken and a fight took place between Boucher of the Rangers and Phillips of the Maroons.

Pittsburgh Team Defeated.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17—The New York Americans today loom as a strong contender for national hockey league honors following their 1 to 0 victory over the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets here last night. Bouchard, a spare, made the winning marker.

The New York team excelled both on offense and defense.

CUEISTS BATTLE FOR WORLD CROWN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17—Ralph Greenleaf, former champion, now representing Philadelphia, and Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, will meet tonight to decide the world's championship in pocket billiards.

This was determined last night when Greenleaf created the sensation of the tournament by defeating Frank Tabersky, 1925 champion, by 125 to 0, tying Rudolph for the lead with seven victories and one defeat. Rudolph defeated Pasquale Natalie, representing Atlantic City, by 125 to 101.

EISMAN LANDS TOURNEY MATCH

G. Eisman broke into the winning column in the American Billiard tourney last night by defeating Trout in a close match, 100 to 97.

Shaffer and Rodebaugh will clash tonight.

P. Rodebaugh	0	3	.000

Young Joe Bucheit broke the American Bowling alley record in duckpins last night by rolling a score of 277, with 11 strikes and a spare.

ILLINOIS WON'T SANCTION BOUT

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—The Illinois boxing commission today refused to sanction the proposed Jack Delaney-Orlando Reyerberri match scheduled here for Nov. 26. The commission ruled the Italian is not a fit opponent for the light heavyweight champion.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

When you go on up with both arms from the point where the clubhead is about even with your waist, having withdrawn the club straight back from the ball, you will quickly observe that all the usual strain and tugging at yourself disappear from your back swing. You may begin to note, too, how little body twisting and body action as a whole there really are in the back swing. Going on up with the arms causes the pivoting to be in the shoulders mostly where it should be. This will convince you that there isn't nearly so much body turning in the swing as the average player thinks there is. Trying to twist and turn the body into the swing is what makes the effort difficult. This other way makes it simple and easy. The main thing is—take plenty of time with it.

STATE IS LAST GAME FOR PITT

Panthers Meet Lions on Thanksgiving Day.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 17.—The University of Pittsburgh eleven will bring its 1926 season to a close Thanksgiving Day when Penn State makes its annual appearance in the stadium here. The Panther-Lion series is rich in gridiron lore and has has come to be regarded as holding equal rank with the W. & J. game as one of the season's high lights. No game is scheduled for next Saturday.

State has not defeated Pitt since 1919 when the famous team captained by Bob Higgins ran away with a 20-0 victory that was featured by the historic forward pass thrown to Higgins from behind the Lion goal. The Lion leader raced the length of the field for a touchdown that has become one of the legends of football.

However, the Panthers are not anticipating a triumph this year. Last fall, following a campaign that was almost as disastrous as the one it has just passed through, the Bezdek-coached eleven came to Pittsburgh and gave Pitt one of the most spectacular battles of the year. Pitt won, 23 to 7, but even the most rabid Pitt follower did not believe that the score showed the even terms on which the rivals battled.

Pitt's season has been far from successful. The coaches have been forced to construct and reconstruct all season from among a squad of comparatively green players with the result that it was early November before the varsity was finally determined. The team, however, will be remembered as one of the hardest fighting units within memory. It has been outmatched several times, but has battled doggedly against opponents rated much more powerful. Few members of the squad will be lost by graduation, and Dr. Sutherland should have another strong eleven in 1927.

BLUES DEFEAT MIDLAND, 7-0

The East End Blues defeated the Midland Independents Sunday at Midland, 7 to 0.

Although outweighed the Blues played an effective brand of ball. The Blues scored in the first period. Midland kicked off. Brookes made four at tackle and Staats made a first down around right end. Dill and Brookes hit the line for five yards. A pass failed. Springer kicked and Suffoletta fumbled, White recovering for the Blues on the Midland 15 yard line. Brooks hit tackle for five yards. A pass, Dill to Boso, was good for the touchdown. Springer, McLaughlin, H. Brooks, Staats, Boso, Leek and Dill played good football for the winners.

Hockey In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Professional hockey will make its bow in Chicago tonight when the Blackhawks of Chicago clash with the St. Pat's of Toronto, Canada, in the first game of the newly organized national league.

Society has taken kindly to the new sport, most of the boxes having been reserved for the elite of the "gold coast."

JUNIOR TEAMS MEET ON GRID

Chester Sends Youthful Eleven to Parkersburg.

TAKING front rank among the outstanding grid events of the northern Panhandle district of West Virginia Saturday will be the clash between the junior high school elevens of Chester and Parkersburg, to be staged at the latter city as one of the first events of its kind in the northern section of the Mountain state.

The game will be staged in the new Parkersburg stadium. Outside officials of recognized caliber will be hired to work the contest. Youthful cheer leaders will gyrate along the sidelines. In fact, there will be all the markings of a regular "big league" game, the object of the entire plan being the promotion of junior athletics.

A squad of 16 Chester players will make the trip to Parkersburg under the direction of P. M. Skinner, principal and coach, and S. G. Rummell.

The squad will leave Friday at noon in a 21-passenger Canton line bus, going by way of Wheeling, Cambridge and Marietta.

The lads have been working out diligently for the past several days, with Coach Ray Wilde, of the high school team, assisting Skinner in shaping up the outfit for the contest.

In all likelihood, Skinner will use the following eleven as a starter: Ralph Springer, quarter; Oscar Johnson and Jack Wilis, halves; James Sherwood, fullback; Ralph Hobbs, center; Richard Brown and John Harrison, ends; Frank Agness and Chester Tucker, tackles; Elmer Milby and Bill Aldredge, guards. The reserves will include Gale Davis, Bob Aldredge, William Damms, Thomas Blackmore and Wayne Swearingen.

The entire town is taking a big interest in the game and grid fans indicated their approval by contributing $50 out of their own pockets to make the trip possible.

The Chester kids have been playing for three years. Their record this season includes six consecutive victories, their victims being the Newell Junior high, Sixth Street, the Kickapoo Indians and Grant Street of East Liverpool. The Chesterites took three from Newell.

PENN IS GIVEN PRINCETON DATE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17.—Bill Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, has announced that University of Pennsylvania has been selected to take the place of Princeton on the Harvard football schedule. The first game will be played at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Nov. 5, next season. The Quakers will visit the stadium on Nov. 10, 1928.

GLIMPSES FROM THE SIDELINES

Off To Nebraska.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—New York University's undefeated football eleven leaves this afternoon for Lincoln, Neb., where the powerful Nebraska team will be met on Saturday. The Violet squad will work out on Stagg Field, Chicago, tomorrow and will reach Lincoln Friday morning.

Cates Helps Jones.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17. — Jack Cates, head coach at Bowdoin, is helping Tad Jones whip the Yale eleven into shape for the Harvard game Saturday. Cates, who was an all-American end, is concentrating on the wingmen.

May Lose Jobs.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17. — Al Miller, speedy back, Kilgour, guard, and French, back, face demotion to the scrubs in the impending shakeup on the Harvard varsity. Clark, Stewart and Guarnaccia probably will replace these players against Yale.

Stress Aerial Game.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Fordham's freshman eleven, equipped with Georgetown plays, will oppose the varsity in scrimmage today. The Maroon is stressing the aerial game for use against the Washington team on Saturday.

Fight Results

AT NEW YORK—Sammy Dorfman, of New York, won decision over Steve Smith, of Bridgeport, Conn., six rounds.

Johnny Green, of New York, won decision over Davey Abad, of Panama, six rounds.

AT AKRON, O.—Sammy Vogel, of New York, knocked out Tod Smith, of England, in the fifth round.

1845 total miles traveled
62 hrs. 8 min. total driving time

Driven by a representative of the Automobile Club of Washington, an absolutely stock Whippet Sedan left the Canadian border at 8 a. m. Friday, October 1st, for Mexico.

All conditions of traffic were encountered — storms in Oregon — fog in the Siskiyous — snow in the high mountains — city traffic — desert heat — traveling over the poorest of dirt roads and the very finest of pavements —never exceeding the speed limits—driving as you would drive.

Without mechanical adjustment of any kind, the Whippet arrived in Tia Juana, Mexico, at 2:17 p. m. Tuesday, October 5th, indicating the definite superiority of Whippet construction.

Haskin's Letter

in Japanese history, or a representation of the Imperial Court with all the chief personages from the Mikado and Empress down.

Even the historic Red Cross doll, Miss Rose Percy, has not a more complete trousseau than many of the bride dolls of these Japanese children. These almond-eyed bride dolls have their "hope chests" which are made of exquisite lacquer and are filled with gorgeous silken kimonos and other necessities of one of their rank entering the holy state of matrimony.

There seems little doubt but that many of these family collections of dolls trace the history of the fashions of Japan. From this standpoint collections of dolls of any nation are particularly interesting to the feminine eye. The strange thing is that many times a doll which belonged to one's grandmother may look preposterous at one period and when viewed some years later will be found to contain many characteristics of the modern mode. This, of course, is more likely to be true in western countries than in those of the east, since the people of the latter have until comparatively recent years dressed in lavish and picturesque fashion.

The American Doll Messengers of Friendship who are to take part in this charming Japanese celebration will carry to the Flowery Kingdom the latest thing in American fashions. From the interest already displayed in the contest, it seems certain that those finally selected will be finished products to the last detail.

Principles of heredity are being applied to voices and scientists say that from the voice types of parents it is easy to predict the kind of voices of their children.

'Haskin's Letter

in Japanese history, or a representation of the Imperial Court with all the chief personages from the Mikado and Empress down.

Even the historic Red Cross doll, Miss Rose Percy, has not a more complete trousseau than many of the bride dolls of these Japanese children. These almond-eyed bride dolls have their "hope chests" which are made of exquisite lacquer and are filled with gorgeous silken kimonos and other necessities of one of their rank entering the holy state of matrimony.

There seems little doubt but that many of these family collections of dolls trace the history of the fashions of Japan. From this standpoint collections of dolls of any nation are particularly interesting to the feminine eye. The strange thing is that many times a doll which belonged to one's grandmother may look preposterous at one period and when viewed some years later will be found to contain many characteristics of the modern mode. This, of course, is more likely to be true in western countries than in those of the east, since the people of the latter have until comparatively recent years dressed in lavish and picturesque fashion.

The American Doll Messengers of Friendship who are to take part in this charming Japanese celebration will carry to the Flowery Kingdom the latest thing in American fashions. From the interest already displayed in the contest, it seems certain that those finally selected will be finished products to the last detail.

Principles of heredity are being applied to voices and scientists say that from the voice types of parents it is easy to predict the kind of voices of their children.

ON THE Los Angeles flying field at 12:30 yesterday Maj. Mosely said: "Kelly will be along any minute now."

There appears a speak in the sky and along comes Kelly, leaning over his right wing as he curves around the landing field, then taxies up, with the rear of propeller and engine dying down.

A LITTLE Ford mail wagon picks up 220 pounds of mail, as a chippy bird might take a worm from an eagle, and hurries away to the postoffice.

Out climbs the pilot, F. W. Kelly, and from the passenger seat down comes F. A. Hunt of the Salt Lake Telegram, "making the round trip just for the ride."

They had left Salt Lake at 5:50 in the morning, stopped at Las Vegas, and made the 600-mile trip in five hours and ten minutes actual flying time.

KELLY'S mind is not on flying. He is showing other men on the field a bright pink contrivance, in which a baby can sit, out of danger, suspended from the ceiling. It's for his small boy, born the night before he started on this round trip.

"IS FLYING SAFE?" says he. "Of course, not as safe as when you are running around the city in that automobile the way they drive now."

Flying seems so natural that this pilot wonders why you ask about it.

Since he took this job, last April, Kelly has made the trip between Salt Lake City and the Pacific 110 times, 66,000 flying miles. He has two day's rest between flights.

Before he flew Kelly held the world's record for high hurdles. He is taking higher hurdles now over the mountains that separate Salt Lake City and the Pacific.

His first hop as he starts east in the morning is 8,000 feet high over the Cajon pass, that leads up from the Pacific to the Mojave valley.

THE flying machine, invented in America, is a success, and this country could produce pilots by the thousand.

Why must the richest government on earth rely on private commercial enterprise for its flying equipment?

CATHERINE DENINO will be tried for murder. She is now 16, and married. When only 12, she had fallen into the hands of a villain named Louis Fino, and when she married he wrote that unless she sent money he would tell her husband about her past.

The husband saw the letter and put her out. She traveled from Chicago to New York and found Louis Fino, stepping out of a barber shop, neatly shaved, with a new haircut. It was his last.

An Automobile Road Book

The pleasure of an automobile trip depends on whether or not you go over the right roads. There will be all the difference between smooth going and bumps, between macadam and sand, between beautiful scenery and drab, between good hotels and bad.

Let our Washington Information Bureau aid you. It has for distribution an automobile road book which gives insignia and descriptions of the principal highways of the United States. It contains an auto trail map, lists the various state parks and camp sites, and is full of practical and useful suggestions for the autoist.

Send for your copy today. Enclose four cents in stamps for return postage and handling.

SPECULATORS OFFER SEATS AT PRICES OF $10 AND $15

Pay for Six, But Receive Allotments of Four.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. — A congressional investigation into the distribution of tickets to the annual army and navy football classic, to be played in Chicago this year, was demanded today by Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., Republican, of New York, as a result of charges of ticket speculation.

Hold $3,500 Congressional Money.

Incensed by his failure to get tickets at the usual price, while thousands of pasteboards can be bought at higher prices, Fish declared he was considering the introduction of a resolution, calling for an inquiry, as soon as congress convenes.

The principal complaint against officials of the game was that they reduced the congressional allotment without warning. In all, 435 congressmen and 96 senators will get but 2,124 tickets out of the 100,000 placed on sale. If this quota had been set originally, there might have been much grumbling but peace might have been preserved.

Under the present conditions, however, senators and representatives were promised six tickets apiece. The purchasers then sent in their checks for six tickets and over the last weekend, they received their pasteboards. They learned then that some one had reduced the individual allotments to four tickets, while retaining the price of the other two tickets. Somewhere, somebody is holding about $3,500 of congressional money, as the tickets were sold for $3.50 each.

Hint Secretaries in Market.

On top of this bad news, senators and congressmen received notice they could buy anywhere up to 20 tickets if they were willing to pay $10 and $15 apiece. To the congressional mind, this smacked of evidence that a senagambian might be hidden in the football woodpile.

The reduction of their tickets, too, led to serious complications in

Golf Club Stocks Are Subject to 10 Per Cent Tax

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Payments made to golf, social, athletic or sporting clubs for stock or membership certificates are subject to a 10 per cent tax, the United States court of claims ruled in a test case brought by the Alliance Country club of Alliance, Nebraska.

Heretofore, the treasury has exacted the tax by construing the term "initiation fee" to include payments for stocks in clubs.

Investments in club stock, which may be repaid to the purchaser, cannot be construed as an initiation fee, the court held.

Clubs are now entitled to bring suit on behalf of members to recover taxes erroneously or illegally collected.

DRIVERS UNHURT IN AUTO CRASH

Two drivers were unhurt when two automobiles crashed head-on on Pennsylvania avenue near the Fisher bakery site at 7 o'clock last evening.

The cars, a Nash sedan, driven by William Rogers, Pennsylvania avenue insurance man, traveling east, and a Buick roadster, driven by Donald Glass, street car conductor, going west, were badly damaged. The Glass machine was hurled across the street car tracks into the ditch on the north side of the road. The cars were removed by the McElravy wrecking equipment.

Police investigated, but no arrests were made.

STEUBENVILLE SELLS COAL AT 23 CENTS AFTER PRICES TUMBLE

East Liverpool Dealers Ask 28 and 30 for Deliveries.

Salem Cuts Lump From 36 to 28 Cents.

While coal consumers in Steubenville were paying 23 cents per bushel, retail prices in the East Liverpool district today remained at 28 and 30 cents per bushel, according to quotations made by dealers.

PRICE OF COAL IN FIVE TOWNS

Coal prices in East Liverpool and surrounding towns today were as follows:

East Liverpool—lump, 28 and 30 cents; nut, 26 cents.

Wellsville—lump, 30 cents; nut, 25 cents.

Chester—lump, 28 cents.

Steubenville—lump, 23 cents.

Salem—lump, 28 cents.

Three weeks ago, coal jumped from 23 and 24 cents per bushel to 32 cents here. For a few days it was quoted at 34 cents, and then it dropped to 32 cents. Today dealers were accepting orders for deliveries in large amounts in the down town district at 28 cents and for smaller amounts in the outlying sections at 30 cents. A lower grade nut coal was being delivered for 26 cents.

The Steubenville Coal and Mining company, controlling approximately 98 per cent of the business in Steubenville, today was making deliveries of lump coal from its mine and tipple at 23 cents per bushel. There are no dealers in Pittsburgh coal in Steubenville, but the product of this mine having an output of about 600 tons daily is said to be as good as western Pennsylvania fuel.

HOUSE OF DAVID CHIEF POSTS $50,000 BOND; EIGHT OTHERS CAUGHT

STATE TROOPS ACT UPON TIP GIVEN BY ONE OF ALLEGED WOMEN VICTIMS

Wearing Only Underwear and Heavy Sweater, Purnell Refuses to Answer Queries of His Questioners as He Sits Mute in Cell in Berrien County Jail.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Nov. 17.—"King" Benjamin Purnell, ruler of the House of David, was back at the colony today under $50,000 bail and with deputy sheriffs guarding him following his arrest in a raid on the colony last night.

King Ben went to court today for the first time in his life. He was arraigned before Miss Elizabeth Forham, justice of the peace, on charges brought four years ago by Ruth Bamford Reed and Gladys Bamford Rubel, former members of the cult. W. J. Barnard, Ben's attorney, waived reading of the warrant and demanded an examination which was set for Dec. 22. After bail had been furnished Barnard agreed to the court's provision that deputy sheriffs guard the cult buildings night and day until the examination.

The notorious leader of the House of David was arrested with eight of his followers at midnight last night by Inspector Ira H. Marmon and 15 of his state troopers in the administration building of the Shiloh colony.

The raid followed tips from a neighboring farmer and one of King Ben's alleged women victims.

Wearing only his underwear and a heavy sweater, King Ben appeared obviously a sick man and since his arrest he has sat mute in his cell in the Berrien county jail, his eyes downcast and refusing to answer any of the many queries of his questioners. He still wore his long, gray, flowing whiskers.

Protected by Followers.

"King" Ben's arrest followed a four-year international search which grew out of sensational charges brought against him by girl members of his cult. During all this time, the cult leader has been under the protection of his followers at the House of David, according to tips furnished Allen G. Straight, state commissioner of public safety.

The statement today of William J. Barnard, of Paw Paw, Mich., the cult leader's attorney, was that Ben had not been in the colony, but has been traveling about the country, was denied by Straight.

"We have definite information that Ben has been hiding in Shiloh all this time,' said Straight. "Here's how we got the tip that led to his arrest.

"Mrs. Bessie Woodworth, a former girl ward of Purnell, who was ousted from the colony after alleged maltreatment by him, complained to a neighboring farmer near Benton Harbor and told the man Ben was still in hiding there.

"About a week ago, the farmer wrote me concerning this information, and I ordered Inspector Marmon with 15 troopers to make the raid last night.

"My orders were to conduct the raid as quietly as possible, and reports of axe smashing and the finding of women companions with him in

STOLEN TOURING CAR RECOVERED

A Ford touring car belonging to K. D. Adams, employed at Dam No. 8, near Kenilworth, was stolen while parked on St. Clair avenue last night while Adams was attending the Strand theatre. The machine was found today near the corner of Green lane and Spring street, where it had been abandoned.

Lorain Boy, 16, Sought as Violator Of Prohibition Law

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 17.—A warrant for the arrest of the youngest alleged violator of the national prohibition act ever issued here, was made out by federal authorities today for John Kachur, 16, a high school student, of Lorain, O.

Another warrant was issued for Eugene Eddy, proprietor of a drug store at Lorain and employer of Kachur.

Federal agents charged that the druggist paid the youth $9 a week to carry liquor from the drug store to the rendezvous of a bootlegger where it was dispensed.

TWO TOTS DIE AS HOME BURNS

Elyria Mother is Burned in Attempt to Rescue Them.

ELYRIA, O., Nov. 17. — Arline, 2, and Myron, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Dennison, of Birmingham, Erie county, were burned to death in their home this morning. Mrs. Dennison was so seriously burned in attempting to save her children, that it is believed she will die.

The mother was in the yard of the home when she saw flames flash from an open door.

Mrs. Dennison dashed into the blazing building and was overcome by smoke. Neighbors rescued her although she had been badly burned by her flaming clothing.

Bodies of the children have not been recovered.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 17. — Eighty witnesses, at least, will be called by the defense in the Hall-Mills murder trial, it was learned from an authoritative source today.

The defense witnesses will include the three defendants, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, as well as Felix Di Martini, the private detective whose activities in Mrs. Hall's behalf are alleged to have gone so far he attempted to bribe one woman who "knew too much" for $2,500.

Di Martini will be called, it was positively stated, to combat the startling evidence given yesterday by Mrs. Marie Demarest, middle aged housewife of New Brunswick, who testified Di Martini offered to pay off the $2,500 mortgage on her home if she would "forget" she saw Henry Stevens in New Brunswick the morning after the Rev. Edward W. Hall and his pretty young choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, were shot to death in De Russey's lane four years ago. Henry Stevens claimed he was in Lavalette, N. J., his home, on that morning. Di Martini was employed by Mrs. Hall for several months after the murders as her private investigator. For a time he lived in the Hall home.

Call Mrs. Gibson Tomorrow.

Mrs. Jane Gibson's "eye witness story," tomorrow, the last big gun to be fired by the state, will be counteracted by the defense with the testimony of Mrs. Salome Gerrenner, her mother, who will attack Mrs. Gibson's character and veracity.

Mrs. Hall is represented as eager to clear herself before the world from the witness stand. So are her two brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens.

"Mrs. Gibson has made certain definite charges which involve me and which are untrue," Mrs. Hall is quoted as saying. "It will be necessary, I suppose, for me personally to deny them, which I most certainly will do.

Court Adjourned Today.

"I am not guilty of any crime. I have nothing to conceal and I am perfectly willing to face cross examination."

The "million dollar" defense today took advantage of the one-day adjournment of court to put the finishing touches to their case. They were quartered around their conference table in the library of the palatial mansion of Trowbridge Callaway, baker, at Royce alley, three miles south of Somerville. There, every night since the trial opened, the defense' attorneys have held lengthy conferences, mapping out plans to meet the unexpected and dramatic moves of the spectacular prosecutor for the state, Alexander Simpson.

The defense plans a smashing offensive as soon as the state's case is in. The defense will call anywhere from 80 to 140 witnesses, but in all probability the number will not go over 100.

One of the first objects of attack will be the calling card found at the feet of Dr. Hall when the bodies were found in De Russey's lane. The state has contended that the card bears the finger prints of Willie Stevens and brought forward two noted fingerprint experts who testified that the fingerprints were those of Willie's left index finger.

Attack on Fingerprints.

The defense's attack on the card will be led by J. H. Taylor, a federal expert in the identification section of the Navy department. Taylor identified the dead taken from the submarine S-51, sunk off Block Island in September, 1922, with a loss of 33 lives, and also identified service men who were killed in the arsenal explosion at Dover, N. J., last summer.

The defense will also assail the story told on the witness stand by William ("Greasy Vest") Garvin, formerly New York manager of the Burns Detective agency, who testified that Ralph V. Gorsline, vestryman of the slain minister's church came to him "conscience stricken' and told him that he saw Henry Stevens in De Russey's lane on the night of the murder. Gorsline was in the lane that night in a parked car with a girl, Garvin said Gorsline told him Henry

Turning from budget matters, which occupied their attention for a day and a half, the state board of education meeting in Charleston last night compared views on collegiate and teachers' training courses of study, but left unconsidered the question of West Virginia university's presidency. At the close of its session the board decided to meet again today, but gave no intimation of whether it would then take up the puzzle of deciding on a successor to the present head of the state's largest educational institution.

The final joint meeting with the board of control disposed of the budgets for the educational affairs of the state, including the institutions under the control of the board. The budget requirements were said to be ready for the board of public works, entrusted with the duty of preparing for the legislature a budget of all state fiscal needs, but until that board makes its report to the legislature members of the two boards believed no information should be made public on their decisions.

DRY ENFORCEMENT WORK DISCUSSED

Initial steps to begin enforcement of the national prohibition act in West Virginia under the revision of administration which links this state with western Pennsylvania, instead of Virginia, were taken early this week.

H. N. Bradley, federal administrator for the northern district of West Virginia, was in conference Saturday and Sunday with J. D. Pennington at Pittsburgh.

Three attaches of the office of J. D. Pennington, who is the administrator in charge of western Pennsylvania and West Virginia under the new regime, stopped in Wheeling Monday evening en route to Charleston. They were Assistant Administrator W. B. Marray, James A. Geltz, acting head of the legal staff, and C. B. Barnhart, head of the permit department.

$126 VERDICT IN AUTO CASE

Wellsville Girl Gets Judgment Against Edgar Watson.

Judgment for $126.50 was awarded to Miss Myrtle Lewis, 1766 Clark avenue, Wellsville, by Municipal Judge Hanley yesterday for damages in an automobile accident on Lisbon hill on December 6, 1924, when the plaintiff was struck by a machine driven by Edgar Watson, of Maple street, East End. Miss Lewis was represented by Attorney Charles Boyd.

She charged Wilson with driving in a reckless and careless manner. Her left leg was broken, left hand fractured and she suffered other injuries, she alleged. She said, as a result of the accident, $100 was paid in physicians' bills, $83 to the hospital and $90 for nurses' services. Damages for $1,500 were asked.

Action for $80 brought by "Bud" Womer, 206 West Third street, against E. Shapiro, Dresden avenue, for an automobile, alleged to have been taken by the defendant, was dismissed "without prejudice" at the cost of the plaintiff. Attorney P. V. Mackall represented Womer.

NITA NALDI AT AMERICAN

She Has Dancer's Role in "Marriage Whirl."

Every one knows how a crowd will loot a fighter who balks if he is hurt in the middle of a bout.

This fact seems to hover around Nita Naldi, vamping artiste de luxe of the movies.

Nita had an important part in Corinne Griffith's latest production, "The Marriage Whirl," which First National is now showing at the American theatre. She portrayed the role of a dancer—a very vampish, wriggling, dashing dancer.

Undaunted by the pain, the "vamp" faced the camera with her luring laugh and completed the dance until Director Al Santell's call of "O. K."

It was not until the cameras ceased turning and the big klieg lights were turned off that the accident became known. The actress was rushed to the emergency hospital in the studio and her ankle dressed.

Santell spent several days taking episodes in the Griffith story in which Miss Naldi did not appear while the vamp's ankle was given a complete rest for the remaining parts in which she played.

More than 17,000,000,000 stamps were issued by the postoffice department in 1925.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overstoutness, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat.

If you are overstout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

CERAMIC BOOKS "GREEN HAT"

Stage Version of Arlen's Novel Here Thanksgiving Day.

Long heralded and anticipated, the stage version of Michael Arlen's sensational novel "The Green Hat" will be seen here at the Ceramic theatre Thanksgiving Day, matinee and night.

The fame of Michael Arlen is worldwide. This cunningly devised word patterns the alluring charm with which he weaves his perfectly constructed plots, thrilling, amusing and delightful, his never failing climaxes, have made him the most widely discussed author of the present day, and in Iris March, the lady who wears the green hat, he has created the most talked of heroine of modern literature.

It has been, as the pedants might say, a moot question as to what sort of a soul and body buddled under Iris' green hat. Some say she was a mere nympholept, others have contended that she was just a carnal madcap, the consequence of hereditary bad blood. Though a pious beauty, she had a body complex, and, after all of her frequent errors with men she was afflicted with remorse. She was beast and seraph, hot and cold, glad and sorry, nun and wanton, and always a beautiful and fascinating mirage.

"The Green Hat" is a florid romance of flaming youth that is bound to attract the sex-mad multitude.

FINE FOR CHILDREN!

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the eliminative tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely known family physician of Ohio, prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from six years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. Recognized by their olive color, Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets overcome those irritable spells that many children are subject to, keep their bodies in active healthy condition, skin clear and eyes bright with the light of perfect health. 15c, 30c and 60c sizes.

"POSITIVE AGITATION"

"POSITIVE AGITATION" is beating, reduced to a scientific process by the patented Hoover Agitator. Do not fail to see this new cleaning principle demonstrated.

This is the difference

FIRST the spray of leaves, then the besom, then the broom, then the vacuum cleaner. So has the hardest phase of woman's household work been carried steadily onward into higher and easier spheres.

Now still another development appears—startling, revolutionary—the cleaning principle called "Positive Agitation."

Perfected in The New Hoover, it lifts home cleaning to yet new levels of ease and certainty—registering perhaps a greater advance than anything that has gone before.

If you have not seen The New Hoover you have a treat in store. It is unlike anything else. New, original, spectacular, it surpasses even the standard-design Hoover in such important particulars as these:

1 For the first time, it makes possible "Positive Agitation" of floor coverings.

2 By actual test, in the ordinary cleaning time, it beats out and sweeps up from carpetings an average of 131% more dirt.

3 It is an even greater rug-saver; the oftener a carpet is cleaned with a Hoover the longer that carpet will wear.

4 It is virtually service-proof, every part, including the new motor, requiring no oiling.

5 It increases the efficiency of its remarkable dusting tools because of its 50% stronger suction.

6 Its exclusive dust- and germ-proof bag is now washable.

7 Its form and finish are of startling beauty; and every new feature insures greater operating ease.

You owe it to yourself to see and understand this New Hoover, now being exhibited by us. Come in today or phone us and we'll bring one to your home for a free demonstration. No obligation.

Queenly Christmas Shopping

The world's champion Christmas shopper is hard at it. She is a royal shopper, literally and figuratively.

No, not Queen Marie, unfortunately for American merchants, but her cousin, Queen Mary of England.

It is at Christmastide that Mary shines. Playing Santa Claus is her forte. She has to be Santa to about 2,000 relatives and friends—or thinks she has to, which amounts to the same thing. So lately the Queen has been making a regular business of it, starting out at 10 o'clock in the morning and shopping until lunch time. Jewelry, lace, children's toys, furniture, books, pictures—all is grist to her Christmas mill.

She shops in the morning because she knows she will find the shops less crowded then, and can get better service and make better selections.

Probably no Americans face Christmas duties of such magnitude as those of the English Queen. Nevertheless most of us have good reasons as she has for doing our Christmas shopping early, getting it done in a decent and comfortable way and then being free to enjoy the holiday as it approaches instead of incapacitating ourselves and the shop people by a frenzied rush.

Speeding Industry

Henry Ford, who has made industrial history on several occasions, may be making more history than usual with his five-day week. As explained in recent interviews, there is something more to his plan than appeared at first.

Mr. Ford stoutly disclaims any philanthropic intent or economic whim. He insists that his five-day week is a straight business proposition based on sound principles, which should work for any efficient industry as well as for his own.

In the first place, he is not giving his men six days' pay for five days' work. He gives them their full week's pay only as they do six of their former days' work in five days.

This means speeding up all the processes in his factories, mechanical as well as human. He says that it takes a little time, but the transition in his shops is being accomplished satisfactorily. He will have to drop some employes because of laziness or inability to endure the pace. Many are already nearing their old earning capacity in the shortened week. He expects entire success for his men and plants within a reasonable time.

Thus his employes will have two days' leisure a week instead of one. That, he is sure, will be good for the workers, because "they are learning how to make good use of their leisure." He is equally sure it will be good for Henry Ford. For having more leisure, they will spend more money, particularly for automobiles. That will give the Ford Motor company more business and more profits, which in turn he expects to share with the workmen.

With two days off a week, he suggests that people will have one day to run around and one to go to church. He thinks it will help religion.

Here is a challenge to all industry, for all citizens to think about. Are we all taking an unnecessary amount of time for our work? Could we all do as much in five days as in six? And would it be worth while for society as a whole to speed up and work harder in working hours, in order to have more leisure?

Forty Million Motor Cars

Fears that the automotive industry is overdeveloped are set at rest by a statement from a Chicago expert.

There are more prospective automobile owners in the country today," he says, "that there are cars registered. More families can afford two cars today than were able to buy one car 10 years ago."

That is probably true. Automobiles are becoming as necessary as bathtubs, and multiplying more rapidly.

Back in 1921 the experts thought the "saturation point" was near. There were then about 10,000,000 automobiles in the United States. The number has doubled since. The Chicago man believes the number will double again in the next 15 years.

That prospect is enough to keep the manufacturers busy and strain their present facilities before long. The time is approaching, too, when if there were no more growth in the total motor car registration, the industy would be kept fully occupied with the manufacture of spare parts and the replacement of old cars.

Thanksgiving Bulletin

Here's good news for Thanksgiving feasters. The turkey crop is large this year and the prices will be the lowest in several years. According to one authority, all the turkey producing states report a full crop of well developed turkeys priced low enough to enable every family to have a better and cheaper bird than usual on the Thanksgiving table.

Of course, something may happen between now and Nov. 25 to change this pleasant situation. The turkeys may emigrate. But so far they have shown a fatal inability for concerted action.

Apples have already been reported plentiful and cheap. If cranberries and squashes and turnips and the rest of that outfit are kindly disposed, Thanksgiving diners this year should have few complaints to make.

Even Chicago's gunmen laid off for a day to give the Queen a nice reception.

KNOWLEDGE PROMPTLY SUPPLIED.

Before a mixed audience a scientist was lecturing on man's eternal conflict with nature.

"Always," he stated, "hostile forces combat the efforts of human beings to wrest a livelihood from the soil. Since the dawn of time that was has gone on. To the twilight of this world's existence it will continue to go on."

"Consider, my friends, the situation on our own fair land: We plant wheat and the black smut gets it. In the Southland we seek to produce cotton and the boll weevil attacks the crop. The San Jose scale destroys the product of the fruit growers of the Far West. The locust devours the hay of New England. So it goes. And our corn is preyed on by—by—" he paused in embarrassment. "I'm afraid, for the moment, I have forgotten the name. Perhaps someone present can tell us what it is that preys on our corn?"

From a rear seat came a loud clear voice:

"The chiropodist!"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Slowly but surely Greenwich Village crumbles! New people, new buildings have shorn the winding streets of their isolation. Its cobwebby attics, shabby shuttered and decaying houses, musty book shops and candle sputtering cellars are being devoured in precise mechanical gulps of a newer Manhattan.

All this despite fresh honors during the past year. The Village has furnished the city with its popular mayor, Jimmy Walker; the world champion, Gene Tunney, and a best selling novelist, Theodore Dreiser, in that short span of time.

In the dim-lit coffee houses they explain the change of front with a shrug—"the new people." Sprightly chain stores display gaudy facades and cash demands where "pay when you please" shops once offered conversational proprietors with a flair for neighborhood gossip and a help yourself pickle barrel.

That short, peaceful strip of Barrow street where Stefansson, the explorer, hides from the city's incoherent roar and where night revealed sculptors and painters in curtained silhouette is bit by bit changing into a steam-fitted apartment house area.

Edna St. Vincent Millay's elfin figure— as graceful as her poetry—is no longer seen. She is off in the Berkshires growing apples. The few writers who still live there loaf uptown and West 67th street's high ceiled studios have claimed most of the painters.

The Village has not had a giddy new experiment in poetry for more than a years. And in the garrets they even whisper that Sherwood Anderson has "gone Algonquin." Bobbie Edwards has relinquished the editorship of The Quill and no longer thrums his cigar box ukelele in waffle shops. Bobbie has gone to work.

Texas, Iowa and the Dakotas are well represented in the Village now and they bring a breeziness the old Village deplores. The shabby gentility and gas jet cooking have made way for French chefs, uniformed butlers and Grand Rapids furniture.

A deft magician is a night club attraction and is able to make everything disappear but the couvert charge. It is noted also the night clubs are changing names to fads of the moment. The Hotsy Totsy is now the Black Buttom Club.

Greenwich Village, by the way, has—or did have a year ago—the only store in New York with a ball of twine suspended over the roll of counter wrapping paper. Many incidentaly believe the real debacle of the village began when the old Brevoort put in man sized elevators.

My idea of the ultimate in wifely devotion was illustrated in one of the clatter and bang eateries the other evening. Somehow or other his upper teeth slipped their moorings and skidded several feet across the mosaic. She promptly left her chair, retrieved them and dusting them off with her napkin handed them back. That's service.

And New York, like life, has its disillusionments. I accompanied a friend to a certain apartment after the theatre. There were three others in a conversation as animated and intelligent as I had ever heard. As all were strangers I inquired about them from my friend when we departed. All three were drug addicts and at the time I saw and listened were under high stimulation.

The drug addict seems able to mask his animation with a benign serenity. His tongue is usually well bridled and his thoughts often appear quite ponderous—until the inevitable end when he becomes babbling and quite mad.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Japan's Festival of Dolls.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 17.—Miss America is to invade Japan this spring. But she will not be the Miss America who made Atlantic City famous. She will be a truly representative American doll and she will be accompanied by Miss America, Jr., as well as by scores of others who are to go to Japan to take part in the Festival of Dolls.

These dolls are to be known as Doll Messengers of Friendship and it was the idea of the Committee on World Friendship among Children of the Federal Council of Churches to send them as an indication of the friendship of American children for their Japanese sisters. A contest, similar to that of the well-known bathing beauty annual event, is to be held to decide which doll shall have the honor of being Miss America and which Miss America, Jr.

The contest is to be conducted through the schools. The high schools and graded schools will have interclass contests to decide upon a doll which is to represent each individual school and this doll will bear the name of the school—Miss Central High or Miss John Marshall.

The prize doll from the high school will be the senior and the one from the graded school the junior. An interschool contest will then be held and a senior and junior doll picked to represent the city. These dolls will be named Miss Washington and Miss Washington, Jr., or Miss San Francisco and Miss San Francisco, Jr. An interstate contest will decide the dolls to represent the several states and finally there will be assembled in either New York City or Washington, D. C., a national committee of award which will select the two dolls to have the honor of bearing the names, Miss America and Miss America, Jr.

Miss America and Miss America, Jr., accompanied by the two groups of senior and junior dolls bearing state names, and carrying state colors, will travel to Japan as a special group. They will be formally presented to the children of Japan and then placed in the Imperial Museum as a permanent exhibit. The dolls bearing personal, schools, and city names will be distributed through the Department of Education of the Japanese government.

An interesting feature of these contests is that each doll must be dressed by members of the classes—store dressed dolls not being permitted to compete.

Thousands of Competitors.

Although the contest has only been under way for a short time it has been met with great enthusiasm and already several thousand passports and tickets have been issued from the Doll Travel Bureau, and many more reservations and orders for transports and steamer tickets are being received daily.

The Festival of the Dolls — Hina Matsuri—is not only one of the most interesting and picturesque institutions of Japan, but also one of the oldest. It is said that its origin is lost in antiquity, but it is generally supposed to have been introduced into Japan from China and in ancient times was known by various names. Its celebration is traceable to the second year of the reign of the Emperor Bidatsu, 574 A. D. and some authorities say that there seems little doubt but that the real origin was in the ceremony of exorcism of evil spirits. In ancient days this ceremony took place on the banks of the rivers on the 1st of March, but later it was performed on the 3rd day of the 3rd month.

The 3rd of March is as exciting to all the little girls of Japan as Christmas is to those of many other countries. On this day they and their dolls hold first place throughout the nation. Long before that day preparations are made for celebrating this great occasion. In the shops for some time previous festive dolls are displayed for sale, sets of them forming groups or families being placed in wooden boxes and sold as an entirety. Various kinds of furniture and household utensils for the dolls' use are also shown and wide-eyed children gaze entranced, much as do our own at the toys displayed in shop windows just before time for the jovial Santa Claus to play his annual visit.

The Festival of the Dolls is celebrated in every Japanese home, whether rich or poor. On the first celebration after her birth, each girl in the family has placed upon a red-covered shelf a pair of O Hina Sama. When she leaves home as a bride she takes these dolls with her and the first feast after her marriage she observes with special ceremonies. Custom compels her to continue this until she has a daughter old enough to do so for herself.

Special Wine for the Girls.

Many kinds of food are prepared for the festival and a particular brand of very sweet wine which is drunk only by the girls and their friends. The girls dressed in their best to receive their friends and in turn pay visits to inspect their collections of ancestral dolls. On this great day are brought forth the dolls of mothers, grandmothers, and many preceding generations. Many of these older dolls are priceless.

The dolls may be placed in serried ranks, or may be arranged in groups to indicate perhaps a family party, a party of geisha girls dancing, a scene

MINE FATALITIES HIGH LAST MONTH

R. M. Lamble, chief of the department of mines, in his report on the fatalities at West Virginia mines during the month of October, when 47 lost their lives, has issued minute instructions to all inspectors to carefully inspect all equipment, examine powder magazines, openings, safety gates and tences and all other facilities and every operation, in an effort to bring the dangers for accident down to the lowest possible point.

The report shows that the total fatalities at mines for the year from January 1 to the end of October, was 485 as compared with 399 for the same period in 1925. The increase is said to have been due to the increase in the number of mines in operation this year.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this famous home-made cough syrup. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. It tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A WORD TO THE PUBLIC

I personally want to thank the public for their favors of the past.

As it was their patronage alone that made my 14 years in business in East Liverpool the success it has been.

And in connection I want to assure you, one and all, that you will find here in the future the same high quality meats, the same lower prices and the same prompt and courteous service to which you have been accustomed in the past.

Trusting that the business relations between us have been such as to warrant a continuation of your future patronage.

I am yours truly,

Miss Lilly Hughes Becomes Bride of Capt. James Hepburn

Field Major and Mrs. Joseph Hughes of the Salvation Army announce the marriage of their daughter, Lieutenant Lilly Jean Hughes of Third street, to Captain James Marshall Hepburn of Massilion. The ceremony was solemnized Monday evening in the Salvation Army citadel, 2304 East Ninth street, Cleveland. Lieutenant-Colonel Herbert Roberts of Cleveland, divisional commander of Eastern Ohio, performed the ceremony.

The bride has been stationed in East Liverpool for 17 months.

The bridegroom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hepburn of Akron, is now stationed in Massillon.

The bride and bridegroom were attired in Salvation Army uniforms, the bride carrying a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses. Her sister, Mrs. Rose Hepburn of Cleveland, who served as matron of honor, carried pink rosebuds. Ensign Samuel Hepburn, brother of the bridegroom, served as his best man.

The citadel was decorated in pink and white for the occasion. Baskets of flowers and palms were used in profusion.

The ring ceremony was read, the ring being carried by the flower girl. The local Salvation Army band took part in the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Hepburn will be at home to friends in Massillon after a 10 days' honeymoon.

Local guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. David Foden, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Craven, Mr. and Mrs. William Garren, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnhart, Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, and son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. William Holden, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sample, Mrs. Etta Pickens and daughter, Jessie, Mrs. James Barnhart and son, James, William Trelevan, Mrs. Myrtle Hutchison, Reuben Hamilton, Misses Helen Curtis, Dorothy Whippler, Fay Strauss; Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. JANE GIBSON READY TO TELL HALL-MILLS DEATH STORY

STATE TO CALL STAR WITNESS ON THURSDAY

May be Carried Into Court on Stretcher.

Testified in August She Saw Mrs. Hall and Brother.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Jane Gibson's own story of what she saw in De Russey's lane on the night of Sept. 14, 1922, is to be told from the witness stand—or from a stretcher—in court here tomorrow.

It will be the high spot in the Hall-Mills murder trial. It may make or break the state's case against Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, who are accused of the brutal murders of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and the young and pretty Mrs. Eleanor Mills, wife of the church janitor.

What is Mrs. Gibson's story? Briefly this:

Four years ago she owned a little farm just off De Russey's lover's lane." She was a stocky, muscular woman, doing a man's work.

Thieves had been stealing her corn. She was watching for them. On the night of Sept. 14, 1922, her dog barked. She went out and looked around. Along the road came the New Brunswick-Middlebush bus. She knew it was 9 o'clock because the bus always passed at that hour.

Heard Quarreling Voices.

She went back into the house. Later the dog barked again. She could hear, not far away, the creaking of a wagon and the footsteps of a horse. She hastened to the stable and mounted her mule. She followed the wagon until she was satisfied that it was empty.

Turning back she saw by the lights of an automobile which had turned into the lane two other automobiles, pulled away from the side of the lane into the roadside bush. She saw a woman and a man standing beside one of the cars. She recognized the woman as Mrs. Hall, she later swore in court.

Then she heard quarreling voices. She returned and tied the mule to a tree. An automobile light from the roadway revealed for a brief minute or two a group quarreling under a crabapple tree on a knoll.

A woman was angrily accusing a man standing beside another woman. He was defiant. Hot words were exchanged.

Then there was a shot.

"Oh—oh, Henry — don't — don't—please," a woman's voice pleaded, Mrs. Gibson later testified.

Three more shots were fired in rapid succession.

Saw Woman Kneeling.

Mrs. Gibson hastened to her mule and made for home. In her hurry she lost her moccasin. Finally she decided to return for it. When she came back to the crabapple tree she saw a woman kneeling there in prayer.

Thirty-six hours later the bodies of the Rev. Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found beneath that crabapple tree.

Mrs. Gibson testified in court here on August 13, 1926, that two of the persons she saw in the lane that fatal night were Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens, both of whom claim they were at home at the hour the crime was committed—10:20 p. m.

Hall-Mills Murder Trial

Stevens fired two shots at his feet and said: "Get to hell out of here—this is none of your business."

It was learned the defense plans to call upon W. Sherman Burns and Raymond Burns, sons of William J. Burns, to contradict Garvins statement. Gorsline has denied having made such a "confession" to Garvin.

Art dealers are now renting noted works to the movies at a charge of one per cent of the valuation of the picture per week.

AS SHE quietly handed her pistol to a policeman across Fino's dead body, Mrs. Denino illustrated an educational process that has been civilizing men for several hundred thousand years.

Of course she won't be convicted of murder. Killing anybody is wrong, but Mrs. Denino ought to be pensioned, not only on her own account, but for the protection she has given to many other girls.

HENRY FORD'S favorite text is: "Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only.'

The pay of 92,000 of his workers is increased so that they earn in the new five-day week as much as they made in the six days. That's the way to build up a good nation and a good name.

the political families of a good many senators. Where two months ago senators invited their favorite lieutenants or social friends to be their guests—planning on the six-ticket allotment—now they must either buy two $15 seats, located a half mile from the gridiron, miss the game themselves or offend a very valuable friend. Hence the senatorial rage.

Representative Fish, however, went a step further. He declared he had heard that some congressional secretaries were in the "market," buying and selling tickets to the game.

"Certain repofts have come to me," said Fish, "indicating that there have been violations of the rules under which tickets have been sold by congressional secretaries without the knowledge of their congressmen. I am now considering the introduction of a resolution, as soon as the house convenes, calling for a congressional investigation of the ticket distribution.'

Claim Cadets Furnished Tickets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Declaring that many of their tickets had been furnished them by cadets and middies at an average price of $30, speculators along Broadway today were offering seats for the Army-Navy game in Chicago at prices ranging from $40 to $75 and higher. Most of the scalpers were clerks in uptown agencies, who explained that they were "doing a little business on the side."

One of them claimed he had obtained 14 tickets from cadets and middies at $30 each and, with few exceptions, the speculators were willing to pay as high as $50 each for seats in advantageous positions. A pair of these were offered today at $150, the same man later offering to part with four seats for $220, in order, as he explained, "to make a quick turnover."

Blames Disgruntled for Rumor.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—"What do you mean, ticket scandal."

That was the angry retort today of Col. H. C. Carbaugh, in charge of tickets for the coming Army-Navy game here, when asked what he knew of the reported scandal in connection with distribution of the treasured ducats.

"If there is any ticket scandal I know nothing about it. I suppose the rumors were started by come of the many thousands of persons to whom I had to say "no.'"

George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the South Park commision which has charge of Memorial stadium where the game will be played, explained the ticket situation. He said:

"We decided this game should be seen by the most representative American crowd that it is possible to assemble. We also decided that congressmen and senators could pick that crowd better than any other persons.

"So we have sold 100 tickets to each Illinois congressman and senator. Cingressmen from neighboring states got fewer and the number allotted to these statesmen dwindled the farther away they live from Illinois.

"One congressman wanted 1,713 tickets for friends, relatives and supporters, but colonel thundered his emphatic 'no' and the congressman had to be satisfied with his allotment."

HORSE REPORTED STOLEN HERE

Thomas Beaver, Claiborne avenue huckster, today asked the police to assist in recovering his horse which was stolen or strayed away Monday night. The horse, according to a description given the police, was a bay, weighing about 1,500 pounds.

Judgment in Civil Suit.

Judgment for $222.05 in favor of the Chippewa Oil company of West Bridgewater, Pa., and against A. A. Springer and R. A. Plate, East End garage owners, was returned today by Municipal Judge J. C. Directors Set Date at Session Last Night.

SEEK SPEAKER

Chamber Casts Vote Upon National Referendum.

Date for the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was fixed for Tuesday, January 18, by the board of directors at its meeting in the headquarters in the Little building yesterday afternoon. The meeting, which will be in the form of a dinner, will be held in the Y. M. C. A.

Negotiations are now under way for a speaker. Men of national reputation are being considered. Speaker at last year's annual meeting was Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy during the World war, while George Creel, was-time censor, was the guest of the chamber two years ago.

The chamber, through its directors, also cast its vote upon referendum No. 49, submitted by the United States Chamber of Commerce to approximately 2,000 individual organizations.

The referendum relates to the report of a committee on state and local taxation. The local chamber voted in favor of each of the 11 proposals presented in the report.

The various proposals, which received favorable consideration, are:

"The committee recommends intangible personal property should be taxed on the basis of annual earnings in lieu of any other taxes as to such property.

"The committee recommends that for any ad valorem tax intangible personal property should be classified and the rate should be low with reasonable relation to earnings.

"The committee recommends that taxes imposed upon the transfer of property at the owner's death should be in the form of estate taxes.

"The committee recommends reciprocal exemption of intangible personal property of non-resident decedants.

"The committee recommends that states should use uniform returns and that each state should reciprocally allow credit' for income tax paid in another state.

"The committee recommends that corporate taxes should be reduced.

"The committee recommends that bonds should be used only for non-recurring capital expenditures.

"The committee recommends that serial bonds should be used for all issues.

"The committee recommends that each state should have an agency with power, upon local petition, to prevent unwise expenditures by local government.

"The committee recommends modern uniform accounting for each state and its local government, with centralized audit facilities.

"The committee recommends that all jurisdictions levying the same kind of tax should have uniformity in computation and administration and uniformity in reports.'

Salem-Wellsville-Chester Prices.

Lump coal in Salem was being sold for 28 cents per bushel, officials of the Yeager Coal and Supply company said. Two weeks ago the same fuel was selling for 36 cents.

Dealers in Wellsville quoted lump coal at 30 cents and nut coal at 25 cents.

Talbot Brothers, operators of a large mine back of Chester and who make deliveries in Newell and Chester, asked 28 cents per bushel. Chester has no dealers in Pittsburgh coal.

Wagon mines, operating along the Lincoln Highway, California Hollow and back of Wellsville have increased the price of run-of-mine coal to 23 cents per bushel and for lump coal to 25 cents.

No Fuel Shortage.

Dealers in East Liverpool and Wellsville today admitted there was no coal shortage and that railroad shipments are made at regular intervals. They claimed that the war-time price prevailing here was due to the high rates demanded by producers.

Local Union, No. 12, Jiggermen, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, has launched an investigation to determine the reason for the price increase. A letter of inquiry, sent to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has been referred to John Kennedy, Indianopolis, international secretary of the coal miners' organization.

The embargo on coal shipments to the east is expected to make coal even more plentiful.

MISS MACKEY IS SOLOIST AT BAPTIST MEET

New Cumberland Girl Assists at Dr. Mel Morris Service.

FORCEFUL TALK

Special Music Will be Featured at 7:30 Tonight.

Preaching with song, her rich soprano tones carrying conviction to a large audience of hearers, Miss Jean Mackey, of New Cumberland, W. Va., and former East Liverpool girl, gave new impetus to the First Baptist church revival last evening, as she paved the way with musical offerings for a compelling sermon by Rev. Mel Morris, visiting evangelist, who spoke on the subject: "God or Baal, Which?"

"I am not a soloist," she confessed, "but sing with my sister in all services in which we assist. Until last night I never sang alone. But I am glad, indeed happy, to do anything that may aid a soul in finding salvation."

Extending deep spiritual insight in every hymn sung by her and reflecting the sentiment of their words Miss Mackey excited fervor, keen and evident, among her hearers which was epitomized by Rev. Mr. Morris' opening comment: "I feel more like shouting than preaching."

As a result the evangelist delayed his discourse so as to permit Miss Mackey to take any further steps in the service that she desired. Accordingly she led the congregation in singing "Since I Have Been Redeemed."

Previously with timely gesticulations and frequent reminders to "listen" at specific sections of it she had tremendously moved the audience with the alluring song, "Bless the Lord I've Jesus."

Seemingly much improved in physique Rev. and Mrs. O'Brien, absent on Monday night because of indisposition, were able to be present at last evening's service.

Many crowded the altars to pray for relatives during the after service during which Miss Mackey sang "Somebody Loves You 'Tis Jesus." She will also be present at tonight's service when the musical program will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Anna Hamm.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Hamm, 46, who died in her home in State street, East End, Monday evening, following an extended illness, will be held in the Second Baptist church, Pennsylvania avenue, at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Rev. J. R. Hall, Warren, assisted by Rev. E. J. Richardson, pastor of the church, will be in charge.

Mrs. Hamm is survived by her husband, William Hamm, five sisters and two brothers.

Donna Jean Briggs.

Donna Jean, 2-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Briggs, 406 Somer street, Leetonia, died yesterday in a Cleveland hospital.

Funeral services will be held in the home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, in charge of Rev. H. C. Brillhart, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Leetonia. Burial will be made in Oakdale cemetery.

DISPLAY DRESS FOR PRINCESS

Newman Shows Garment Made for Rumanian Royalty.

Newman's store, Washington street today placed on display Princess Ileana's first American-made dress. The original, ordered in New York by Queen Marie, was sent on its way to the royal Rumanian party by rail and aid mail.

The designer, Edward Glantz, of No. 226 West Thirty-seventh street, New York, took the dainty garment to the Rumanian Legation in Washington. Thence it was sent West by airplane.

The dress is Rumanian in design, but modified for the American girl. It is made of the sheerest special flat crepe, black, trimmed with Rumanian peasant embroidery. About the bodice is a relief in "real flame," on which is superimposed the decorative work.

Six seamstresses worked on the garment for two weeks. It was sent to the princess in a special box on which were painted the national colors of the United States and Rumania.

A man recently wrestled with an octopus in the ocean near Venice, Cal., to test its strength and fighting ability.

NO MILK PRICE BOOST IN CITY, SAYS DEALER

Commodity Jumps to 16 Cents Per Quart in Cleveland.

SECOND INCREASE

East Liverpool Prices Stand Unless Producers Act.

Despite increases in the retail price of milk in Cleveland, no changes in prices in the East Liverpool district are contemplated, local dealers declared today.

Milk jumped to the war levels of 16 cents per quart and nine cents per pint in Cleveland yesterday. This is the second increase to be announced within a few weeks.

East Liverpool's milk prices are regulated, according to A. E. Webber, of the Crockery City Ice and Products company, by Pittsburgh rates, but milk is selling for 15 cents per quart and nine cents per pint there at the present time. The local prices are 14 cents per quart and eight cents per pint.

"So long as there is no increase in the prices charged by producers there will be no changes in the prices charged the consumer," Webber said.

nude and semi-nude attire are to be discounted."

Others Arrested.

The eight persons arrested with King Ben in the raid were:

Harry Thomas Dowhirst, 45, House of David lawyer; Leonard Rowe, 33; Thomas Wilson, 50, farmer; Joseph Couch, 51, laborer; Millward Wilson, 27, street car motorman; Mrs. Annabelle Askerlund, 28; Mrs. Helen Bloom, 21, and Myrtle Turk, the "prophet's" attendant.

The "prophet" also is wanted in connection with several civil suits, including one by the state of Michigan for dissolution of the cult settlement as a public menace.

With the raiders were the informant, Mrs. Woodworth, formerly Bessie Daniels, and her husband, Emerald Woodworth, musician at a local theater. Mrs. Woodworth identified "King Ben."

More Than the Finest Tobaccos

Smoke a Lucky Strike and you will appreciate its difference from other cigarettes.

To begin with, Lucky Strikes are made from the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Properly aged. Perfectly blended. Even if we stopped there, Lucky Strikes would rank as the best cigarettes. But in addition, so as to achieve three unique results, Lucky Strike tobacco is toasted for 45 minutes.

This extra process gives you:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

Thus the toasting process is an addition. It adds a unique and distinct improvement to a cigarette that has already been made from the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. It is the reason millions prefer Lucky Strikes.

SYNOPSIS.

Julian Reed is wandering southern California in his little roadster. He is aimless and amiable. At luncheon in a small restaurant he meets, by chance, a charming, rather wistful young woman. She has missed connections with a troupe of vagabonding actors and he offers, in spite of his natural bashfulness, to drive her to the troupe's next stopping place, La Jolla, in his "comic little car." After a moment's hesitation she accepts his offer. As they ride he tries to "explain" himself. He has money—enough—but is suffering from a bad case of "dual personality." He is obviously greatly bothered about something, some conflict within himself. She, for her part, tells that her name is Hester Kemble. She, like Julian, is from the East. They overtake and pass the trucks bearing the rest of the troupe.

"You're the cute one, dear," said Sadie."

CHAPTER THREE.

Late in the afternoon they stopped at Escondido, in the mountains. He was shy about suggesting it. And she hesitated. She couldn't help thinking about those pursuing trucks. They might catch up. They might stop. It was the logical place. And then she'd have to explain him. This would be the emotionally timorous Yankee within her, of course; a stern other self that she resented a shade more deeply with each year of her ebbing youth. And then, while they still sat in the car outside, a little rebellion surged up within her.

Very quietly, with a remote look in the hazel eyes, she asked if he thought they could have waffles. And within the restaurant, she asked for a cigarette. He wouldn't know that she didn't smoke two a month. It was surprising that he didn't smoke at all. They ate and talked. And then they sipped coffee and talked. And she kept on smoking. She didn't care now . . . much . . . . whether the others caught them or not. The small adventure was not without its pleasant edge.

The trucks did come. She saw the familiar red and yellow paint through the front window, and weakened somewhat.

"Do you mind," she asked, with a little more color in her cheeks, "if I introduce you as a man I've known? In a troupe like this they . . Oh, it doesn't matter really . . . but it was a . . . . well, it was a pick-up, you know." She laughed rather nervously, with a softness about her mouth and a curious light in her eyes.

Before he could reply they were entering the room, a noisy lot with a shabbily important air of conferring a favor on this small corner of the world by appearing in it. He saw a tall man with austere Roman features, watery eyes and an immitigable toupee . . . a dark younger man who walked with an unnaturally long stride . . a sinuous blonde with bobbed hair (she would be the one he had glimpsed on the tailboard of the light truck) . . six or eight others.

Hester Kemble called out brightly, "That was a great trick you played on me. If I hadn't had the pure luck to run across Mr. Reed I wouldn't be here."

"It was my understanding, Hester"—the sonorous measured voice of the tall man floated before him as he moved majectically toward them—"that the large truck would stop for you."

"It didn't seem to be their understanding . . . Oh, Mr. Watt, I want you to meet my friend, Mr. Reed. Mr. J. Murray Watt. Mr. Reed was an editor in New York."

"Ah, indeed!" Mr. Watt's voice rolled through the room. "It is a pleasure to make your acquaintance, sir. It was my privilege years ago, to pass many an evening with certain af the brightest editorial minds our country has ever known. I knew Dana, sir. And Godkin. And Whitelaw Reid. Why when I was leading man with Modjeska . . there was an artist! . . . ."

The man of the stride interrupted from a neighboring table. "We'd better get our orders right in, Murray. Time's mighty short."

The blonde girl wandered over. "So they left you flat in Riverside, Hester" She had demurely wide blue eyes and an engaging slow grin.

"This is my friend, Mr. Reed, Miss Hartnett."

"I'm very glad to meet you, Mr. Reed. . . . See where I tore my skirt, Hester, on that damn truck."

"Listen, Sadie, why is Mr. Watt riding on a truck?"

She explained in a low voice, "He's our director and star. It's his show. He usually rides ahead in the touring car. J. Murray Watt, you know."

"I'm afraid I don't know."

"Oh, he used to be quite well known."

"Positively the Corse Payton of the West,' murmured Sadie. "But we're society now. Heavy patronesses. Little Theater stuff."

Miss Hartnett slowly winked. She was humorously eying Hester's cigarette. "Oh, just that little trouble about the touring car. He rushed in it on ahead this morning. That man from L. A. wired he'd be after it. And then Murry slipped in with the boys on the big truck. He's the cute one."

"Come, Sadie!" cried that dark man. "Get your order in."

The irrepressible girl called over her shoulder, "A big hamburg steak and coffee for mine, Lester." And she moved away in a series of graceful dance steps.

Reed's eyes followed her. He didn't know that two hazel eyes were watching him. But he heard her say:

"Sadie was a chorus girl. Came out with a musical show that stranded in Sacramento. But she's a grand trouper."

After which, impulsively, almost in a whisper, she added this: "Of course you may never see him again, but . . . . . I can't resist warning you It would be best not to let Murry Watt know about that letter of credit."

"Oh, of course," said he. Oh, I wouldn't."

His brows were knit again. She wondered what he was thinking.

She sat there with a deliciously brazen sensation, stil smoking while the others of the troupe bundled out and went clattering away on the trucks. And half an hour later they two set out on the last stage of their journey.

When they arrived, the stage crew and, the actors were already setting up the outdoor stake and running a canvass fence about the enclosure. Electric lights were strung on poles, and somewhere in the distance a generator was chug-chugging. Trucks were dumping chairs. Dressing tents were going up on either side of the stage.

She wondered, with a dash of excitement that was not unmixed with a daring touch of mischief, what he would say at the parting. But he disappointed her by saying next to nothing. He mumbled really, something about looking up a place to sleep. She finally had to ask if he was planning to see the performance.

"Oh, yes," he said, absently, and pushed back his hair.

For a moment, then, they stood awkwardly beside the little car, she clasping her parcels.

"Well," he remarked, brightening somewhat, "we made it. The old thing came through. I've been thinking . . . ."

She waited.

". . . I've been . . . you see, all this is rather fascinating to me. . . ."

"Oh the show?"

"Yes. It's like gypsies."

"It has another side."

"I suppose so. But here's what I was thinking. Maybe you'd let me drive you again tomorrow."

She heard him catch his breath after that, and was so moved that she answered brusquely. "Oh, we're only running in to San Diego. We play near the city tomorrow evening, on a private state. Then the next evening we shall be over at Coronado."

"I see." He was musing, clumsily. "Of course. I haven't anything much on my mind. I told you that I was wondering if there'd be any harm in my . . . well, hanging around a little. Maybe a few days."

"I don't see how you could be ordered away very well." The Yankee commanded her now.

But that wasn't altogether fair. She reached out a firm little hand. "You've really been awfully nice," she said, more gently. "I'm not going to try to tell you how grateful I am."

"For Heaven's sake don't!"

She walked briskly away then and disappeared in one of the tents. He lingered ;and shortly afterward saw her lugging a suit case and a huge blanket roll. He would have liked to

Multiplied Beauty
Perennial Youth
I found them in the ways I offer you
By Edna Wallace Hopper

These are the greatest of Edna Wallace Hopper's Aids. I consider them the best in existence, and after 40 years of searching I should know. Each combines a number of helps in one application.

White Youth Clay

This is a new-type clay, based on 20 years of scientific study. It is white, refined and dainty. It combines three clays with numerous other factors to bring maximum results. The crude and muddy clays you know are not at all like this.

White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs and mars it. It draws out the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy afterglow which amazes and delights. It combats all lines and wrinkles.

White Youth Clay will bring to any girl new beauty in 30 minutes, and women often seem to drop ten years. I urge you to learn what it means to you.

My Youth Creams

My Youth Cream combines a dozen of the best helps known to foster, feed and preserve the skin. These include products of both lemon and strawberry. Youth Cream comes in two types—cold cream and vanishing. One for night, the other for the day. My baby-like complexion shows one of the effects. You will be delighted with this cream.

Still a Girl

Mine is a grandmother's age, and my life has been spent in the limelight. Yet I am still a stage star, still a beauty, still a girl. The thousands who see me daily marvel at my youthful bloom. And countless young girls envy my hair and my complexion.

My mother took me as a girl in a world-search for beauty aids. The best we found then were produced by French experts. I became by their help a famous beauty, gained a glorious career. Since then I have made 34 trips to France to learn of her latest discoveries. They have preserved my beauty, kept my youth, as all who see me know.

Now I am placing these helps—the best I found—at every woman's call. All drug and toilet counters supply them in my name. Every girl and woman who desires may use exactly what I use, and at a modest cost. I am doing my best to bring to millions the benefits I gained.

My Facial Youth

Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which French scientists gave me. Leading beauty experts the world over now advise and employ the formula, but they usually charge too much. So only a small percentage of women yet know this superlative help.

Facial Youth contains no animal, no vegetable fat. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin. It simply cleans to the depths, then departs. All the dirt and grime, dead skin and clogging matter depart with it. You will never know what a clean skin means until you use Facial Youth. And no skin can keep lovely unless clean.

My Hair Youth

My hair is my greatest glory. It is thick and lustrous, far more luxuriant than 40 years ago. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, never a touch of gray. All that I owe to French hair experts whose best helps are embodied in my Hair Youth.

Hair Youth is concentrated. I apply it with an eyedropper directly to the scalp. There it combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It tones and stimulates the scalp. My hair shows how hair can flourish when the scalp gets that attention. The first application will show how much you need it.

The coupon will bring you a liberal sample of any of my beauty helps. Check which you want and send it. Clip coupon now.

"Hold the Line, Please"

A LOCAL user of long distance telephone service placed a call to New York and was surprised to have the operator say "Hold the line, please." In a brief interval he was talking to his party.

New operating methods have made faster long distance service available to you. Often you get your party without leaving the line.

You give the long distance operator your name and number and the number desired with the name of the town and in a few minutes while you hold your receiver to your ear either you will be talking with your party or have a report.

To use this fast service you should place your calls by number. If you do not know the number of the distant telephone directory operator will give it to you.

It is not possible to reach every city in the country by this fast service, but you can be connected with many of the important ones and in less time than under old practices.

The usual station-to-station charges apply, while special reduced rate periods are available after 7 o'clock in the evening, as well as the privilege of reversing charges.

Our commercial manager will be pleased to supply you with a list of the telephone numbers you most frequently call.

WELLSVILLE MAYOR URGES CONSTRUCTION OF SEWERS

FOGO APPEALS TO COUNCILMEN TO O. K. PLAN

Executive Says Many Voters Do Not Know Situation.

BONDS FAVORED

Refers to Seventeenth and Twentieth Street Districts.

Declaring that a large number of voters who cast negative ballots against the West End sewer proposals at the last general election were not fully aware of the true conditions caused by the lack of an adequate drainage system there, Mayor W. L. Fogo last night went on record before solons as recommending the installation of the sewers.

"If people knew the actual conditions caused by those sewers there they would not hesitate in putting them in," the mayor asserted, "and I want to go on record as favoring bonds for putting them in. The needs of the people in that district must be considered before individual wants."

He referred particularly to the Seventeenth street and Twentieth street sewers.

Proposal calling for the issuance of bonds to raise $24,000 for the installation of a larger sewer in Seventeenth and Commerce streets to improve drainage there, was given a small majority at the recent election, but the majority was insufficient to carry it, a fifty-five per cent vote being demanded by the statute under which the proposal was submitted.

The $5,000 issue for improvement of conditions in Twentieth street also was defeated.

The Twentieth street sewer now in use has been crushed in, according to a statement by Mayor Fogo, and is the only one at the present time that is expected to give the city any considerable amount of trouble. It will be difficult to forecast what conditions will exist there this winter, the mayor averred.

City Will Clean Up Bad Places To Avoid Possible Damage Cases

Pennsylvania Railroad Will be Asked to Fix Crossing; Railing Near Highland Avenue to be Repaired.

Inaugurating a repair program that has as its objective the cleaning up of all "the dangerous places" in the city, such as broken sewers, holes in the street and like, which may lead to damage cases, solons last night took action looking toward several repair projects.

Clerk Hardman was instructed to ask the Pennsylvania Railroad company to repair its Third street crossing, as well as the paving along its tracks further down the "belt line."

Hardman will also request that the Rosenberg company repair the railing in Highland avenue that was broken when a wagon crashed through it several weeks ago. This was brought up by Heidman who also recommended that steps be taken to repair the sewer in front of the Rosenberg property.

Referring to the sewer Mayor Fogo explained that officials of the company were already planning to concrete in front of their place of business, and this would probably end in taking care of the sewer question.

Side of Brick Conductor is Broken Out in Storm.

NEAR LEYDA HOME

Biggest Project to be Completed Before Winter.

In accordance with general expectations the break in the McQueen's Run sewer at the point where it passes beneath Clark avenue, under the Leyda property, between Aten and Henry avenues, is a bad one, and hard to get at, Mayor W. L. Fogo told city council last night.

The service department began operations yesterday on the sewer at this point.

The break, according to the mayor, occurred in the side of the sewer, and although it is narrow, it extends to the street car tracks in a southerly direction. The extent of the damage in the other direction cannot be determined until workmen dig under the steps leading into the Leyda home, under which the sewer runs.

The break is probably 25 feet or more in length, according to indications. The brick out of the side of the sewer is gone, but the patch that was made last year there is still holding.

Discussing work on the other sections of the McQueen Run sewer, the mayor stated that the Schultz and Faloon properties, among the hardest hit by the storms, have been repaired satisfactorily by the city, and other operations in the Maple avenue district are practically completed.

With the completion of activities at the break in Clark avenue, the sewer will be in excellent condition for the winter, and, according to Mayor Fogo, should give the city no more trouble at all as a result of its first thorough cleaning in a number of years.

QUERY BELL CO. ON FRANCHISE

City Seeking Action on Telephone Contract.

Adjustment of the franchise problem between the city and the Ohio Bell Telephone company, of East Liverpool, is still incomplete, city councilmen were notified last night by Clerk George Hardman who has been communicating with officials of the company in recent months.

Several weeks ago, at the request of council, Hardman wrote Frank Swaney, manager of the East Liverpool office, asking him to take steps looking toward the renewal of the concern's franchise for operation of their system here.

Hardman was informed that the matter would be taken up with higher officers.

Last night Hardman told solons that he had heard nothing further from the company.

Upon the advice of City Solicitor S. C. Luccock, council instructed Hardman to direct another letter to the branch manager in East Liverpool, asking what action, if any, the company contemplates.

Mr. and Mrs. Gefeller expect to move to Steubenville Thursday where they will make their home.

Members of the class first assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Patton, in Twelfth and Main street, and from there went to the Marcy residence in a body.

A cover dish supper was served by the class. Gifts of decorated glassware were tendered the honor guest, the presentation speech being made by Mrs. Mary Rahter.

An informal social hour was enjoyed. Approximately 35 were present.

SEEKS DAMAGES IN CATTLE DEAL

John Desarro, of Wellsville, on Aug. 29, 1922, sold six Holstein cows to R. M. Beck, of Fairfield township, according to a petition filed in common pleas court by W. W. Beck, counsel for the plaintiff, and the cows, it is claimed, were not as represented at the time of sale. Damage to the amount of $175 is asked, with interest and costs.

Beck declares that two of the cows were supposed to be registered stock, but that he has never been given the registration papers. The other four cows were "grades." The six cows sold for $317.

SCOUTS READY FOR ROLL CALL DRIVE SUNDAY

"Have Your Dollar Ready" Request of Mercy Organization.

ASSIGN TROOPS

Meeting at Carnegie Library to Precede Campaign.

"Have your dollar ready and meet the Scouts with a smile."

This is the campaign slogan adopted by Red Cross officials as four local Boy Scout troops, comprising approximately 120 boys, prepare for the active opening of the annual Red Cross Roll Call campaign which will get under way next Sunday.

With the selection of districts and the assignment of troops to the various sections, the major part of preparatory planning has been completed.

All the compaign work will be of a voluntary nature, roll call directors announced today. Persons who subscribe will be asked to place the poster that they will receive in a window and keep it there until Thanksgiving in order that there may be no repeat calls and to promote the spirit of the campaign.

To homes making two or more subscriptions, special posters will be given for use in automobile windshields.

Sunday's campaign will start at 2 o'clock when Boy Scouts will meet with their scoutmasters in the Carnegie Public Library in Ninth and Main streets for inal instructions.

The troops assignment follows:

East End district to Fifth street—Methodist Episcopal church troop, George Schmidt, scoutmaster.

Fifth street to Ninth street—United Presbyterian church troop, Stewart Parker, scoutmaster.

Ninth street to Fifteenth street—Methodist Protestant church, Harold Driggs, scoutmaster.

Fifteenth street to West End—Immaculate Conception church troop, Grattan V. Dugan, scoutmaster.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

help her. But he couldn't very well. For that matter, none of the men lent a hand, even when she struggled with a complicated folding cot, setting it up and dragging it within the tent.

"King of cute, isn't it." He turned with a start and found Sadie Hartnett at his elbow.

She waved a shapely hand. "All this business. The outfit."

"Oh, how do you do, Miss . . . ."

"They usually call me Sadie. It's hard work. But fun, too. We ought to picke up a little business down here, don't you think?"

"I certainly hope so."

"You're an editor."

"Well, I have . . . ."

"Say, listen here! How do all these girls get their pictures in the papers and press stuff and all like that?"

"I'm sure I don't know."

"You can't get anywhere without it. I've learned that. Not in this business."

"I suppose not."

"You and Hester old friends?"

"Why . . . not quite that . . . ."

"Wonderful girl, isn't she?"

"She is charming."

"And then quite a little! Ever seen her play?"

"Why . . . no.'

"You'll be crazy about her. She's a real actress. I wish I was an actress. I do a dance in the first play."

"I thought you were."

"No. Not that way. Did you know her down East?"

"Oh, in Hollywood, I suppose."

I'ce never been in Hollywo— . . . ." He stopped there.

"Well, tra la. Here's where Sadie hops along to paint the little old face. Perhaps I'll see you later. I'm not in the last play. I'll wander around back of the scats.

She was gone. With a new twist in the bewilderment of the day, Reed set off to find lodgings and put up his car. Then, for a time, he wandered by the ocean and looked out into the dimly starlight distance, thinking about the great islands and the vaster continental countries away out there that were to him as yet only yellow and green and bluff splotches on the back pages of the atlas. He'd like to go out there, some day . . Why not? He could if he choose. It was a ting ling thought. But did he want to go? Didn't he rather want more delicious days like this one that was rapidly slipping off into eternity? A day of surprise and charm. Adventure! You didn't have to go to Borneo for that. Any lunch room would do.

At about this time Hester and Sadie were making up at opposite sides of a folding table. A green shaded drop light hung between them. Hester held up the mirror for a few final touches with the lipstick.

In a dry guarded voice Sadie remarked, "You're the cute one, dear."

"Am I?"

"You and your old friend."

"It was a pick-up."

"Sure."

"I had to get here."

"Sure you did. But I didn't know they made that kind any more. Gran'pa's kind.'

"I didn't either," agreed Hester, patting her hair into place. "It's a little like having a lame puppy around. But I'm beginning to think he's a dear."

"I wouldn't mind stealing him from you at that."

"You're welcome to him. I've been thinking it might be a little awkward if he . . . is still around?"

"He was a little while back. I had a few well-chosen words with him.

"Hm!" mused Hester soberly.

"You're the cute one," said Sadie.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The answers to questions printed here each day are specimens picked from the mass of inquiries handled by the great information bureau maintained by The Review-Tribune in Washington, D. C. This valuable service is for the free use of the public. Ask any question of fact you may want to know and you will get an immediate reply. Write plainly, enclose two cents in stamps for return postage, and address The East Liverpool Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. What boxing champions have been dethroned this year? L. G.

A. They are: Harry Greb, Mickey Walker, Berlenbach, Rocky Kansas and Jack Dempsey.

Q. What percentage of the population of the earth is of the civilized races? D. A. H.

A. About one-sixth of the earth's population, comprising all of the Celtic, Slavic and Teutonic races, is civilized.

Q. Do horses differ in degree of intelligence? J. D. U.

A. They seem to. An intelligent horse shows considerable width between the eyes, which later are very prominent. A stupid horse is narrow between the eyes.

Q. Were many "unknown soldiers" brought to the United States? D. J.

A. The only one was the one who was buried as the "Unknown Soldier" in Arlington Cemetery.

Q. Does the tide come in earlier at Dover or at Cape Griz Nez? E. L. H.

A. The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey says that the tide at Cape Griz Nez, France, occurs about five minutes later than at Dover, England. The mean range of the tide at Cape Griz Nez is approximately 16.5 feet and at Dover 15 feet.

Q. Are city people more nearsighted than country people? A. G.

A. It is a recognized fact that city people are more nearsighted.

Q. What do squirrels eat? A. B. E.

A. The food of squirrels in the wild state includes, according to the time of the year, nuts and seeds, buds, mushrooms, insects, nestling birds, and fleshy fruits. In feeding caged squirrels it is necessary that they be given regularly some hard-shelled nuts, such as hickory nuts or butternuts, to keep their ever-growing incisor teeth firm in their sockets.

Q. Does the wind and frost make autumn leaves fall? P. G.

A. Leaves fall in autumn because at that time a layer of brittle cells grows across the base of the leaf stalk which cuts the leaf adrift. Wind and frost have no direct relation to leaf fall.

Q. What is an epigramme, as applied to food? E. M. L.

A. It is an entree containing two pieces of meat, generally cooked together but prepared in different ways—as, one breaded and one plain.

Q. What is meant by the "calling of the sea" in Tennyson's Enoch Arden. C. R. D.

A. The calling of the sea is an old English term for a groundswell. When this occurs on a still night the sound is sometimes heard for miles inland. Inhabitants of seaside towns looked on it as a summons by death. Tennyson refers to this phenomenon again in Crossing the Bar—"And one clear call for me."

Q. How many pounds of beef does it take to equal a quart of milk in food value? J. B.

A. The amount of beef necessary to equal in protein value a quart of milk is seven ounces of sirloin steak and six ounces of round steak; in energy, 11 ounces of sirloin steak and 12 ounces of round steak.

Q. Do more husbands or wives obtain divorces? H. B.

A. Statistics show that women have been the plaintiffs in the most divorce suit cases. In 1923 they constituted 67.8 per cent of plaintiffs. The ratio has scarcely changed since 1887. Cruelty is the chief cause of action, followed by desertion and unfaithfulness. Divorce have increased 31 per cent since 1916, but at no time have the divorces in a year out-numbered the marriages in the United States as a whole. The ratio was in 1925, one divorce to 7.2 marriages.

Q. Which are greater wrestlers, the Japanese or Chinese? O. D. B.

A. The art of wrestling has been brought to its greatest perfection in Japan where the well known jiu-jitsu is extensively practiced. The present system of jiu-jitsu is the Chinese system elaborated.

Q. How thick is the layer of gray matter which composes the brain? T. A. R.

A. In some places it is a quarter of an inch thick, while in the thinner parts it is but one tenth of an inch thick.

Q. How long will an asparagus bed produce? E. L. C.

A. A bed of asparagus will produce for a century but it is at its best between the third and sixth years.

Harvard-Yale Game Saturday Lacking In Traditional Glory

Remaining Members of Late Big Three Clash At New Haven

Once Great Teams, Dominating Grid Situation Through Years, Have Fallen Upon Low Estate; Victory by Either Outfit Will Mean Little to Football Situation in General.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Speaking of anti-climaxes, whether it was or not, the fact has been called to my attention that Harvard and Yale intend to play a football game at New Haven on Saturday. I think this is a fine idea. These teams of minor consequence should be encouraged.

Sooner or later, the two remaining members of the late Big Three may be good enough to get a place in the Big Twenty, composed largely of Notre Dame, Lafayette, Stanford, Alabama and kindred institutions, but it is generally understood that Rome wasn't built in an eight-hour day, with time and a half for overtime. We can't all be major teams.

Bearing Up Bravely.

Meantime, the Big Twenty is managing to bear up very bravely without assistance from Cambridge and New Haven. It being its policy to ask men, not whether their ancestors came over in the Mayflower, but whether they themselves ever went over for a touchdown. The answer usually is in the affirmative and it is repeated with pleasing regularity every Saturday or so.

O, why should the spirit of mortals be proud.

Harvard and Yale have been consoling themselves with the idea that they don't care who wins from them, just so they beat each other. I'm not particularly fond of bedtime stories.

This one is actually irritating. Did Yale care in the old days whether it lost to Upsala or Arkansas Teachers? I seem to feel that it would have frothed very elegantly at the mouth. Did Harvard worry whether Middlesex won? Harvard did, only it took good care that Middlesex lost and by the largest possible majority.

Fancied Superiority.

This is all that is left to Harvard and Yale, the false pride that prompts them to spoof themselves into a sense of fancied superiority, regardless of victory or defeat. These once great teams, dominating the situation through the eighties, nineties and the early years of the present century, have fallen upon so low an estate, speaking in a competitive sense, that they find it necessary to preach loudly the deoctrine of hokum. I didn't notice any Yale man trying to conceal the fact when the Bulldog won all of its games in 1924.

The situation has become such that few, outside of Harvard and Yale, will rush through the streets in great glee if either team scores a decisive victory on Saturday. I even doubt whether Harvard and Yale themselves will become unduly exercised.

Suppose Harvard beats Yale. A natural reaction would be negligible in effect. Didn't Brown, West Point, Maryland and Princeton beat Yale? They did. Suppose Yale beats Harvard. The Bulldog will be doing no more than Geneva, Holy Cross, Princeton and Brown did.

Each Has Won Three.

Each team has played seven games; each has won three. If it wasn't for the fact that Yale played a rush-over in Boston university and Harvard another in Tufts, both would have been outscored by the combined opposition.

If this pair is really serious about their superiority complex, why give the outsider a chance to spoil the illusion?

A season consisting of just one contest, the Harvard-Yale game, would achieve the desired effect and leave the principals with their dignity unimpaired.

May Play Hawaii.

HONOLULU, Nov. 17.—The University of Washington football team will be invited to play the University of Hawaii here during the Christmas holidays, Coach Otto Klum of the latter college announced today.

WAYNESBURG IN PATH OF BISON

Nuss Puts Green Through Session of Tackling.

BETHANY, W. Va., Nov. 17.—"Beat Waynesburg" is the cry of the Bethany college student body as the Green and White gridders are faithfully working out on college field in preparation for the tilt carded for Waynesburg, Pa., next Saturday afternoon. The Bisons to date have fared only mediocre, but if they can put across wins over Waynesburg and Geneva in the two closing tilts of the year, a successful season will have been duly realized by Coach Nuss, as well as the entire student body.

Not satisfied with the showing made in some instances in the Thiel game, the Bison mentor today opened up on the varsity and told them all just what was done right and what was done wrong. Then a long session was held in tackling, which lasted for fully an hour. Following this drill, in which the Green and White leader demanded a real showing from every man in the art of tackling and clipping, a scrimmage ensued for fully an hour and the Buffalo gridders were forced to put their instructions into actual operation.

Neel, Hagberg and Tinson were then detained, and punted until way after dark. Neel has done practically all of the kicking so far this year, but Coach Nuss is grooming another punter in case that Hump is injured. Hagberg and Tinton both kick well, but Neel's experience in this line, coupled with distance, give him the first call.

Waynesburg college will this year offer stubborn resistance to the lighter Bethany eleven, but followers of both institutions no doubt recall the plucky fight put up by both teams last year at Waynesburg, which ended in a 0-0 tie.

This game will mark the last time that Kinsey, Shives, Carey and Neel will appear on a Waynesburg gridiron, as all four will graduate next June.

COLUMBIANA USES ROOKIE GRIDDERS

Columbiana high's eleven, in its week-end clash at Salineville, covered itself with mud, if not glory, in a scoreless tie on a sloppy gridiron. On four occasions the Columbiana eleven penetrated to the Salineville five yard line, only to lose the ball on fumbles. Offensive efforts of both teams were minimized by the condition of the field.

Coach Miller, of Columbiana, tried out a number of his second string players with the possibility in view of using them in the next two hard games to come with Lisbon on the 19th and East Palestine on Thanksgiving day, both contests being slated at Columbiana. Barr was used at center for the first time this year, Detwiler, regular, being rested. Hoover alternated with Switzer at a guard position while Shillinger was used at Dowd's tackle. The latter played part of the game in the backfield at D. Zeiler's post.

Upon the results of the East Palestine and Lisbon games depends the success of Columbiana's season.

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

The triple threat star of the New York University backfield—one of the best molded quartets in the east if not in the country—is Jack Connors, nominated today for consideration as an all-American possibility. Connors is one of the men developed by Chick Meehan, former Syracuse star.

JACK CONNORS

C. R. MOESERM

Connors led the offensive which swamped West Virginia Wesleyan, Tulane, Rutgers and Fordham and then triumphed over Carnegie Tech 6 to 0. Victories which stamp the New York eleven as a great scoring machine as well as a powerful defensive eleven, as but 10 points were scored against New York U. in the games mentioned—seven by West Va. Wes. and three by Fordham.

Moeser's a beautiful tackler. While it is vital to have wingmen who can play a leading part in an arial attack this same end must be able to check similar advances around his corner. Moeser had let few men tear through his territory.

Princeton's line which checked Harvard before tackling the Yale Bulldog, boasts several good defensive players—men who prevented the Crimson from crossing the Princeton goal line just when Horween's team seemed set to shake the football world. One of the best defense men on the Tiger line is Moeser, right end.

His deadly tackling of Putnam of Harvard in that game paved the way for Princeton's touchdown. He hit Putnam so hard that the ball bounded out of the latter's arms and Lawler of Princeton recovered it and placed it within striking distance of Princeton's goal.

TWO BIG GAMES FOR COAST FANS

Notre Dame and U. S. C., in Feature Battle Dec. 4.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—Two great intersectional football conflicts will be exposed to the bold and brazen view of the sport-loving public in Southern California within the next six weeks.

A modern squad of Notre Dame Horsemen will try to ride The Thundering Herd of University of Southern California on December 4 at the Los Angeles Coliseum. This rodeo, which will show at their best, the football styles of the middle west and the Pacific coast, will be followed in less than a month by the classic Rose Bowl tournament for the mythical championship of the country.

Had not U. S. C. dropped a 12-13 decision to Pop Warner's Stanford team, the Notre Dame-Trojan conflict on December 4 might have the Rose Bowl clash a needless formality, like fingerbowls. The Trojans had hoped to enter the game champion of the west coast, and Notre Dame was expected to be an eastern contender for national honors.

As it happened, Coach Howard Jones' Trojans lost, not only because Stanford had the will to win and overcame a twelve point handicap, but also because Morley Drury, Star U. S. C. back and lord high executioner of the point-after-touchdown was out of the game with a wrenched knee. Laraeta, his substitute, missed both goals; Drury hasn't muffed two in a row all season.

Two styles of shift will be employed in the December 4 set-to. The Notre Dame backfield snaps into plays with the wooden soldier precision of a goose-step drill; the Trojan line rudely deploys itself with back to the enemy and swings about as the ball is passed.

A great presentation of the running game is also in prospect as Morton Kaer, Trojan quarterback, is one of the fastest and shiftiest ball lungers on the coast. Rockne's backfields are always capable performers in an open field.

As for the Rose Bowl contest itself, no teams have been definitely selected to represent the two far corners of the country. That will come when the season is over. Brown, however, it was admitted, is being watched with interest as an eastern candidate, whereas either Stanford or Washington State might make a fitting representative of the Pacific coast.

RANGERS WIN ICE TILT WITH CHAMPS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The New York Rangers, a new entry in the National hockey league, were leading the league today as a result of their 1 to 0 victory over the Montreal Maroons, champions of the world, before a packed house in Madison Square Garden last night. Bill Cook shot the winning goal.

The game was unusually rough. The league record of seventeen penalties was broken and a fight took place between Boucher of the Rangers and Phillips of the Maroons.

Pittsburgh Team Defeated.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17—The New York Americans today loom as a strong contender for national hockey league honors following their 1 to 0 victory over the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets here last night. Bouchard, a spare, made the winning marker.

The New York team excelled both on offense and defense.

CUEISTS BATTLE FOR WORLD CROWN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17—Ralph Greenleaf, former champion, now representing Philadelphia, and Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, will meet tonight to decide the world's championship in pocket billiards.

This was determined last night when Greenleaf created the sensation of the tournament by defeating Frank Tabersky, 1925 champion, by 125 to 0, tying Rudolph for the lead with seven victories and one defeat. Rudolph defeated Pasquale Natalie, representing Atlantic City, by 125 to 101.

EISMAN LANDS TOURNEY MATCH

G. Eisman broke into the winning column in the American Billiard tourney last night by defeating Trout in a close match, 100 to 97.

Shaffer and Rodebaugh will clash tonight.

ILLINOIS WON'T SANCTION BOUT

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—The Illinois boxing commission today refused to sanction the proposed Jack Delaney-Orlando Reyerberri match scheduled here for Nov. 26. The commission ruled the Italian is not a fit opponent for the light heavyweight champion.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

When you go on up with both arms from the point where the clubhead is about even with your waist, having withdrawn the club straight back from the ball, you will quickly observe that all the usual strain and tugging at yourself disappear from your back swing. You may begin to note, too, how little body twisting and body action as a whole there really are in the back swing. Going on up with the arms causes the pivoting to be in the shoulders mostly where it should be. This will convince you that there isn't nearly so much body turning in the swing as the average player thinks there is. Trying to twist and turn the body into the swing is what makes the effort difficult. This other way makes it simple and easy. The main thing is—take plenty of time with it.

STATE IS LAST GAME FOR PITT

Panthers Meet Lions on Thanksgiving Day.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 17.—The University of Pittsburgh eleven will bring its 1926 season to a close Thanksgiving Day when Penn State makes its annual appearance in the stadium here. The Panther-Lion series is rich in gridiron lore and has has come to be regarded as holding equal rank with the W. & J. game as one of the season's high lights. No game is scheduled for next Saturday.

State has not defeated Pitt since 1919 when the famous team captained by Bob Higgins ran away with a 20-0 victory that was featured by the historic forward pass thrown to Higgins from behind the Lion goal. The Lion leader raced the length of the field for a touchdown that has become one of the legends of football.

However, the Panthers are not anticipating a triumph this year. Last fall, following a campaign that was almost as disastrous as the one it has just passed through, the Bezdek-coached eleven came to Pittsburgh and gave Pitt one of the most spectacular battles of the year. Pitt won, 23 to 7, but even the most rabid Pitt follower did not believe that the score showed the even terms on which the rivals battled.

Pitt's season has been far from successful. The coaches have been forced to construct and reconstruct all season from among a squad of comparatively green players with the result that it was early November before the varsity was finally determined. The team, however, will be remembered as one of the hardest fighting units within memory. It has been outmatched several times, but has battled doggedly against opponents rated much more powerful. Few members of the squad will be lost by graduation, and Dr. Sutherland should have another strong eleven in 1927.

BLUES DEFEAT MIDLAND, 7-0

The East End Blues defeated the Midland Independents Sunday at Midland, 7 to 0.

Although outweighed the Blues played an effective brand of ball. The Blues scored in the first period. Midland kicked off. Brookes made four at tackle and Staats made a first down around right end. Dill and Brookes hit the line for five yards. A pass failed. Springer kicked and Suffoletta fumbled, White recovering for the Blues on the Midland 15 yard line. Brooks hit tackle for five yards. A pass, Dill to Boso, was good for the touchdown. Springer, McLaughlin, H. Brooks, Staats, Boso, Leek and Dill played good football for the winners.

JUNIOR TEAMS MEET ON GRID

Chester Sends Youthful Eleven to Parkersburg.

TAKING front rank among the outstanding grid events of the northern Panhandle district of West Virginia Saturday will be the clash between the junior high school elevens of Chester and Parkersburg, to be staged at the latter city as one of the first events of its kind in the northern section of the Mountain state.

The game will be staged in the new Parkersburg stadium. Outside officials of recognized caliber will be hired to work the contest. Youthful cheer leaders will gyrate along the sidelines. In fact, there will be all the markings of a regular "big league" game, the object of the entire plan being the promotion of junior athletics.

A squad of 16 Chester players will make the trip to Parkersburg under the direction of P. M. Skinner, principal and coach, and S. G. Rummell.

The squad will leave Friday at noon in a 21-passenger Canton line bus, going by way of Wheeling, Cambridge and Marietta.

The lads have been working out diligently for the past several days, with Coach Ray Wilde, of the high school team, assisting Skinner in shaping up the outfit for the contest.

In all likelihood, Skinner will use the following eleven as a starter: Ralph Springer, quarter; Oscar Johnson and Jack Wills, halves; James Sherwood, fullback; Ralph Hobbs, center; Richard Brown and John Harrison, ends; Frank Agness and Chester Tucker, tackles; Elmer Milby and Bill Aldredge, guards. The reserves will include Gale Davis, Bob Aldredge, William Damms, Thomas Blackmore and Wayne Swearingen.

The entire town is taking a big interest in the game and grid fans indicated their approval by contributing $50 out of their own pockets to make the trip possible.

The Chester kids have been playing for three years. Their record this season includes six consecutive victories, their victims being the Newell Junior high, Sixth Street, the Kickapoo Indians and Grant Street of East Liverpool. The Chesterites took three from Newell.

PENN IS GIVEN PRINCETON DATE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17.—Bill Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, has announced that University of Pennsylvania has been selected to take the place of Princeton on the Harvard football schedule. The first game will be played at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Nov. 5, next season. The Quakers will visit the stadium on Nov. 10, 1928.

GLIMPSES FROM THE SIDELINES

Off To Nebraska.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—New York University's undefeated football eleven leaves this afternoon for Lincoln, Neb., where the powerful Nebraska team will be met on Saturday. The Violet squad will work out on Stagg Field, Chicago, tomorrow and will reach Lincoln Friday morning.

Cates Helps Jones.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17. — Jack Cates, head coach at Bowdoin, is helping Tad Jones whip the Yale eleven into shape for the Harvard game Saturday. Cates, who was an all-American end, is concentrating on the wingmen.

May Lose Jobs.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17. — Al Miller, speedy back, Kilgour, guard, and French, back, face demotion to the scrubs in the impending shakeup on the Harvard varsity. Clark, Stewart and Guarnaccia probably will replace these players against Yale.

Stress Aerial Game.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Fordham's freshman eleven, equipped with Georgetown plays, will oppose the varsity in scrimmage today. The Maroon is stressing the aerial game for use against the Washington team on Saturday.

Fight Results

AT NEW YORK—Sammy Dorfman, of New York, won decision over Steve Smith, of Bridgeport, Conn., six rounds.

Johnny Green, of New York, won decision over Davey Abad, of Panama, six rounds.

AT AKRON, O.—Sammy Vogel, of New York, knocked out Tod Smith, of England, in the fifth round.

62 hrs. 8 min. total driving time

Driven by a representative of the Automobile Club of Washington, an absolutely stock Whippet Sedan left the Canadian border at 8 a. m. Friday, October 1st, for Mexico.

All conditions of traffic were encountered — storms in Oregon — fog in the Siskiyous — snow in the high mountains — city traffic — desert heat — traveling over the poorest of dirt roads and the very finest of pavements —never exceeding the speed limits—driving as you would drive.

Without mechanical adjustment of any kind, the Whippet arrived in Tia Juana, Mexico, at 2:17 p. m. Tuesday, October 5th, indicating the definite superiority of Whippet construction.

EAST END

BUXTON FUNERAL RITES THURSDAY

Funeral services for Richard Buxton, 79 years old, will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Ville, 919 St. George street, in charge of Rev. Dr. J. O. Campbell, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. J. G. Reinartz, D. D.; pastor of St. John's Lutheran church. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

GRAHAM RESIGNS STATE POSITION

Louis H. Graham, assistant state attorney general, has tendered his resignation to Governor Gifford Pinchot to take effect at an early date.

Graham, who served for a number of years as district attorney of Beaver county, plans to return there and resume his law practice.

CLUB MEMBERS HOLD MEETING

Members of the Y. G. I. G. club met Monday evening with Miss Maude Carpenter at her home in Michigan avenue. Following the business session a program was given which included a piano duet by Irene Reddick and Irene Lutton; solo, Miss Thelma Russell; piano solo, Gladys Carpenter. Guessing contest was won by Miss Elizabeth Drier.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Drier. The next meeting will be held in the home of Miss Irene Reddick, November 26.

Scouts to Meet.

Boy Scouts will meet Friday evening at 7:30 in the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church. The session will be in charge of the scoutmaster.

Lodge Members to Meet.

Members of Pennova lodge No. 880, I. O. O. F. will meet tomorrow night in the Hill building, Mulberry street. Routine business will be transacted.

Mid Week Services.

Mid week prayer services will be held tonight in the local churches. Pastors will have charge of the devotionals.

in Japanese history, or a representation of the Imperial Court with all the chief personages from the Mikado and Empress down.

Even the historic Red Cross doll, Miss Rose Percy, has not a more complete trousseau than many of the bride dolls of these Japanese children. These almond-eyed bride dolls have their "hope chests" which are made of exquisite lacquer and are filled with gorgeous silken kimonos and other necessities of one of their rank entering the holy state of matrimony.

There seems little doubt but that many of these family collections of dolls trace the history of the fashions of Japan. From this standpoint collections of dolls of any nation are particularly interesting to the feminine eye. The strange thing is that many times a doll which belonged to one's grandmother may look preposterous at one period and when viewed some years later will be found to contain many characteristics of the modern mode. This, of course, is more likely to be true in western countries than in those of the east, since the people of the latter have until comparatively recent years dressed in lavish and picturesque fashion.

The American Doll Messengers of Friendship who are to take part in this charming Japanese celebration will carry to the Flowery Kingdom the latest thing in American fashions. From the interest already displayed in the contest, it seems certain that those finally selected will be finished products to the last detail.

Principles of heredity are being applied to voices and scientists say that from the voice types of parents it is easy to predict the kind of voices of their children.
